LIBERTY BELLS PEAL ON RHINE FREED BY ALLIES

Last French Soldier Quits Germany.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 1 [Tuesday].—With liberty bells pealing from belfries, with fireworks soaring skyward, with bands playing, and singing masses marching in torchlight processions, and bonfires blazing, Germany at midnight is celebrating the liberation of the Rhineland from allied military occupation.

"Let this be a day of gratitude," was the plea of President von Hindenburg in a proclamation. "Loyalty to the fatherland, patient perseverance, and common sacrifices have restored to the occupied territory the highest possession of every people—freedom. Our first thought must be for those whom we owe everlasting thanks for the sacrifices made during the hard years of the occupation."

Greets People of the Saar.

In greeting the people of the Saar the president pledged to do everything in his power to reunite this district with the fatherland. Their nationality will be ultimately fixed by a plebiscite.

President von Hindenburg further exhorted the Germans to be "united in their endeavors to lead the fatherland to better days through peaceful means.

This plea was reëchoed throughout Germany as well as at a ceremony in the reichstag yesterday afternoon. In order to help the Rhineland and the Palatinate recuperate from its sufferings through occupation, reichstag parties asked the government to grant these districts an extra $5,000,000 for ten years.

German Police March In.

One of the most impressive jubilees was held in the old town of Speyer in the Palatinate, famous for its 900 year old cathedral. The bridge across the Rhine was ablaze with torches and flares when, at midnight, the town's hand picked police force of 660 men marched in. They are Bavarians, since the Palatinate is part of the Bavarian state.

Tens of thousands flocked to the water's edge along the Rhine, some going out in boats as the hour struck midnight. Others stood ashore, but all rejoiced and sang "Deutschland Ueber Alles," a song forbidden during allied rule.

The "Niederwald Denkmal" at Ruedesheim was illuminated for the first time in nearly 12 years, while thousands more drank toasts to the fatherland.

HAUL DOWN ALLIED COLORS

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MAINZ, Germany, June 30.—France's watch on the Rhine ended today. The solemn ceremony of hauling down the tricolor was the sole formality observed. Thousands watched the proceedings silently and mutely followed the march of the battalion of French soldiers in horizon blue to the station.

The final phase of the military evacuation began in Wiesbaden at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The inter-allied Rhineland commission, which has headquartered at Wiesbaden since September when the headquarters were moved from Coblenz, closed shop. A batalion of French troops lined up on Kaiserstrasse in front of the commission's building where three flags floated—Belgian, British and French.

The regimental band broke into the "Brabanconne" and the Belgian flag slowly descended. Then the military band played "God Save the King" and the Union Jack slid down the halyards. It was a tense moment as the strains of the "Marseillaise" burst into the air and the tricolor floated down.

1,000 Frenchmen Depart.

The inter-allied high commissioner, Paul Tirard, bade adieu to Lejune Demunsbach and Mr. Herbertson, representing the Brussels and London governments, and Baron Langworth von Simmern, the German delegate.

The officials then motored across the Rhine bridge to Mainz.

With fixed bayonets, wearing steel hats, and carrying full marching equipment of naversacks and blanket rolls, 1,000 French soldiers marched down the Grosse Bleizse to the railroad station. At 1:30 o'clock the trains rolled out towards France without incident, and thus ended more than 11 years and 7 months of occupation.

Election Today

WHERE TO VOTE—3,009 polling places within city. Open 6 a. m. to 4 p. m.

PROPOSAL—Shall the ordinance providing for comprehensive, unified local transportation system be approved?

QUALIFIED VOTERS—All Chicago citizens on registration books at April primary. Those who have moved may vote by affidavit signed by themselves and one registered householder.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The campaign for and against the proposed transportation ordinance ended yesterday with a demonstration by both sides in the loop and in important community centers. In addition each side turned out some final typed arguments. The referendum will be held today.

Using four autos equipped with amplifiers, the opponents traversed the loop during the noon hour appealing orally to the voters. The Chicago Real Estate board, putting on a parade of 500 autos, proclaimed that the "traction settlement means real estate prosperity."

Advocates Sure of Victory.

The advocates of the ordinance are confident of winning. Estimates of the size of the lead vary from 2¼ to 1 to 3½ to 1. A total of 252 civic, labor, and business organizations have indorsed the ordinance and less than 20 have announced their opposition. No politicians with ward followings, with three exceptions, among either Democrats or Republicans have announced their opposition.

There has been little betting on the result and wagering has been confined to the size of the majority for the ordinance rather than whether it will win or loose. The rise in transit securities on the stock exchange shows the opinion of La Salle street. In a word, every index indicates that the voters will approve of the franchise by a decisive majority.

Opponents Still Hopeful.

But the opponents asserted that they are still hopeful of success, and especially so if a large vote is polled. Carl D. Thompson said that the opposition has made large inroads in the last ten days. Harold L. Ickes issued a last appeal to the voters to go to the polls. Donald R. Richberg urged the electorate to get out today. But all of the surface indications are that the opposition is not organized, except in a few spots, to get the voters to the polls.

Mayor Thompson issued a proclamation closing the city hall for the day.

County Judge Jarecki put city officials on the anxious seat yesterday for three hours. The judge insisted that cash must be provided to pay the judges and clerks when they finish their work. The city has to supply the cash appropriated 40 days ago for the special election.

Hooker Fights Ordinance.

Among the last appeals for votes against the ordinance is one from George E. Hooker. He says that the time allowed for the consideration of the report is grossly inadequate.

"This adroit restriction of the opportunity for examination is an abuse of the referendum principle and deserves rebuke," he stated. "What does the ordinance itself do? It applies to transit the revolutionary —and in Illinois unconstitutional— principle of perpetuity, and does so through monopoly on a colossal scale. It guards the public interest by no devices more assuring than those heretofore found disappointing."

Richberg's Last Plea.

Mr. Richberg, in his final appeal for votes against the franchise, said: "The ordinance values the existing properties at $260,000,000 and it is claimed that over $200,000,000 more will be spent on extensions and improvements. Under the ordinance the people of Chicago must pay an annual interest charge of seven to eight per cent of this $460,000,000 as part of the agreed price of transportation service. They must pay an interest charge which they are assured will

SENATOR SMOOT TO WED THE WIDOW OF A MORMON BISHOP

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 30.—(AP) —Senator Reed Smoot of Utah and Mrs. Alice Taylor Sheets, prominent church and social leader of Salt Lake City, will be married shortly and probably leave on July 19 for a honeymoon trip to Honolulu.

The veteran Utah senator this morning called newspaper men to his office here and said:

"Last night I asked Mrs. Sheets to become my wife and she did me the honor to accept."

Mr. Smoot's wife died more than a year ago in Washington. Mrs. Sheets, widow of Edwin S. Sheets, a bishop in the Latter Day Saints' (Mormon) church, who died in 1918, has been active in church and social affairs here for many years.

The marriage ceremony will be performed in the temple here, Mr. Smoot being an apostle of the church.

WHILE CHERRIES HOLD OUT THIS PARROT DINES

Housewives in the 1800 block on Farwell avenue held a conference over their back fences yesterday to determine just what they should do about a certain yellow and green parrot with a marked taste for ripe cherries.

The backyards in the south side of that block are luxuriant in cherry trees, and the housewives, celebrated for their cherry pies. The parrot, whose origin is unknown to the women, as if well aware of the excellence of the cherries, flew into the backyard and the cherry tree of Mrs. J. H. Peavler, 1821 North Farwell, a week ago and ate slowly but steadily.

Since that time it has visited other backyards and other cherry trees in the block, and for the last two days has settled among the ripe cherries in the yard of Mrs. Alma Hoffman, 1831 Farwell avenue.

Charges Beverage Maker Broke Jaw; Asks $100,000

Ocean Flyers Visit Chicago on Wednesday

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—[Special.] — The Southern Cross, conqueror of two oceans, with the crew of four who flew from Ireland to Long Island, will visit Chicago Wednesday afternoon. The giant trimotored Fokker, Maj. Charles Kingsford-Smith announced tonight upon his return from Washington, will take off from Roosevelt field at 7 a. m., Wednesday, New York daylight time, with the Municipal airport in Chicago as its first stop on a flight to San Francisco to complete a round the world journey for the sturdy old sky wagon.

The Southern Cross fliers will spend the night in Chicago and leave early Thursday for Salt Lake City, flying on the following day to San Francisco.

Wants to See Endurance Flyers.

The decision to abandon the proposed non-stop flight to the Pacific coast and return to his original schedule was made after Maj. Kingsford-Smith read weather reports late today.

"I do not want to overload the ship and as we probably will encounter head winds I am going to make the trip in three hops. Anyhow, I wanted to stop by Chicago where fliers stay up in one plane for weeks at a time.

"We ought to make the trip to Municipal airport in eight and one-half or nine hours if the winds are not bad. I would like to get in as early as possible for I have a bit of broadcasting to do and then, too, I would like to get a good night's sleep. You know one has to sleep on these long flights."

Will Speak over W-G-N.

At 7:30 p. m. [Chicago time] Wednesday Maj. Kingsford-Smith will speak over station W-G-N. The talk will be about his flight across the Atlantic and will go over the National Broadcast network as a part of the Mobiloil hour.

Evart Van Dyk, the co-pilot of the Southern Cross, was enthusiastic about the Chicago visit as were Capt. J. Patrick Saul, the navigator and J. W. Stannage, youthful radio operator.

The Southern Cross fliers returned to New York late today from a trip to Washington where they were received by President Hoover and Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador. The flight was made in a 32 passenger Fokker plane. Bernt Balchen, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's pilot of the south pole, and Eddie Rickenbacker, world war aviator, made the trip with the trans-Atlantic fliers.

SEIZE FORMER DRY AGENT AND STOLEN LIQUOR

In a raid on the Roma inn, a roadhouse of unsavory reputation at 2438 West 95th street, Evergreen Park, Police Lieutenant Walter Healy and a squad of Chicago detectives late last night recovered part of the $100,000 liquor loot seized from a government warehouse on Monday night and arrested an ex-prohibition agent whom they suspect as the leader of the warehouse robbery.

Although the Roma inn is beyond the city limits, Lieut. Healy, attached to the Gresham police district, was accustomed to inspect the Roma inn premises regularly because the place was a known resort of criminals, he said. With his squad, the lieutenant stopped there about 11 p. m.

The bartender, Kerwin Over, handed him the keys of the cellar. The squadmen searched the basement and found nothing. Then they searched outside and, pushing back the door of a one car garage, came upon 102 cases of Indian Hill and Gold Medal whisky, the same brands as those among the 1,600 cases taken from the government warehouse at 5210 South Wabash avenue.

Arrested with the bartender were James Fern, former prohibition agent; Joseph Roma, proprietor of the inn; Roma's wife, Edna, and "Scotty" Brown, a waiter. Paul Perry, night watchman at the warehouse, who admitted the robbers, has been recommended for suspension by Assistant Prohibition Administrator George Hurlburt, who admitted the robbery appeared to have been "an inside job."

Any One Seeing Preston, Note False Mustache

Henry Selz, an investment broker, of 2130 Lincoln Park West last night asked the Hudson avenue police to try to find his son, Preston, 16, who, he said, ran away early yesterday morning because he resented a reproof administered by his father at the breakfast table. He described Preston as weighing 140 pounds, 6 feet 3 inches in height, and carrying a suitcase with foreign travel labels on it. He said he would probably be wearing a false mustache, as he likes to fool people.

Bind Man, Wife, and Son in Home; Get $5,000 Loot

Three men entered the home of Charles Helmer, 2531 North Talman avenue, last night after he had answered the doorbell, bound him and Mrs. Helmer and their son with stockings and towels, cut the telephone wires, and then ransacked the apartment. They took rugs, silverware, and all the family jewelry. Mr. Helmer estimated the loss at $5,000.

20 Days in Air; Pilots Hope to Stay 5 More

BY ROBERT WOOD.

After 20 days in the air over Sky Harbor, the Hunter boys, Kenneth and John, flying the record holding refueling endurance plane City of Chicago, yesterday began to think about coming back to earth again. But as the plane flew on into the night there was no word from the flying brothers about setting a day for their return to the ground. Some members of the ground crew, however, talked of a landing on Saturday.

As the hours wore on and the performance of the plane and its motor continued without change it became more apparent to the ground crew that the flyers would not attempt to stick it out until the motor finally faltered. But all were confident that they would stay up for several days yet, barring mishaps.

Long Note Is Received.

Yesterday afternoon the flyers threw down a long note, but its contents were kept secret. Albert Hunter, who picked it up, said the principal part of the message dealt with fuel supplies.

"They asked for 75 more gallons of gas on the next refueling contact," he said. "In the rest of the note they just were figuring out things." It was learned, however, that the boys discussed the possibility of setting a day for their descent. Albert wrote a long reply.

"Unless something unexpected happens I don't think they will come down before the Fourth of July, anyway," said Walter Hunter, the fourth brother, who flys the refueling plane. "But you can't always tell." Others on the ground crew set Saturday as the limit of the endurance test.

Watch for Signs of Defects.

Wilson Herron, one of the backers of the flight, declared he would order the plane down on the first indication that serious defects in either plane or motor is developing.

It was pointed out that 20 days in the air without the usual care of struts, wires, mountings, and motor might cause trouble to develop. Most airplane motors are checked and repaired after each 50 hours and thoroughly gone over after each 200.

At 2:40 o'clock this morning the City of Chicago had been aloft for 466 hours, 46 hours beyond the previous mark. Aside from cursory greasing and tightening from time to time when Kenneth Hunter crawls out on the catwalks, the engine has had no attention.

Faces Perilous Task Today.

Kenneth Hunter who does the perilous climbing about outside of the ship because of his early training in wing-walking and parachute jumping, today will likely make a hazardous trip to the tail of the plane to remove a possible cause of grave danger.

During the 169 refueling contacts packages of letters, papers, string, and other débris were torn from the end of the rope with which supplies are lowered to the plane and have been blown aft, catching in the wires and the rudder and stabilizer in the tail assemblage—where there is danger of clogging the controls.

Must Slide to Tail of Ship.

In notes dropped yesterday Kenneth said he will attempt to crawl out of the hatch in the top of the fuselage, straddle the top of the cabin and slide back ten feet to the tail with nothing but a rope to hold to. A rope for this purpose was lowered to the flyers last evening.

He will wear no parachute, for it would hamper his movements.

BULLETIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 30.—(Special.)—Detectives from the Los Angeles district attorney's office, working with two Chicago detectives, arrested Mrs. Frank Foster in an apartment near West Lake park today. The woman was detained in the district attorney's office all afternoon and sent out under the care of Patrolwoman Marjorie Fairchild to a downtown hotel tonight. While another squad of eight men sought the rendezvous of her husband, Frankie Foster, sought for questioning about the murder of Alfred Lingle in Chicago.

There were reports that Foster and another man had been located. These were unconfirmed.

In a series of four raids yesterday and last night the police and State's Attorney Swanson's men, working in concert, struck at the Moran-Aiello gang, operators of a north side liquor, vice and gambling syndicate.

Fifteen prisoners, including two women were taken. Nine prisoners, including one of the women, were seized by Pat Roche, chief investigator for Mr. Swanson, in downtown Moran-Aiello headquarters in the McGraw-Hill building, 520 North Michigan avenue. In this raid Roche trapped a Moran gunman who the police believe has knowledge of the slaying of Alfred Lingle, TRIBUNE reporter.

Secrecy Is Maintained.

Pursuant to Acting Commissioner Alcock's policy of "action not talk," secrecy attended the raids. Developments indicated, however, that the murder of Lingle was a factor in all the arrests. The prisoners were held for secret questioning by the state's attorney.

The Moran gunman trapped in the Michigan avenue raid is Grover Dullard, formerly chauffeur for Terry Druggan, co-head of the Druggan-Lake beer syndicate and more recently a house man at the Sheridan-Wave club, palatial gambling casino at Sheridan road and Waveland avenue. Another important figure in the roundup was Jack Zuta, reputed manager of the Moran-Aiello vice operations.

Mere chance brought about the capture of Dullard. Roche, for several days had the Michigan avenue Moran headquarters under surveillance and Dullard was reported to be the man he wanted most.

Dullard Walks Into Trap.

Uncertain whether Dullard would be found there, Roche sent his men into the offices yesterday afternoon, fearing further delay might bring exposure of his plans to the gangsters. Dullard walked in while the raid was in progress.

Significant in Dullard's arrest was the report that he had been seen in the Hotel Sherman lobby at 1 p. m. on June 9, about the hour Lingle left the hotel on a trip that ended in his death in the Illinois Central tunnel at Randolph street and Michigan avenue.

It was also reported that Dullard frequented a smoke shop at which Lingle often called and that Dullard's habit was to check his pistol there each morning before venturing into the loop. A special holster pocket was found in the lining of the coat Dullard wore when arrested yesterday.

As the raiders broke in some one tossed out the window a ledger which, when later retrieved, was found to bear 150 names, presumably the Moran-Aiello pay roll lists. Miss Henrietta Smith, self-described telephone operator, was among the nine taken to the detective bureau.

Other Prisoners Seized.

Others seized were Walter Maddox, who announced himself a resident of Miami and denied relationship with Claude Maddox, a Capone gangster reputed to have staged the Valentine day massacre; Joe O'Brien, 7604 South Union street; Carl Bertram, 616 Rush street; Joe Duffy, 7249 Prairie avenue; Mortimer Owens, 728 Sheridan road; Edward Anderson, 712 Diversey boulevard, and Charles Freeman, 7738 South Green street.

Roche sent another squad to the Commonwealth hotel, 2757 Pine Grove avenue. Arrested there were C. Conrad, 434 Roscoe street, and William Cohen, 3859 West Chicago avenue. Roche said both had frequented the raided Michigan avenue headquarters.

Zuta and a companion, who identified himself as Art Blatz, were captured about 6 p. m. in a raid conducted by a detective bureau squad. Hatless and in their shirt sleeves, they were brought to the bureau at 6 p. m. and for five hours were held incommunicado until at 11 p. m. Roche whisked them away to the Temple building, headquarters of the Lingle murder investigation.

As Zuta and Blatz were leaving the bureau another squad brought in Zuta's vice partner, Al Vision, and a woman whom Vision and the squad men addressed as "Babe." The squad men said they were under orders not to divulge the location of the apartments in which Zuta, Blatz, Vision, and the woman had been seized.

Employed by Kauffman.

At the Sheridan-Wave club Dullard had for employers Julius (Potatoes) Kauffman and Joey Josephs, who are reputed to have had trouble with Lingle. Dullard was slated for questioning by Charles F. Rathbun, special assistant state's attorney in charge of the Lingle investigation.

Zuta, once a power in the Capone organization, switched his allegiance a year ago to the Moran-Aiello gang and thereby, in police opinion, became an ally and associate of Dullard. The prosecutor's office made no statement about the arrests, but permitted reporters to draw the inference that Zuta had been seized in the Lingle inquiry.

THE LINGLE CASE

Who killed Jake Lingle and why?

This question, yielding to a myriad of answers, of rumors, innuendos and gossip, has become the most absorbing topic of conversation in clubs, homes, town meetings, street corners and in the press.

Alfred J. Lingle, $65 a week reporter of THE TRIBUNE, was shot in the back of the head as he walked through the Illinois Central tunnel under Michigan boulevard at Randolph street, on June 9, three weeks ago.

Agree on Secrecy.

In the beginning it was agreed between the state's attorney, the coroner and the police that secrecy should be maintained in the search for the killers, so that important clews might not be "tipped off" to the underworld. The newspapers were urged to adopt a policy of printing only such news as was released by State's Attorney Swanson. So far the only news so given out has been a detailed statement of Lingle's financial antics, and it has been announced that the release of news of the crime itself would prove of serious detriment to the investigation.

However, the drift of scandal concerning the activities of Lingle has gone so deep, without any of it having been officially sifted for the public to determine its truth or falsity, that a general review of the rumors and reports is herewith presented.

Flood of Clews Received.

Many bits of information, some in response to the offer of rewards totaling $55,825, have been received by THE TRIBUNE, and all of these have been delivered to Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun and Chief Investigator P. J. Roche.

Most of these "tips" have been proved false, it is stated, but beyond this statement nothing has been given out by the state's attorney's office as to the results of this part of the inquiry.

Rumors of Fixing.

Since his death Lingle has become dubbed Chicago's "unofficial chief of police." He has been called a fixer for gamblers, dog track promoters and gangsters in general, and a go-between, procuring for underworld characters special privileges at the hands of police officials and politicians.

The story is spreading that a number of newspaper reporters have been accepting or extorting hush money from underworld characters and that Lingle was not the only one marked for death on June 9.

Some of the newspapers have published news articles purporting to name the killers who are being sought by the authorities, and to outline motives for the crime.

Reports Are Unofficial.

The matters discussed herein have not been revealed by the state's attorney's staff, but the reports have been bandied about so freely that it is deemed proper that a rather full résumé should be given the public for what news value these reports, some of which may be true, may have.

The revolver with which Lingle was murdered was picked up at the scene, and, according to reports, it has been identified through a system of reproducing the original numbers on the gun by an etching process.

The manufacturer of the revolver, it is reported, sold it to Peter Von Frantzius, dealer in firearms and sporting goods at 608 Diversey parkway. Von Frantzius previously has confessed selling the machine guns used in the St. Valentine's day massacre of the Moran gang and to selling other weapons to gangsters.

The Frank Foster Story.

It is said that Von Frantzius has told the authorities in this case that he sold the weapon which killed Lingle to Frank Foster, a gunman formerly associated with the Moran gang but more lately reported to have switched to the gang of Scarface Al Capone. The reports give various reasons for connecting Foster with the Lingle murder, among which are that enemies of Foster had obtained his revolver and had deliberately planted it after the murder to cast suspicion upon him, and another that Capone himself decided upon the murder of Lingle and that Foster supplied the weapon.

Another theory, which cropped up at the beginning of the inquiry, concerns threats against Lingle made by John J. "Boss" McLaughlin, former legislator recently identified with gambling rackets.

McLaughlin, it was said, had sought the aid of Lingle in obtaining permission from the police to open a gambling resort at 606 West Madison street, and when Lingle, who was an intimate friend of many years' standing of former Police Commissioner William F. Russell, refused to intercede for McLaughlin, the latter is said to have threatened to "catch up" with Lingle.

$55,825 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,825 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter. The information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in Room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Story of Fortune False.

It was revealed early in the inquiry that the explanation which Lingle had given for possessing large sums of money at all times, which was that he had inherited it from relatives and won it in the stock market, was false.

Supporting Lingle's assertions that he had made many a sizable profit on the stock market was his association with Arthur Cutten, millionaire operator. Lingle had been of great aid to Mr. Cutten in the latter's private search for the robber gang which looted his country home near Lombard and imprisoned Mr. Cutten and members of his household in a vault in which they might have suffocated.

Mr. Cutten launched a determined search for the gang, and in the years of patient detective work which he financed he succeeded in having the gang rounded up and sent to prison.

Lingle, through his friendship with police officials, had the detectives assigned to the case. Mr. Cutten had expressed his appreciation of this help from Lingle, and the latter, during the time he was visiting the millionaire at his home and office, was wont to drop occasional remarks among his associates to indicate that Mr. Cutten gave him valuable information concerning his operations in the stock market. Mr. Cutten, since the murder, has denied this.

For a time the authorities considered the possibility that Lingle may have been killed by relatives or intimates of the robbers sent to prison, in revenge for his activities in Mr. Cutten's behalf.

Source of Funds Hidden.

While many of Lingle's supposed sources of funds have been discussed, few have yet been uncovered by the state's attorney, as he revealed in his report issued last Saturday. It was shown that he borrowed sums, some large, more of them small, from friends.

This problem of uncovering the sources of Lingle's income has led to many theories being advanced which would provide a motive for his murder.

It has been widely published that the murder of Lingle was committed by James "Red" Forsyth, known as a bad man and as a gangster affiliated with the "north side mob" of George "Bugs" Moran.

Forsyth is known as an associate of Simon J. Gorman, former labor official and owner of a trucking company, and of Frank Noonan, a labor racketeers, and each of these three, it is said, is the object of a nation-wide search instituted by the state's attorney.

Convicted of Toting Guns.

Forsyth and Gorman were arrested on a previous occasion and charged with carrying concealed weapons. Judge John H. Lyle sentenced them to the Bridewell, telling them at the time that they were dangerous men and should be imprisoned. Appeals were taken, which recently were dismissed in the upper courts, but Forsyth and Gorman have not been apprehended.

Forsyth was arrested at another time in a police raid upon a loop headquarters of the Moran gang, but at that time he obtained his freedom when he was found to be on the pay roll of Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson. On every occasion of Forsyth and Gorman being in trouble, political pressure has been brought to bear to extricate them, it is reported.

It is charged that Forsyth and Noonan were used by Gorman as strong arm men who sought to establish Gorman as the undisputed czar of cleaners and dyers' unions, and it has been stated that opponents to the Gorman rule over the unions have been murdered.

Motives Discussed.

As for a motive which might lead Forsyth to kill Lingle there have been several advanced, of which the leading one is that the Moran gang, by killing Lingle, struck at the rival Capone gang.

The Moran gang is said to have been in sorry straits since seven of its members were slain in the St. Valentine's day massacre. It is said that other members have been murdered, that the gang's territories in the peddling of beer and booze have been invaded by rival gangsters, its dog track venture ran afoul of the state's attorney's interference, and that its gambling and drinking places have frequently been raided and wrecked by police squads.

On the other hand, it has been reported that the Capone gang enjoyed prosperity, and that its operations were winked at by the police.

Lingle and Capone.

Lingle was described as a friend; perhaps an intimate, of Scarfare Alphonse Capone. He visited Capone at the gangster's estate on Palm island, Miami Beach, in Florida, and it was reported that the diamond belt buckle which Lingle wore had been a present from Capone. Lingle certainly was an intimate of Police Commissioner Russell, and in the light of his post-mortem cognomen as the "Unofficial Chief of Police," it may have been argued by the harassed Moran gangsters that Lingle was their nemesis.

By his murder, it is argued along this theory, Capone would be ruined in his chances of further operating in Chicago. Russell would be ousted, and perhaps after things quieted down, the Moran gangsters were reported to have argued, they would be able to start in quietly operating again.

Attorney Richberg's Attack.

Lingle's friendship with Capone has repeatedly been urged in questioning his honesty. Attorney Donald R. Richberg, speaking recently before the City club of Chicago, was quoted as follows:

"The close relationship between Jake Lingle and the police department has been published in the Chicago papers. Out of town newspapers describe Lingle even more bluntly as having been 'the unofficial chief of police of Chicago.' But Lingle was also strangely intimate with Al Capone, our most notorious gangster.

"Surely all Chicago knows that Samuel Ettelson, Mr. Insull's political lawyer, who is corporation counsel of Chicago, is also the chief operator of the city government. Thompson is only a figurehead. Are we to believe that there existed an unofficial chief of police associating with the most vicious gang in Chicago, without the knowledge of Mr. Ettelson—who is neither deaf nor blind, but, on the contrary, has a reputation of knowing everything worth knowing about city hall affairs?

"Newspapers have reported in detail an enormous income obtained by Lingle from unknown sources—perhaps a natural result of being an 'unofficial chief of police' and a friend of gangsters plundering the town."

Russell's Friendship.

Former Commissioner Russell, who resigned at the height of a public clamor against crime conditions, has been questioned by Prosecutor Rathbun, but the latter has issued no statement specifically describing the interview with Russell. However, in some quarters the inference has been drawn that the solution of the Lingle murder depended upon Russell's financial connection with Lingle. The reports have it that Russell was asked by the prosecutor whether he extended special favors to Lingle and to Lingle's friends.

Russell repeatedly has denied that Lingle either sought or obtained any favors from the police department.

SHERIDAN WAVE CLUB

Another theory advanced places the blame for the Lingle murder in connection with a gambling resort at 621 Waveland avenue, known as the Sheridan Wave club. As the story goes, this place in the winter of 1928-29 was one of the most fashionable and prosperous gambling places in the city. Its patrons came in formal dress.

A lookout's most rigid inspection through a slot in the outside door preceded the players' admission to the gaming precincts. Once admitted, the "guest" was not permitted to purchase food or drink. If he wanted a highball, it was served him free. If his tastes ran to champagne, he got champagne. Liveried lackeys served trays of food.

The play ran high, many thousands of dollars being passed across its tables every night. It was generally known in gambling circles that the place was operated for the profit of the Moran gang.

Massacre Shuts Resort.

With the massacre and disintegration of the Moran gang, the place was closed, but ever since that time, for a year and a half, according to reports, strenuous efforts have been made by Moran gangsters to obtain official permission to reopen.

Recent reports have drawn Lingle into the negotiations for the reopening of the gambling resort. The place had been in charge of Joey Josephs, a well known gambler, and Julius "Potatoes" Kaufman. The latter has been known as a long time acquaintance or friend of Lingle, and is reported by the Chicago Daily News to have approached Lingle in the hope of obtaining permission from the police to relaunch the Sheridan Wave club.

According to one report in the Daily News "Boss" McLaughlin, previously mentioned as having threatened Lingle for the latter's refusal to intercede with the police in getting an okay on another gambling place, had been engaged by the Moran gang to make a satisfactory contact with the state's attorney's office.

Report Graft Demand.

Then, as this Daily News report has it, Josephs and Kaufman went to a police official, whose name is withheld, and said:

"We have the O. K. from the west side. How about you?"

"It's all right if Lingle is cut in," was the reply, if this published report is authentic.

Then, so the rumor runs, Lingle is supposed to have called upon Josephs and Kaufman and demanded 50 per cent of the profits. Kaufman violently refused, the report has it, and the place was not opened.

According to another report, this in the Chicago Herald and Examiner, Lingle demanded $15,000 in cash from the two gambler promoters, and when this supposed demand was refused Lingle is reported in this rumor to have replied that "if this joint is opened up you will see more squad cars in front ready to raid it than you ever saw in your life before."

The grand opening of the Sheridan Wave club had been extensively advertised, in sporting circles, as to take place on the night of June 9. Lingle was murdered that day. The place did not open that night.

Raid on Biltmore Club.

Three days before the murder, according to the Herald and Examiner, the detectives on the staff of State's Attorney Swanson, at the direction of Investigator Roche, had raided the Biltmore Athletic club, 2021 West Division street, another supposed gambling house.

Within an hour after the raid, according to the report, Lingle was seeking frantically to talk with Roche over the telephone. Roche refused to talk with Lingle, it is said, and the reporter met Roche the next day.

"You have put me in a terrible jam," Lingle told Roche, it is said. "I told that outfit they could run, but I didn't know they were going to go with such a bang."

ONE SUSPECTED CHECK

In all of the checks issued by Lingle from his account at the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank, only one was of a nature to arouse the suspicion of the investigators, and that was one for $500, made payable to cash, and endorsed by Police Capt. Daniel Gilbert.

Gilbert told Assistant State's Attorney Rathbun, according to the latter's official report, that he had chanced to mention to Lingle that he was unable to pay his insurance premium, and that Lingle had insisted upon his accepting the $500 check.

Other published interviews quote Capt. Gilbert as saying that he had advanced Lingle a loan of $500, and that the check was in payment of the loan.

The income tax department of the United States government is reported by the Chicago American to be investigating Lingle's financial affairs, for it is said that the reporter has never filed a schedule of his earnings with the government.

Phone Calls Traced.

Telephone calls made by Lingle from his suite at the Stevens hotel, where he lived at a cost of $8 a day, have been traced by the investigators, it is reported, with the result that many calls have been found made to officials in the federal building, county building, and city hall.

Of the loans supposed to have been negotiated by Lingle, most of them have been discussed by State's Attorney Swanson in the Rathbun report. One rumor which the investigators were unable to substantiate was that Sam Hare, owner of the Dells, a Morton Grove roadhouse and formerly a gambling resort, and operator also of the Dells Winter club at 4646 Drexel boulevard, another gambling place, had loaned Lingle $20,000.

Hare has been variously reported as denying that he ever loaned Lingle a penny, and as admitting that Lingle had borrowed small sums of $100 and $200 at the racetracks, but had always paid them back.

Another report, in the Daily News, has it that the $20,000 was not loaned by Sam Hare at all, but that there had been a confusion of names, and that perhaps Edwin O'Hare, former head of the Laramie Kennel club backed by Scarface Capone, was meant. O'Hare has not been interviewed as yet.

THE DOG TRACK STORY

Still another motive is offered in new rumors. This has it that Lingle was used by Capone to protect his dog tracks and to keep them operating. The state's attorney's office, by repeated raids, upset this program, and although for a time the tracks operated under an injunction issued by Judge Harry Fisher, the Supreme court finally ruled that dog racing in Illinois was illegal.

Capone is quoted by both the Daily News and the Herald-Examiner as saying to Lingle:

"Well, the racket is through, and as far as I'm concerned, so are you."

A Double Barreled Theory.

Under this sort of theory, which is offered by the Daily News without the least substantiation, Lingle was no more than a fixer for Capone, and when Lingle ceased to be useful to Capone the latter decided to have him killed. This report goes on to say that Lingle might have been killed for revenge by the dog track interests because Lingle had accepted large sums on a promise that he would use enough influence to keep the dog tracks open.

"The closing of the dog tracks," said this unverified report, "cost gangsters at least $1,000,000 a year. The sums given to Lingle, according to report, ranged from $20,000 to $100,000."

In the same Daily News article it was stated that "investigators are trying to corner reports prevalent in the loop for months that $5 a barrel excise tax was being levied by Lingle on loop beer for the 'fix.'" The article then states:

"They [the investigators] were trying also to discover who gave the 'word for the hall' that has stopped and started the beer taps working in the loop at intervals for the last two years."

Still another rumor given the light of publicity was one that the Moran gang had tried to retain Lingle to bolster their dying business.

Silver Deposit Is Mystery.

There was one deposit in the long list of deposits made by Lingle in the Lake Shore bank indicating that $200 in silver had been placed in his account. An effort was made to learn whether the deposit slip had been erroneously filled out and that the $200 had really been in currency, as all of Lingle's other deposits were. But in other quarters, particularly the Daily News, the inference was spread that the silver was part of the proceeds from slot machines operated by the hoodlum band, some of whose members were indicted but none of whom were convicted.

Jimmy Mondi, a gambler who knew Lingle for years, has admitted arranging for a $2,000 loan for the reporter. Immediately a report was circulated in the Daily News concerning a mysterious stock brokerage account in the defunct Harry Massey company.

The account was listed as the "R & M. account," and one newspaper story put the inference upon this that it was a joint account of former Police Commissioner Russell and Mondi. The only evidence cited in the story was that a trader for the firm had vehemently denied that the "R" in the account represented Russell.

Sisters Are Interviewed.

Lingle's acquaintance with three sisters, who operate a millinery establishment at the Stevens hotel, has also been made the subject of newspaper interviews. Viola Daniels, one of the sisters, was quoted as saying that she and her sisters had loaned Lingle $2,000 to bolster his stock market losses.

The brokerage records of Stein, Alstrin & Co. indicate that Lingle guaranteed an account opened under the name "Daniels sisters," and that at times he had deposited money in the account. A loss of $8,000 was suffered in the account.

Miss Daniels is described by the Herald Examiner as "tall, blonde, and attractive." She was quoted as saying she met Lingle about a year ago, and that although she was with him frequently, she never visited his home or his apartment at the Stevens hotel.

"Jake would come over to our hat shop and take us out to dinner," Miss Daniels was quoted. "Uusually Margaret and I went with him, but sometimes my brother, David, would go, too. Jake didn't talk much about his affairs. We didn't know any of the gangsters whom he knew."

Miss Daniels emphasized that she and her sisters were no more than good friends of Lingle.

Two bodies were on undertakers' slabs yesterday, one of a mere boy, the other of a youth of 25. They were 70 miles apart, but the Chicago police were interested in both—although the bodies were not found in the city. It was believed both had been "taken for a ride" from Chicago.

The boy's body was identified as that of Frank Petito, aged 17, who, under the name of Mike Gallicho, had been arrested eight times in the last two years and who was awaiting trial on a burglary charge. The other body was waiting at Kentland, Ind., for Chicago police to supply it with a name.

Member of 42 Gang.

Petito was known as a member of the youthful 42 gang of the west side and a budding beer hustler of the Red Bolton gang. Recently, according to Detectives Herbert Dillon and John Leyendecker of the Maxwell street station, he had become an alcohol thief, preying on still owners and alky runners. He had been blamed for the "hoisting" of many stills, that is, holding up whoever was present and taking two or three hundred gallons of alky, or hijacking a load that was being hauled away from a still.

Frank lived with his parents at 1422 West Polk street part of the time and until a few months ago he had a job with his brother, Anthony, who lives at 737 Dekoven street. A few months ago the boy became the owner of a big new automobile, saying he had paid $2,000 down on it.

Sunday night, according to his sister Rose he left the family home at 1:30 o'clock with Peter and Frank Gallichio, whose name furnished Petito with an alias whenever he was arrested. His brother Anthony said he saw him alone in his automobile about 12:15 o'clock yesterday morning. Policeman Harry Brashear said he saw the boy driving swiftly past Taylor and Halsted streets about 1:30 o'clock.

Body Found on Roadside.

About 6:15 o'clock yesterday morning John Zomich, a night watchman, walking on the Joliet road, known as route 4, south of Lyons, saw a body in a ditch and notified County Highway Policeman Louis V. Jellinek. The body contained nine bullet wounds, and coroner's physicians said Petito had been shot while sitting down and not long before the body was found. Other than his thieving proclivities the police had no theory as to the identity of the murderers or their motive.

The other body was found about four miles west of Kentland, Ind., about the same time. It was a quarter mile off the main road, and there were five bullets in the body. The clothing worn by the dead man was purchased at the store of Ray Levine in South Chicago, which was the only clew to his identity.

The description of the dead man was aged 25, 5 feet 5 inches tall, dark hair, brown eyes, and the clothing was said to have been of good quality. There were no papers or jewelry in the clothing.

Marks on the wrists and ankles of the dead man indicated he had been bound hand and foot with a rope which probably was taken from him after he was brought to the place where the body was found and where it was believed the gang execution had taken place.

Girl Slugged and Robbed of $5,275 on Street Corner

While awaiting a street car yesterday at 14th place and Blue Island avenue, Miss Lucille Lane, 22 years old, cashier for the wholesale produce firm of R. H. Dietz & Co., 177 South Water Market, was beset by two unarmed bandits. They knocked her down, seized a money bag, which she was taking to a loop bank, and escaped on foot. The bag contained $600 cash, $2,125 in bank drafts, and $2,550 in checks.

AL SMITH TALKS OF "ROUND TRIPS" MADE BY HIMSELF AND BYRD

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Ex-Gov. Alfred E. Smith, at a dinner tonight in honor of Rear Admiral Richard Byrd, spoke humorously for the first time in public of his defeat for the presidency in 1927.

Admiral Byrd and he, Mr. Smith recalled, had reviewed a parade of Boy Scouts two years before.

"Shortly afterward," said Mr. Smith, "Admiral Byrd started for the south pole and I started for Washington. I have the supreme satisfaction of being able to say that I got back here 20 months quicker than he did."

RECALL ILLINOIS TROOPS' FIRST BATTLE IN 1918

On July 1, 1918—twelve years ago today—the 33d division, comprising troops almost exclusively from Illinois, saw its first action in the world war. Recalling the anniversary, headquarters of the 6th corps area yesterday issued a statement describing the Illinois division's baptism of fire.

Commanded by the late Maj. Gen. George Bell, the 33d had arrived overseas in May and June, trained with the British expeditionary force, and was sent up to the western front to go into action.

The first day's service was mainly in reconnaissances, which preceded the participation of certain units in the attack on Hamel, near Amiens, on July 4. In the Hamel action components of the 131st infantry led by Col. J. B. Sanborn distinguished themselves. Moving behind a barrage, the troops took Hamel, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

HEAR WITH TEETH INSTEAD OF EARS BY THIS DEVICE

Ithaca, N. Y., June 30.—[Special.—A mechanical device whereby those who cannot hear with their ears may "listen" with their teeth was demonstrated here today by Prof. Frederick Bedell of the department of physics at Cornell university, inventor of the device.

Guests of the demonstration appeared to sip music through straws, the straws being slender pieces of wood, sharpened at one end, which was placed in contact with a vibrating mechanism. The other end was held in the teeth of the listener.

Prof. Bedell's device consists of a vibrating element surrounded by a sheet of rubber and attached to a wire which can be plugged into the sound reproducers in any motion picture house or connected with the radio at home. The mechanism is only a little larger than a baseball and can be carried easily in an ordinary handbag or fastened to the back of a seat in a theater.

The inventor demonstrated that music almost inaudible to the ears of of a normal person can be distinctly heard through the teeth.

FOUR CONCERNS FINED FOR SMOKE LAW VIOLATIONS

Three laundries were fined yesterday in Municipal court for violation of the city's smoke abatement ordinance. The Acme Wet Wash Laundry, 4211 South State street, was fined $10 on each of two violations, and the Archer Wet Wash Laundry, 3867 Archer avenue, and the Cascade Wet Wash Laundry, 7930 South Racine avenue, were fined $10 each. The Certainteed Products company, 2246 West 49th street, also was fined $10. The case against the M. Huber company, whose steam shovel in Randolph street at the Illinois Central railroad tracks caused clouds of smoke, was continued for one week while the city smoke department teaches the engineer how to fire smokelessly.

CAPONE HIRES LAWYERS AS U. S. PROBES INCOME

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Scarface Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, has employed attorneys to make a fight to save him from the sleuths of the income tax division of the bureau of internal revenue investigating his financial affairs back as far as 1922.

Recently his brother, Ralph J. Capone, was convicted on a charge of attempting to defraud the United States out of income taxes and is under sentence in Chicago to serve three years in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $10,000.

Efforts to compromise tax differences between Al and the government have been made, but the government is not seeking such an adjustment. It will proceed as it did in the case of the younger Capone, who was found to be worth $2,000,000 and to have failed to make proper returns. A small army of treasury agents, it was reported from Chicago today, is checking the Capone bank accounts and property holdings.

President Hoover gave the campaign against the Capones and other gangsters a great impetus April 23 when he announced the federal government would join the movement to rid Chicago, New York, and other populous communities of money making gangs who killed if necesary to reach their goals.

A report that Al Capone had spent several days here last week in an effore to satisfy the government was denied, but it was stated that he had sent agents to Washington.

REFUSE TO FIGHT BUT ARE GIVEN U. S. CITIZENSHIP

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—The Rev. Dr. Douglas Clyde MacIntosh, professor of theology at Yale university, and Miss Marie Averil Bland, war nurse, both of whom applied for United States citizenship but refused to swear they would bear arms in defense of their country, are entitled to become citizens, in the opinion of the United States Circuit court of appeals.

In an opinion handed down today the court reversed the District courts, which refused to naturalize the two, and shortly mandates will be issued requiring that they be granted citizenship.

Dr. MacIntosh, a Canadian, was refused citizenship by Judge Warren B. Burrows at New London on Jan. 9. Judge Burrows held that "it is decided that the petitioner is not attached to the principles of the constitution of the United States," because he would promise to bear arms only in such a war as he considered morally justified.

Opinion of Court.

The opinion of the Circuit court, written by Judge Martin T. Manton, said in part:

"It appears that the appellant stated he was ready to give the United States all the allegiance he could give to any country. He could not put allegiance to any country above the will of God. A citizen sharing views, which amount to conscientious or religious scruples against bearing arms in a war which he regards as an unjustifiable war, is akin to one having religious scruples against all war.

"There is a distinction between morally justifiable and unjustifiable wars recognized in international law.

"The rights of conscience are inalienable rights which the citizen need not surrender and which the government or society cannot take away."

Nurse's Case Decided.

Miss Bland, who nursed wounded Americans at Brest and since has done psychiatric work, told Judge William Bondy here that she could not, as the daughter of a Canadian clergyman, promise to bear arms in any war, although she would be ready to serve at the front as a nurse.

The opinion in her case said:

"The appellant says she would promise to defend the constitution so far as her conscience as a christian would allow. The government by its constitution and acts of congress never exacted more from an applicant."

BANKHEAD'S DAUGHTER FREED OF 2D HUSBAND; TO WED NO. 3 TODAY

Reno, Nev., June 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Eugenia Bankhead Hoyt Butt, daughter of Congressman W. B. Bankhead of Alabama, was granted an annulment of her marriage to Wilfred Lawson Butt here today and announced she would be married tomorrow night to Howard Lee of Dallas, Tex., an aviator.

The annulment was not contested by Butt. Both had been divorced prior to their marriage here some months ago. On their honeymoon to Hawaii, Mrs. Butt said she learned that Butt had not received his final decree of divorce in Los Angeles, and she left him.

"I am sure this will be my last trip to Reno—for business reasons," Mrs. Butt told reporters today. "I will be married tomorrow night to Mr. Lee, and he's a dear. We will fly back to Los Angeles and then to Dallas."

DISCUSS GANGS, THEIR ORIGIN AND SOME REMEDIES

Loesch and Olson Speak at National Parley.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., June 30.—[Special.] —Volsteadism as the agency that has turned a flood of gold into organized crime, the tieup between big money gangsters and politics, the effect of prohibition in stimulating crime in general and in fostering a public air of leniency towards murder and other crimes of violence were themes today at the opening session of the seventh commonwealth conference.

Frank J. Loesch, head of the Chicago crime commission and member of the Hoover commission on law observance and enforcement, speaking on "Crime and Politics," declared the "one effective method to end organized crime is to destroy the source of the gangsters' revenue, whether it is a hidden brewery, distillery, a greased highway, a dog track, or a gambling joint."

Judge Harry Olson, for a quarter century chief justice of the Municipal court of Chicago, held that two essentials in combatting crime are scientific organization and training of the police and the courts and segregation of mental defectives.

Two spots of weakness, he said, were the state's attorney's office and the courts.

The conference, which has attracted more than 200 professors from colleges all over the country, publicists, and social workers, has for its three days' subject "political issues of 1930." It was opened by President Walter A. Jessup of the University of Iowa, and the conference chairman is Prof. Benjamin F. Shambaugh.

Loesch on Gang Warfare.

Mr. Loesch set forth that nationwide disregard of the eighteenth amendment and of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments in the south has dulled the moral fiber of America to general lawlessness and crime.

As to gang warfare and the alliance between crime and politics, he remarked:

"For ten years, including 1929, the gang murders in Cook county have averaged one a week. So far in 1930 they averaged, until the killing of Lingle, about two a week. And there have been no convictions and scarcely any arrests, even on suspicion, for these 550 murders, some horribly atrocious in their Indianlike cruelty.

"The power of the gang consists in the enormous sums it realizes from protected gambling and especially from beer running. It cannot be denied that the corruption fund runs into many tens of millions dollars a year in the three largest cities. So long as such funds are in the control of the criminal organizations the public has no way of defending itself against its use to corrupt politicians and the law enforcing officials.

Mixing Crime and Politics.

"Funds for campaign expenses are a necessity. There seems to have been a drift in municipal campaigns, to look to criminals and criminal organizations, such as gamblers, bootleggers and race track owners, to make sizeable contributions for election campaign expenses, from which follows the natural result of the alliance between crime and politics.

"This is in full swing in every large center of population where more crime and the criminal can flourish in politics under official protection."

Mr. Loesch dwelt upon the disregard of the 18th and the 14th and 15th amendments in southern states as increasing crime.

"The immigrants who came in the fifty years between 1880 and 1930," he said, "were habituates to the daily use of alcohol beverages. Therefore, when the 18th amendment became effective it forcibly interfered with social habits of many more than the estimated forty-three millions of such foreign born received since 1880 and their immediate descendants. It likewise forcibly interfered with the daily social habits of millions of the descendants of those who had for three centuries inbred moral resistance and often made physical resistance to any law which ran counter to their convictions of right or contrary to their social habits deemed by them to be inalienable rights.

"We have a general state of lawlessness of every character of crime, so flagrant in its openness that every person of intelligence is cognizant of it from personal knowledge and from reading the enormous amount of criminal news in the daily papers from court proceedings.

"I am stating facts as I know them, without in any wise justifying or excusing such violations of the law of the land. My opinion, however, is, that such general lawlessness in respect to three major commandments of our constitution and laws passed to enforce them does increase violations of other criminal laws and lends sympathy and aid to criminals escaping arrest and punishment for atrocious crimes."

Traces Rise of Gangdom.

Dwelling upon the rise of gangdom, Mr. Loesch said:

"The major portions of these organizations are composed of low class immigrants or their children.

"No such criminal organization or gang can exist without the secret protection afforded by municipal officers and other powerful politicians in and out of office and by law enforcing officers, federal and state.

"To secure loyalty to the gang every member is assured protection in his criminal activities. The aid of the politician is secured by either liberal campaign fund contribution or by personal contributions for expenses, which are always accepted with the unexpressed understanding the politician will respond to service when called on, which he does, or he is exposed as a double crosser and relegated to private life at the first opportunity."

Constitution Itself Fails.

Mr. Loesch said he has no sympathy with the illegal searching of homes for a few pints by enforcement officers, in conflict with constitutional guarantees.

"Every historical student," he said, "will sustain my statement that had such a condition been forseen in 1788 when the states were voting on the adoption of the constitution, it would have failed of adoption by the required number of states."

Gangdom will collapse, Mr. Loesch argued, if its revenues are destroyed. "The greatest menace the one source of the gangster's power," he said, "besides his corruption fund, is the protection he receives from political controlled police."

Olson for Specialization.

"The police ought to have a department specialized on crime in all its varieties," he said. "If I were mayor I'd get a Ph. D. from Harvard for chief of police. He would have a pathologist, a ballistic expert, a psychiarist, who would organize with all the knowledge of science to meet the criminal.

"Specialized judges are needed. In Chicago the practice is to put newly elected and inexperienced judges in the Criminal court.

"Fundamental crimes are perpetrated by incorrigible defectives, and the only practical and humane solution is the timely segregation of such defectives."

1—Reduce their number by regulating marriage, by enforcing sterilization, by adequate immigration to cut out the defectives.

2—Resort to methods of crime prevention [a] by identifying the prospective criminals in the schools and segregating them in adolescent years. All children should be given a psychological examination at 10 years and again at 16. [b] By organizing a health department bureau to devise methods to keep the blood stream pure. [c] By establishing a police department bureau for the secret listing of defectives.

"Northcott, who killed the boys in the chicken house near Riverside, Cal., should have been identified before he killed," he said. "So should notorious Hickman of the same state. Shanks, who killed the teacher from Peoria college on the Northwestern campus, was put on probation by the courts just prior to the murder." Judge Olson then cites the cases of Crecco, Church, Lincoln of Aurora, "the man who killed seventy-five school children at Bath, Mich., a paranoiac, and the Noel boy of New Jersey.

"Educate our doctors in mental diseases," Judge Olson continued. "Educate the lawyers in the rudiments of biology and psychology; improve the criminal procedure of the courts; rewrite the substantive criminal law; convert half the reformatories and penitentiaries into insane asylums."

VICTORS IN TRIBUNE'S "GAME OF COUNTIES" OUT TOMORROW

Tomorrow, Wednesday, July 2, is going to be a lucky day for many CHICAGO TRIBUNE readers, for the winners in the CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S "Game of Counties" will be announced.

For several weeks the contest department has been busy opening, checking, and rating the contributions sent into this contest, which ran for 48 days in THE DAILY TRIBUNE and closed May 30. Awards totaling $5,000 were offered to the persons sending in the most perfect and neatest entries.

The fifteen days' time allotted for the acceptance of contributions brought in thousands upon thousands of varied entries. The work has been most interesting on account of the numerous fashions in which these were presented. This game was not simple, but as the tons of solutions were emptied from the bulging mail sacks and examined, it was surprising to see how many entrants told of the enjoyment they found in solving the baffling puzzles and in gleaning a bit of county lore while following the clews to work out each county depicted.

The answers were judged, first on accuracy, and, second on neatness. For this reason many of the simplest entries came out victors.

BANDIT SEDAN IN GUN BATTLE AFTER ROBBERY

CRIMINAL COURT.

James Young, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; John Alexander, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

Clarence Mitchell and William Green, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Otto Kerner.

Frank Hodek and Joseph Lucas, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Max Berman, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

A robber was killed and a storekeeper was wounded in a gun fight that followed the robbery of a radio shop at 1935 West 35th street yesterday. A second robber, who escaped with $170, was arrested a few hours later.

The dead bandit was identified as William Barnes, 6034 Kenwood avenue. Leroy Pestlin, 3738 South Honore street, owner of the store, was wounded in the arm. A telephone number in Barnes' pocket led the police to 1214 North Paulina street, where they arrested Frank Bell, 5931 Parnell avenue, his wife, Leona, and Barnes' wife, Jessie. Bell confessed.

The two bandits entered the store, tied Pestlin in a back room, and were on their way out after robbing the cash register when they met Pestlin's father, Herman, 52 years old, and the Rev. E. Jehn, pastor of St. Andrew's Evangelical Lutheran church. The robbers took them to another room of the store to be tied. Meanwhile the younger Pestlin had freed himself and procured a revolver. He wounded Barnes and fired at the fleeing bandit. As Barnes went down the elder Pestlin, who had wriggled out of his bonds by then, wrested the gun from him and killed him.

MOTORCYCLIST HURT IN CRASH.

Plymouth, Ind., June 30. — [Special.]— Floyd Brown, 25, Goshen, was seriously injured when his motorcycle, going 72 miles an hour, crashed into a milk truck driven by Phay Plummer of South Bend, half mile north of Plymouth this morning. Brown's skull was fractured.

REMAPPING OF WARDS DELAYED BY ALDERMEN

The proposed redistricting of the 50 wards in the city to equalize the ward population was postponed until after the summer vacation by the council judiciary committee yesterday. Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], the committee's chairman, announced that the subcommittee which has had charge of the redistricting for the last year has made little progress.

"Any remapping plan that would be in effect for the election of aldermen next February would have to be passed by the council 40 days prior to the November election so the voters could approve it," said Ald. Nelson. "However, if any plan is worked up during the summer the committee and the council can hold special sessions to pass it."

The postponement was looked upon at the city hall as the end of efforts to change the ward boundary lines before the next aldermanic election.

NEARLY 2 BILLION IN PUBLIC WORK GIVEN JOBLESS

Hoover Reports on His Revival Program.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Federal, state and local governments have spent or contracted to spend a total of one billion, 700 million dollars for public works during the first six months of the present calendar year, President Hoover announced tonight in a radio address to the governors' conference meeting at Salt Lake City. The President said this figure exceeded by over 200 millions that of the boom year of 1929. He spoke from his study in the White House.

President Hoover expressed his appreciation for the coöperation given by the governors and other local officials in expanding the public works program during a time of business recession. He asserted that the figures for public works expenditures during the first half of the year emphasized that by organized effort unemployment can be alleviated and active progress made in staving off business depression.

While stating that real progress had been made in bringing about better business conditions President Hoover advised the governors that there is still need for "continued serious effort."

Suggests Further Action.

Renewed resolutions for even further effort in every state and every community and in the federal government he added, will aid in bringing about an early business recovery.

Throughout his address, President Hoover emphasized the value of using public construction as a balance wheel to maintain security of employment. He predicted that the good results attained during the first half of the year through the building program would be followed by better business conditions during the next six months.

"I welcome the opportunity," President Hoover said, "to express my appreciation for the coöperation that the governors and their associates in county and municipal affairs have given to me in organizing the expansion of public works to alleviate the unemployment which has resulted from the stock market crash of last November.

A New Departure.

"The request for such coöperation which I issued to the governors and mayors at the end of November last met not only with immediate hearty assurances from almost all state officials, but has been followed by action productive of most important results. I feel that some report of the results of that coöperative effort is not only of interest, but is due to your body.

"To definitely organize so as to prevent the activity in public works from receding like other activities in depression, and to speed them up in anticipation of future needs, so as to alleviate unemployment in such a time, is a new experiment in our economic life of the first importance and the success which has attended this effort, the enlarged understanding of its vital importance, the new paths of organization which it has opened, represent an advance in economic thought in government and in service to our people.

Reviews Former Recessions.

"We have hitherto regarded great business depressions, with their inevitable train of unemployment and hardships, as an inevitable fever which must run its course, and in former times if public works were undertaken in alleviation of unemployment it has been in the sense of semi-charity. This time the nation has realized that as a sound economic policy prudent expansion of construction could be to an important degree used as a balance wheel to maintain security of employment, to maintain consumption of goods, to thus contribute to economic stability and above all to relieve hardship.

"We have had since the first of January a full six months of organized effort from which we can begin to appraise results. In all previous depressions, the volume of public works has diminished because the state and municipal governments feeling the effects of such depression in taxes, in problems of finance, and in the general psychology of retrenchment, have themselves followed the general trend. In the great depressions of 1908 and 1921 we witnessed such a decrease in public works.

"Had matters followed their previous course we should during the past six months have undoubtedly seen a diminution in volume of employment in public works over normal times. But on this occasion we witness a large increase.

Federal Program Bearing Fruit.

"It takes time to plan public works, to legislate, to finance them, to assemble materials, to enter contracts, so that the second half of the year promises even greater results—particularly is this true of our federal appropriations and our plans for roads, buildings, ships, and other federal improvements are much enlarged in our fiscal year, beginning today.

"Nor should I omit reference to the effort of our utilities and our leading business concerns to coöperate with us in the increase of construction. They have shown courageous faith in the future and the expansion of employment which they have provided in construction and betterment works exceed even the $200,000,000 of increase over 1929 accomplished by the public authorities.

"I am happy to say that this coöperation of efforts of all branches of the government, state, local, and federal, is still continuing."

SELL $18,970,000 STREET BONDS AT $94.528 PER $100

The bid of a syndicate of bankers headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., for the purchase of $18,970,000 of city street improvement bonds bearing 4 per cent interest, was accepted yesterday by City Controller Schmidt. The price offered by the syndicate was $94.528 for each $100, a total of $17,931,961.60. The bid of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company syndicate was $94.917, or a total of $17,910,910.

The city council, at its last meeting, appropriated $18,022,500 from the bond issue for the payment for land taken in the widening of Ashland and Western avenues and La Salle street. The price received for the bonds is $90,539 less than the appropriation, and the balance, according to the aldermen, will have to be met by the city's corporate fund.

The county board yesterday received a check for $996,227 from the state, representing the county's share of the 1929 gasoline tax collections, and a second check for $339,619, representing state aid refunds on county roads. The total of $1,335,847 can only be spent for the improvement of county roads. The county also received $436,000 from the citizens' committee for expenses during the last two weeks of June.

FACULTY OF LAW SCHOOL BARRED BY 200 STUDENTS

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguary, June 30.—(AP)—Two hundred students of the National university law school today barricaded their building and prevented the faculty from entering.

The students demanded a number of reforms, among them the resignation of the present faculty council, public meetings of the faculty council, and immediate incorporation into the curriculum reforms, recommended by a joint study of students and faculty.

There was no disorder either inside or out, but police guards were posted outside the building.

CHICAGOANS WILL BE HEARD IN QUIZ ON PRIMARY CASH

Subpœnas for a number of Chicagoans who will be witnesses in the inquiry into the funds distributed in Illinois senatorial primary campaign this spring will be placed in the hands of United States Marshal Laubenheimer today for service. Senators Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota and C. C. Dill of Washington made this announcement last night after a day of perfecting arrangements for the hearing, which will begin on July 14 in the federal building.

The identity of the witnesses will be revealed as the subpœnas are served, Senator Nye said. Both he and Senator Dill will be present at the hearings and they may be joined by Senator Porter H. Dale of Vermont.

The committee intends to inquire into the amount of money each candidate spent and the manner in which it was expended, it was announced. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, the Republican nominee, has already said that more than $252,000 was dispensed in her behalf in her fight to defeat Senator Charles S. Deneen, and the latter said he spent about $25,000.

While the Chicago situation is under investigation, other subcommittees of the senate will hear testimony into the funds expended in the New Jersey and Pennsylvania primaries, Senator Nye said.

It is possible that senators may investigate the financial side of the Oklahoma primary. "Oklahoma was building a case two weeks ago which would call for an inquiry," Senator Nye said.

The senator from North Dakota also made a few remarks on limiting funds that a candidate might spend by putting them under state control and not allowing the candidate to expend any of his own money.

"I am becoming convinced," he said, "that such a system will become necessary. It has come to a point where some people are willing to buy a senate seat and pay as much for it as they would for a seat on the New York Stock exchange. If the excessive use of money goes on unchecked, public office will go to the highest bidder. A poor man will have no chance."

Senator Nye's committee hopes to tell the senate the exact amount of money spent in Illinois, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, Senator Nye said.

Speaking specifically of the Illinois primary, Senator Nye referred to the candidacy of Newton Jenkins, an unsuccessful opponent of Mrs. McCormick.

"By expending a small amount of money Mr. Jenkins was able to gather about one-fourth as many votes as the successful candidate," he said, "but he couldn't compete with the sums which were being spent."

It could not be learned if Mrs. McCormick or Senator Deneen would be called. They gave their testimony in Washington shortly after the primary.

Gentry

Landed gentry have always been envied. A landowner has ever been the aristocrat, the leader, the respected member of his community. To paraphrase an old proverb, "a man was known by the acreage he kept." Times have changed, conditions are altered, and yet landowning is still the mark of the solid, the influential, the worthy citizen.

JURY SAYS WINE PERMIT SYSTEM DEBASES PRIESTS

Indict Several, Including Bishop.

New York, June 30.—(AP)—Expressing belief that "many struggling and honest priests were 'debauched'" by methods used in distributing sacramental wine here, a federal grand jury today indicted Bishop Charles Mrzena of the Czecho-Slovakian orthodox Catholic church in the United States for alleged conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. Eighteen others were indicted with him.

An indictment charging perjury was returned against Father Peter J. Pashkiewych of St. Mary's Ukranian church, New Britain, Conn. He was alleged to have testified falsely before the grand jury concerning withdrawals of wine for his church in New Britain, and the indictment further said he testified he also had withdrawn wine for use in religious work at St. Mary's church, Newburgh, N. Y., whereas he did not officiate at Newburgh and did not use any wine for church purposes there last year.

Huge Wine Withdrawals.

The other indictment said the bishop applied to the prohibition administrators in New York, Boston, Newark, and Albany for permission to register as a bishop of the Czecho-Slovak Old Catholic orthodox church of the U. S.

The indictment adds that after the bishop's registration, Father Pashkiewych and John Petrykyanyn signed wine forms, including forms for churches "which never existed."

Criticizing the manner in which the sacramental wine distribution was handled by the New York office of the prohibition bureau, the indictment said withdrawals of wine in the name of churches in an adjacent to New York City in 1929 had amounted to between 40,000 and 50,000 gallons.

Made to Sign Large Requisitions.

Explaining that legitimate small churches applying for sacramental wine frequently used only five to twenty-five gallons a year, the jury said it had been brought to their attention that these foreign priests encountered red tape when they filed applications.

After their requests had been denied, "they were called upon by either Mrzena or one of his co-workers, and were told that if they would sign form 1,412, application for wine in large quantity, they would be given the small quantity needed for their church, the explanation being that the balance of the large consignment was necessary for missionary or other mythical purposes," the jury continued.

The jury held that many of these priests were "debauched" and blamed laxity in the offices of the New York prohibition administrator, Maurice Campbell, and other administrators.

Rhineland Again Free

German Rhineland's occupation by allied troops officially ended at noon yesterday, when an area of 24,547 square miles with a population of about 6,000,000 was liberated. The last 1,000 Frenchmen left German soil at noon, after an occupation which lasted over eleven years and seven months. Shaded portions on the map show the freed territory. Wiesbaden and Mainz were the last points from which the French retired.

BRITAIN REFUSES LOAN TO BUILD UP RUMANIAN NAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—Rumania's request for a loan for the purpose of constructing a naval base in the Black sea and increasing its fleet is reported to have been turned down by the British government.

Despite the willingness of an important English concern to float the loan in consideration for Rumanian orders being place in Great Britain, the government considers approval of such negotiations would not be tactful, due to the fact that the Rumanian gesture is obviously aimed at Russia, which at least theoretically is a friend of England.

It is reported, however, that a powerful Italian syndicate under Count Volpi, former Italian minister of finance, is prepared to arrange for the loan. It is also stated that an American group of financiers are co-operating with the Volpi syndicate in near eastern undertakings, which include important railway construction in Turkey.

ENDS LIFE IN WELL.

Harrisburg, Ill., June 30.—The body of Mrs. Julia Buckner, 38, was found in a well at the Buckner farm home near here today. Suicide by drowning was the coroner's verdict. She is survived by three sons and her husband.

OLIVER'S DEALS WITH NICHOLS TOLD AT TRIAL

Bookmaker Details Bets on Races.

County Assessor Gene G. Oliver's alleged intimate relations with William E. Nichols, who is under indictment for evasion of income taxes and accused of tax fixing activities, were described by Charles Karleskind, a former bookmaker, yesterday afternoon. Oliver is on trial before Federal Judge Woodward on charges of evading income taxes.

Karleskind testified that Oliver often placed bets on horse races for Nichols in amounts ranging from $25 to $50. Asked by First Assistant United States Attorney Cassius Poust how many such bets were made, the witness replied, "O, fifteen or twenty."

Often Seen Together.

Karleskind said he did not know whether Nichols paid Oliver for the bets. Asked if he ever saw Oliver and Nichols together, the witness said he saw them in Oliver's office in the county building, "thirty or forty times." He said Oliver and Nichols often came together to his headquarters to place bets.

Karleskind had previously testified that Oliver entered into a partnership with him to operate a race book.

Nichols, who is a salesman for the Wisconsin Lime and Cement company, was accused of tax fixing at the time of his indictment two months ago. Prosecutor Dwight H. Green announced in his opening statement that the government would prove that Oliver fixed taxes as a source of income.

Others Tell of Deals.

Other witnesses yesterday were former bookmakers with whom Oliver placed bets on the races. One of them, Dominick Salerno, testified that he quit dealing with the defendant after the latter won a series of bets in 1926.

"Did you stop because you thought Oliver had inside information," asked Prosecutor Poust.

"No, I quit because he still owes me $2,179," said Salerno.

The government contends that Oliver won from $50,000 to $100,000 on the races from 1926 to 1929. Defense Counsel James J. Barbour contends he lost twice this amount.

CALCIUM IN PARK LAMES HORSES, OWNERS CHARGE

Complain Over Chemical on Bridle Paths.

Lincoln park bridle paths have become a hazard for horses, according to the complaints of three riding academies, who reported yesterday that about forty of their mounts have been burned and lamed by contact with calcium crystals, sprinkled on the paths to lay the dust and provide a firm surface.

The hooves and fetlocks of the horses have been so badly burned as to incapacitate them temporarily for riding in a number of cases, it was said. The Illinois Humane society has been asked to investigate the matter, one academy owner said.

Horses Injured, She Says.

Mrs. Marion Mitchell of the Shoreline School of Horsemanship, 1320 North Dearborn street, said the crystals were deposited on the paths last Wednesday and that their effects were noted on the horses the same day. "I called the park offices and told them what was happening," she said, "but next day more of the crystals were applied. If properly used, they are fine, but this coating is too strong. Ten of our horses are affected, one seriously."

The Parkway Riding academy, 2153 North Clark street, has 18 horses, some of them privately owned, under care for burns. The Chicago Riding club, Ontario street and McClurg court, has 12 similarly affected.

Chief Engineer John M. Egan of Lincoln park said he would investigate and that if the findings warrant it, he will stop the use of the crystals for surfacing the bridle paths.

Thinks Reports Exaggerated.

"But I am inclined to believe these reports are exaggerated," he said. "I looked into the properties of these crystals thoroughly before we put them into use and I don't think they could produce such results.

"We may have made a mistake by allowing the horses to use the paths so soon after the crystals were put on, of course. Some of the power of the substance is absorbed by the air in time and had we kept the paths closed a longer period, there might not have been complaints. These crystals are used in road surfacing in many places and we used only half as much as usual for a coating on our paths."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

HERBERT TAKES REINS AS CHICAGO DRY BOSS TODAY

Col. John H. J. Herbert of the bureau of prohibition of the United States department of justice becomes the dry law enforcement boss of Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin this morning, but, contrary to an earlier understanding, he does not outrank E. C. Yellowley, who was district administrator until last night.

Rather (both made clear yesterday afternoon) they assume separate responsibilities—Yellowley in controlling alcohol permits and Herbert in suppressing liquor law violations. Each has absolute powers in the district in his own province.

But Col. Herbert experts no conflict between himself and Yellowley. "I may be the new enforcement officer," he said, "but for some time it will be necessary for me to lean greatly on Mr. Yellowley's assistance. He knows the situation so thoroughly and I am here just two days. I know he will help me a great deal."

It had been previously understood that Herbert was to command both branches of the service, and that Yellowley would be under his orders.

Dry Forces Shifted.

Col. Herbert was transferred to Chicago under the shift which becomes effective in Washington this morning, prohibition enforcement leaving the treasury department and passing to Attorney General William D. Mitchell. He was last in service as administrator of Montana and Idaho, and before that in the Baltimore district. In the latter post he worked with the new national enforcement chief, Amos W. W. Woodcock, and the two are said to be close personal friends.

The new administrator spent his first day in his district by accompanying Yellowley on tours of inspection and formal visits. He called upon United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson at the federal building and inspected department headquarters in the Transportation building.

Silent on His Staff.

Col. Herbert said he was so new to his office that he could say nothing of any changes that may be brought about under his control. It is possible that more agents may be brought to the district because of the addition of Indiana and loss of Iowa, in consideration of the greater population involved in the redistricted zone, but Col. Herbert was not ready to say that additions would be made to his force.

During the world war the new administrator served as commander of the 102d field artillery in France, being overseas for nineteen months and taking part in five major engagements. Before that he worked on Massachusetts newspapers.

New Dry Boss

MITCHELL IN CHARGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Attorney General William D. Mitchell takes over the task of enforcing the prohibition laws at midnight tonight. An executive order making effective the dry transfer law establishing a bureau of prohibition in the department of justice was signed late today by Attorney General Mitchell and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon. By this order 2,700 treasury employés attached to the bureau of prohibition were shifted to the justice department.

The transfer of responsibility for enforcement of the Volstead act to the department of justice marks the third major reorganization of the government's dry enforcement machinery brought about to strengthen the administration of the dry statutes.

As the government prohibition machinery is now set up, Secretary Mellon has the task of preventing the smuggling of liquor into the United States. Attorney General Mitchell has the domestic liquor problem to solve.

N. Y. DRY CHIEF RESIGNS; FAVORS REPEAL OF LAW

Campbell Says Politics Curb Enforcement.

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Declaring that prohibition cannot solve the temperance problem and advocating the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Maj. Maurice Campbell relinquished his post as prohibition administrator of New York today. In doing so he took a parting shot at "United States attorneys with political aspirations," and treasury department officials who "have not been sincere in efforts to enforce this law."

Maj. Campbell charged that an order for his transfer to another post which led to his retirement had resulted directly from his refusal to grant or restore, brewery, whisky, and alcohol permits "that local politicians and certain administration officials in Washington feel must be restored in order to secure necessary support for the Republican ticket."

At the moment when Maj. Campbell was reading his statement to newspapermen in his office, United States Attorney Tuttle was announcing that the federal grand jury had handed up a presentment charging "laxity" to the local prohibition office.

Do Evanston Police Keep Chicago Cars from Lake?

Ald. Thomas J. Bowler, chairman of the council committee on traffic regulation, yesterday began an investigation into complaints that parking along the lake front in Evanston is reserved for Evanstonians only and that Chicagoans are requested to "keep moving." He wrote the Evanston city clerk requesting information concerning any ordinance or police order that prohibits a Chicago car from stopping while its occupants admire the lake. If there is such a prohibition, Ald. Bowler said he would consider what can be done in reply.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—The channel tunnel project is dead. The house of commons killed it tonight by rejecting the motion that "every government facility should be afforded and the project to be undertaken at the earliest possible opportunity."

It was a near thing, however, for the voting resulted in 172 for the motion and 179 against it—a majority of seven for rejection.

Until tonight a channel tunnel had not been debated in the house of commons for 21 years, and the government, before the debate commenced, that the house would be allowed a free vote on the subject—meaning that government whips were not put on the party members, allowing them to vote as they desired without party disloyalty. The official opponent of the tunnel was Prime Minister MacDonald. "Nobody wants it," was the keynote of his speech.

WALLACE F. KIRK LOSES RECOUNT IN SENATE FIGHT

Wallace F. Kirk yesterday lost his contest against the renomination of State Senator John T. Joyce in the 29th senatorial district. At the conclusion of the recount, ordered by Chief Justice Thomas Taylor of the Circuit court, Joyce led by 166 votes, having 4,174 votes against Kirk's 4,008.

A total of 63 ballots were not counted. These were contested by Kirk and held to the court. However, if all of these ballots are allowed Kirk he will not be able to win. The official canvass gave Joyce 4,268 votes and Kirk 3,997. The contest was brought on the charge that 1,000 nonregistered persons voted for Joyce.

Dr. Hardee Chambliss

Ph.D., Johns Hopkins University

Eminent International Scientist and Noted Educator

says: "I have tested 33 dentifrices with reference to cleansing qualities . . . Colgate's is greatest."

DR. HARDEE CHAMBLISS, Dean of School of Sciences, Catholic University, Washington, D. C., says: "I have tested and compared thirty-three different dentifrices with reference to their cleansing qualities. I find Colgate's not only cleans the surfaces safely, but also because of its very effective wetting power and low surface tension (penetrating foam) it has greater ability than other dentifrices to get down into tiny crevices and fissures of the teeth, flooding away decaying food particles. Other dentifrices, because they are sluggish, lack this power.

Hardee Chambliss

DOESN'T it impress you to know that this noted authority made a scientific analysis of 33 different dentifrices? He exhaustively tested each one for cleansing properties. Studied their action—noted their effect. His opinion is based on his findings.

Colgate's, he discovered, has greater ability than other dentifrices to get down into tiny crevices and fissures of the teeth, where pasty, sluggish dentifrices do not reach.

He found that Colgate's has the unique power of flooding away decaying particles of food, which, hidden away in these tiny crevices, cause the greatest trouble. Thus leaving hidden, as well as exposed surfaces thoroughly and healthfully clean.

And wouldn't it impress you still more to know that agreeing with Dr. Chambliss are such eminent authorities as Doctors Shirley W. Wynne, Commissioner of Health, New York City, and H. H. Bunzell, Ph.D., University of Chicago, and other prominent authorities, who were retained to make analytical tests and to render their expert opinions?

Impressive, too, is the fact that for more than 30 years more people have used Colgate's than any other dentifrice.

This low price is made possible only because more people use Colgate's than any other dentifrice—and have for 30 years.

DENISON ELUDES RUM LAW TRIAL ON TECHNICALITY

Court Sustains Demurrer to Indictment.

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Representative E. E. Denison [Rep., Ill.] today escaped trial on a charge of illegally possessing liquor when Justice Peyton Gordon of the Supreme court of the District of Columbia sustained a demurrer to the indictment returned against the Illinois congressman on Nov. 19 last.

The indictment, the court held in the ruling, failed to particularize the charge against Denison sufficiently to enable the latter to frame a defense and plead an acquittal as a bar to a subsequent indictment.

Suitcase Leaked.

Denison and his former secretary, John Layne, were indicted following the discovery of a leaking suitcase addressed to Denison in the baggage of the local Union railroad station, on Jan. 19, 1929. The suitcase was part of a shipment consigned to Denison and a trunk containing a number of bottles of choice whisky was found and seized by federal dry agents in Denison's house office building office.

Denison, an outstanding dry who has been indorsed by the Anti-Saloon league for reëlection and who voted for the Jones "five and ten" dry law penalty amendment, had returned shortly before the seizure from a trip to Panama. At the time he denied ownership of the liquor and it was eleven months to the day before the case was given to District Attorney Leo A. Rover, who promptly laid it before the grand jury. The grand jury as promptly returned an indictment.

Indictment Faulty.

In sustaining the demurrer Justice Gordon pointed out that the indictment fails to name the person from whom Denison purchased the liquor, or the character and quantity of liquor found in the suitcase and trunk, but merely charges that within 3 years before Jan. 19, 1929, Denison possessed liquor illegally. The court held that an acquittal on such an indictment would not prevent an indictment for possession elsewhere on a different date.

ORDER TANK, BUT MOST OF MONEY REVERTS TO U. S.

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley today signed a contract calling for the delivery of one Christie fighting tank by Sept. 1. The new machine will be built by Walter Christie, a veteran automotive inventor who has been building combat vehicles for the army since 1916. The contract price for one machine is $55,000. This will bring the total paid to Christie for various vehicles up to approximately $900,000.

The specifications call for a tank weighing less than fifteen tons, having a speed on wheels of 40 miles an hour and a speed on caterpillar tracks of 30 miles an hour. The tank is to be protected with an outer skin of nickel steel heavy enough to stop the regular projectile from the .30 caliber machine gun and service rifle.

The tank will be paid for out of an appropriation of $250,000 voted two years ago for tanks. A large part of this fund will revert to the treasury tomorrow unexpended, as under the law it had to be used before July 1.

Wickersham Bills Move Forward; Funds Delayed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—With an appropriation for the Wickersham commission still hanging fire, several of the commission's dry enforcement bills moved forward a notch in congress today.

Late in the day the house started debate on the border patrol unification bill, for which a rule was adopted last Thursday, but adjourned without reaching a vote when the bill's opponents resorted to filibustering. At the same time a senate judiciary subcommittee favorably reported a part of the Wickersham commission series of juryless trial measures.

Meanwhile the fate of the Wickersham commission itself was the chief source of complexity on the part of administration leaders in both houses as the conferees on the second deficiency bill failed to make progress.

The senate a few days ago rejected the commission's request for a $250,000 appropriation for the fiscal year beginning tomorrow and voted instead an appropriation of only $50,000, with a proviso limiting the group's study to prohibition only. President Hoover then announced he would solicit private funds to continue that part of the study dealing with general crime laws, whereupon the house administration leaders made plans to have the $250,000 item reinserted in the bill.

Final action on the appropriation, however, awaits a report from the conferees who met this morning but failed to agree.

Technically, the commission has no authority under the law to spend any money whatever after midnight tonight when its original appropriation expires with the end of the fiscal year. This means that the commission will have to mark time, making no expenditures, until congress acts one way or another on the appropriation bill.

The bills reported by the senate subcommittee today were those supplemental to the house juryless trial measure providing for trial on petty liquor cases by United States commissioners. One amends the Jones law to distinguish petty from major offenses; a second defines petty offenses, and the third allows waiver of jury trial by a defendant.

Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], chairman of the senate judiciary committee, stated that the full committe would probably report the three bills to the senate tomorrow. The key measure providing for juryless trials, however, will remain in the subcommittee, where it probably will stay until the December session.

What will happen to the border patrol bill in the house appeared to be more uncertain. Led by Representative John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.], a strong minority was battling against it before the house adjourned this evening. O'Connor, admitting his intention of delaying it, first demanded a quorum call, then insisted upon full reading, consuming so much time that its sponsors abandoned their plans to pass it today.

The purpose of the bill is to curb liquor smuggling on the Canadian and Mexican borders. It provides for unification and enlargement of the patrol forces in the treasury department. It is opposed chiefly on the ground that it will cause hardships upon citizens crossing the line, cause unfriendly relations with the neighboring countries, and add a heavy burden of expense on the treasury.

3 DEFENDANTS PLEAD GUILTY IN WILL FRAUD CASE

Three of those named as co-defendants with Edward C. Koester in a conspiracy to fraudulently obtain the $9,000,000 estate of the late Edward B. Jennings, eccentric millionaire, entered pleas of guilty yesterday before Judge Otto B. Kerner in the Criminal court. Two of the defendants are Charles Koester, Wyandotte, Mich., brother of Edward, and Mrs. Minnie Rankey Allen, Ecorse, Mich., his sister.

Lester Ensign, a Grand Rapids grocer, is the third defendant to admit his guilt. He was purported to have seen the will made by the millionaire and to have signed it as a witness.

The trial of the case was postponed indefinitely because of the illness of Koester. He is in the county hospital under guard suffering from pneumonia and internal injuries recently received in a street car accident.

Thorne Attacks Fund Pact of Mother and First Wife

Gordon C. Thorne, wealthy clubman, yesterday filed a petition in Circuit court to set aside an agreement between his mother, the late Mrs. Katherine Camp Thorne, and his first wife, Mrs. Virginia Milner Thorne. The bill, drawn up by Attorney George Schein, attacks the validity of the agreement which provided a $130,000 trust fund to insure payment of $750 monthly alimony. It charges his former wife used undue influence in obtaining the contract. Thorne is $7,500 in arrears in his alimony and his first wife has filed a claim against the trust fund.

White Linen Knickers

Here is one S. F. Wilson offering that, without reduction in price, offers more than twice the value, wear, satisfaction and lasting good appearance than all the so-called bargains usually priced a little more than one-fourth less. It is the number of threads per square inch that gives the essential body and strength to the material—and because weaker materials never pay the wearer, we will not offer linen knickers that can be sold for less than $5. You'll see the difference.

While you're here see the values offered in golf sweaters, hose, caps, and English cut knickers in tweeds and other fine materials.

BROTHERS IN AIR 20 DAYS; HOPE TO STAY FOR 5 MORE

Make Plans for Landing in Exchange of Notes.

ting bored with the monotony of his existence in the air, the continuous drone of the motor, the endless wandering over the same landscape. In a postscript to a message he wrote: "By the way, send up my ukulele."

Get Radio Programs.

The plane is equipped with a radio for the entertainment of the flyers, and special programs are broadcast to them. Something of their life in the air was described in a long letter tossed out of the plane yesterday morning. It read:

"We feel pretty good. Sometimes kind of bad. We have had a few bad nights with the weather. We got many letters, from many places, and appreciate public interest in the flight." A later note said: "Having some trouble again with our oil tank, which is spouting, and some cylinders are cutting up, but we expect to get everything working O. K. again."

With the last refueling last night the Wright-J 6 motor had made 38,344,000 revolutions, according to members of the ground crew. The plane has used 6,080 gallons of gasoline and 285 gallons of oil. At its average speed of 70 miles an hour the plane has traveled over 30,000 miles.

Its record of days in the air will be officially granted by the National Aeronautical association when the plane's barograph has been inspected. While this instrument has ceased to record the days in the air after the fourth day, it will show when the flight is ended that the plane has not landed since it first took off, according to William MacFarland, Illinois governor of the N. A. A.

Dale [Red] Jackson, member of the endurance team whose record was broken by the City of Chicago, flew to Chicago yesterday and stated that he will remain here until the Hunter boys come down.

LIST OUTSTANDING ENDURANCE FLIGHTS MADE BY REFUELING

Since the army airplane, Question Mark, established the first refueling endurance record, subsequent records have been actively contested in many cities. Following is a list of the outstanding refueling endurance flights, other than that of the City of Chicago:

July 30, 1929—St. Louis Robin, piloted by Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brine for 420 hours, 21 minutes and 30 seconds.

Sept. 4, 1929—Chicago We Will, piloted by C. E. Steele and Russell Mossman for 291 hours at Chicago.

Oct. 11, 1929—Chicago We Will, piloted by Kenneth and John Hunter for 264 hours at Chicago.

July 12, 1929—Angeleno, piloted by Loren W. Mendell and Ronald B. Reinhart for 246 hours at Culver City, Cal.

July 6, 1929—City of Cleveland, piloted by Roy L. Mitchell and Byron K. Newcomb for 174 hours at Cleveland.

Jan. 7, 1929—Question Mark, piloted by Maj. Carl Spatz, Capt. Ira C. Eaker, and Lieuts. Harry A. Halvorsen and Elwood R. Quesada for 150 hours at Los Angeles.

FAMILY ON FIELD AS HUNTER BOYS KEEP ON FLYING

Brothers on Ground Take Time for Shave.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Out at Sky Harbor, where a large crowd may be found at any hour of the day or night, craning necks and thrusting chins skyward for a glimpse of the record beating endurance flyers, John and Kenneth Hunter, life has settled down to a certain routine. There seems to be a feeling that inasmuch as the Hunter boys have stayed up there this long it's hard telling when they will come down.

Walter and Albert Hunter, the refueling team, took time out yesterday to shave, bathe, and slick their hair. Their sister, Irene, tireless and sleepless until midnight Sunday, appeared on the field yesterday afternoon refreshed after her first sleep since Friday night. With her was her mother, Mrs. Ida Hunter, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Albert Hunter.

Thirty or more newspaper reporters and cameramen, movie cameramen, radio experts and others rolled up in blankets on the field or in the hangar last night and prepared for a week's stay.

He's Asked to Pose for Ad.

Walter and his sweetheart, Miss Gladys Hodam, of Ludlow, grew tired of the crowds, which refused to let them be alone. They had crept off to one corner of the hangar and she had just remarked on the fact that he had washed his face, and he had just carelessly put his arm across the back of her chair, when an earnest young man came up to him to plead that he pose for an advertisement of aviators' goggles.

Gladys slipped away, Walter ran his hand through his reddish yellow hair, blushed, and finally answered a question as to whether he and Miss Hodam might not announce their engagement soon.

"That young lady and I have had an understanding for a long time," he said, "but neither of us believes in engagements, and all that stuff. When we get married, we're just going to get married."

Flies to Girl's Home.

Walter met Miss Hodam in Chicago shortly after she was graduated at the University of Illinois. When she returned to Ludlow, where her father is a prosperous farmer and grain elevator owner, Walter used to fly from Sparta to visit her.

"The first time I flew there, I looked all around for a landing place, and the best I could find was a field of oats," he said. "Well, I landed there, and then went in to meet her father. 'I reckon I owe you for about 10 bushels of oats, sir,' I told him. But he said that was all right. So I just kept on using the oats for my landing field."

SHAFER DENIES EMBEZZLING AT CINCINNATI BANK

Cincinnati, O., June 30.—(AP)—Amor W. Shafer, whose alleged $1,000,000 check kiting manipulations were said by state and federal authorities to have forced the closing of two banks here, today pleaded not guilty to three charges of embezzlement of $210,162 from the Henry L. Doherty company, his former employers. His trial date has not been set.

State bank examiners reported a shortage of $523,000 in Shafer's accounts with the Cosmopolitan Bank and Trust company, which closed on June 10, while Haveth E. Mau, United States district attorney, said the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks' National bank, which closed on June 26, was forced to lock its doors after it was found Shafer had deposited collateral valued at $225,000 which bore forged signatures.

Shafer's alleged shortages with the banks were separate from shortages which the Doherty company said it found in the defendant's books.

Doherty officials said Shafer's shortage probably would total $500,000.

Cashier Snatches Revolver from Bandit, Jails Him

Stanton, Minn., June 30.—(AP)—Out of work and without funds, James Caldwell, 64, Superior, Wis., turned to bank robbery today and wound up in jail almost immediately as the 22 year old cashier of the State bank of Stanton took his gun away from him and marched him to the sheriff's office.

Entering the bank when the cashier, Richard Jacobson, was alone, the aged man shoved the gun through the cage bars and demanded money. Instead Jacobson snatched the weapon away and then held Caldwell for the sheriff.

Bank Robber Gets $2,000.

Charleston, W. Va., June 30.—(AP)—A bandit held up the First National bank of St. Albans, near here today, took $2,000 from S. D. McGee, cashier of the bank, and escaped in an automobile.

Go to your dealer's today. Don't delay. Dealers' stocks are limited and will not last long. This offer is made, not only to give the millions of Kotex users a remarkable Kotex value—but to enable women everywhere who may not be users of Kleenex Cleansing Tissues to try, without expense, this important toilet accessory.

Once women do try it, the Kleenex Company has found, an overwhelming majority will accept no other way to remove cold cream. Kleenex Cleansing Tissues are used and recommended by many important stage and screen stars, and leading beauty shops everywhere.

Kotex—more than a "sanitary" pad

Kotex is utterly different from all other sanitary pads. There is no other "like" Kotex.

Thus Kotex has the amazing power of absorbing 16 times its weight in moisture. That's 5 times more, by actual test, than surgical cotton. Think what this means in protection! Think of the ease of mind on warm summer days to feel sure of your sanitary protection.

Quickly, easily disposable

You use Kotex, then dispose of it . . . simply and quickly. No laundry problem. No disposal worries. Think of the relief in that feature alone.

In summer women appreciate these advantages of Kotex: it is shaped to fit, under sheerest, tight-fitting summer frocks; it deodorizes thoroughly and absolutely. Keeps one dainty at all times. Banishes a summertime worry completely.

85% of hospitals use Kotex absorbent

Here's final, medical proof of Kotex' superiority: 85% of the country's leading hospitals use the identical material of which Kotex is made. They've tried everything. They consider Kotex best. They use it, not only for sanitary pads, but for the most serious surgical operations. Doctors insist on Kotex for their patients. Will you accept less?

Accept this offer

Go today to any store in this city where Kotex is sold and take advantage of this opportunity. But do not delay. All dealers' stocks are limited. If you come late you cannot be supplied.

Stage and screen stars declare Kleenex to be the only safe and sanitary way of removing cold cream. It is so soft, so absorbent, that it blots up all dirt and cosmetics along with the cream. The skin is left scrupulously clean, free of the germs that endanger beauty. Towels are spared the ruinous stains left by cosmetics.

Doctors are recommending Kleenex for handkerchief use, especially for colds and hay fever. You use each tissue but once—then throw it away. Cold germs are discarded, too. Thus you avoid reinfecting yourself from an unsanitary handkerchief. Kleenex makes ideal handkerchiefs for children, and for everyday use.

Kleenex comes in three exquisite colors, as well as white. Ask for your favorite tint—delicate pink, green or yellow. Colors are guaranteed absolutely safe and pure.

ADVERTISING

IN THE YEAR 1921 the post-war business depression reached its lowest level. A number of advertisers, realizing the opportunity for larger markets, more good will and greater profits, increased their advertising expenditures. This same thing happened in 1929 and is happening now.

A careful analysis of the profitable results of these companies as compared with the companies who decreased their expenditures discloses the following facts.

There were 184 national advertisers who expended $150,000 or more, in leading magazines during 1920 or 1921. Of these 184 advertisers, 59, or 32.1%, increased their advertising expenditures in 1921 as compared with 1920.

The remaining 125 decreased their advertising expenditures in 1921 as compared with 1920.

Of the 59 advertisers who increased their advertising expenditures, 30 published profit and loss figures for the years 1919 to 1924 inclusive. Only these 30 advertisers are included in the analysis.

Of the 125 advertisers who decreased their 1921 advertising expenditures, 46 published profit and loss figures from 1919 to 1924 inclusive. Only these 46 are included in the analysis.

The profits for each group, that is, those who decreased their advertising and those who increased their advertising, were averaged for the six years 1919 to 1924 inclusive.

COMPARISON OF TREND OF NET PROFITS

*1919 PROFITS WERE TAKEN AS A STANDARD AND PROFITS FOR OTHER YEARS WERE FIGURED ON THOSE OF 1919 AS A BASE

This chart shows the profit performance of the 30 companies who increased their advertising in the year 1921, compared with the profit performance of the 46 companies who decreased their advertising in 1921.

The 30 companies who increased their advertising expenditure in the year 1921 over 1920, and whose profit performances are charted above, represent a large number of diversified industries, including:

- Agricultural Implements
- Cameras
- Electrical
- Electrical Equipment
- Foods
- Fountain Pens
- Furniture
- Heating Equipment
- House Furnishings & Equipment
- Jewelry & Silverware
- Lubricants & Fuel Oils
- Machinery
- Men's Ready-to-Wear
- Motion Pictures
- Paints & Varnishes
- Passenger Cars
- Plumbing Fixtures
- Soaps & Cleansers
- Smoking Materials
- Toilet Goods

A considerable number of advertisers have increased their advertising in 1930 over 1929. These advertisers have increased their purchases of advertising space in spite of rather poor business conditions.

We believe the net profits of the firms who increase their advertising expenditures will average considerably higher than the profits of those advertisers who fail to take advantage of the opportunities offered in 1930. And when business returns to normal (as it always does in America) they will reap even greater benefits from their farsightedness.

THE NAVAL GAMBLE.

The minority report from the senate foreign relations committee opposing the ratification of the London naval treaty is signed by Senators Johnson of California, Moses of New Hampshire, and Robinson of Indiana. Senator Shipstead of Minnesota is another objector with his own minority report. Senator Borah, chairman of the committee, leads a large majority of the committee in reporting favorably. Mr. Borah accepts the state department view of the agreement. Mr. Johnson represents the navy.

The minority senators have the backing of the great weight of naval opinion, of experience and of American naval policy. The majority indorses British naval policy accepted by the American administration.

The minority report states fact which unfortunately will remain true if the senate approves of the agreement. The treaty does not serve American purposes. It is not consistent with the avowed intention of the negotiations. It does not give the United States equality with Great Britain in naval power or strength of fleet. It does not even match ship with ship. It upsets the ratio fixed by the Washington conference and strengthens the Japanese while weakening America.

The United States did not obtain consent that it should build even one modern ship to be the equivalent of the Rodney or the Nelson, but was given leave to modernize its capital ships, for which it did not need consent. It lost the right to build its desired quota of larger cruisers required by its naval situation and its policy, but was given the privilege of building a smaller British type of cruiser which the American navy does not want.

It has not been explained what the state department seeks to accomplish by this agreement. It is apparent that what will be done under it is not desired by the navy, although Mr. Adams, secretary of the department, indorses it.

The minority opposed to the treaty has the arguments and the facts, but may not have the votes. If the proponents of the treaty have the votes it is to be hoped that the United States will not have any serious need of the navy during the period affected directly or indirectly by the treaty. The treaty makers are gambling with the chance that the United States will not have to look to its navy for any critical work until it can be relieved of the effects of this international agreement. Luck may be with them, but it is a gamble and that is not sensible protection.

FOOTNOTE TO DR. EVANS

Dr. Evans in a recent TRIBUNE article reviewed a study of the diet of the upper classes in the thirteenth century—what the barons ate. It was considerable. A state dinner consisted of three courses. In the first there were seven kinds of meat, four in the second, with a soup, and five in the third. The meats and fish were heavily spiced with saffron and onions. Whatever bread or vegetables were in the meal were found usually in the pastry tarts. There were cooked and raw fruits on some of the menus, the cooked fruits spiced, and on fast days the barons would omit the meats and satisfy themselves on a dozen kinds of fish.

The meat, game, poultry, and fish would be gorged down with great quantities of wine, beer and other liquors. The old fellows were lusty men while they lasted and their table accomplishments were nothing which would get an indorsement of "It won't hurt you" or of "Why worry about that?" in How to Keep Well.

The barons ate long and often, but their house physicians probably had good reasons for not urging them to cut out a little of the meat and to consider three or four gallons of wine enough at a sitting. Indiscretions at the table were minor hazards in a well lived life of the time. An arrow in the eye, an iron mace alongside the head or a point through a chink in the armor could end a man's eating days long before any of the dangers of gormandizing could catch up with him as a friend of the table.

We know how it happened with many of the kings. An arrow carried Harold off at Hastings. William the Conqueror died of falling off his horse when it plunged about in the cinders of the burning town of Mantes when he was fighting in France. William II. was killed in the New Forest while hunting. Richard I. was mortally wounded by an arrow while besieging Chalus. Edward II. was murdered to make way for his succession. Richard II. was murdered in prison. Edward V. was murdered in the Tower of London. Richard III. was killed in battle.

Death in this fashion could almost be regarded as an occupational disease. Men could afford to think less of their health and their habits owing to the uncertainties of life in other directions. The earls and the barons no doubt found these uncertainties considerably greater than did the kings even in the periods of greatest monarchical activity. Indeed it was so notable an event when a baron had the opportunity of being carried off by an indiscretion in the diet or by a natural cause that he was given a distinction in his effigy. Rushes were carved under the head as a pillow, indicating that he had died in bed.

For the British kings a period of less effort began along with the Tudors. It came to be regarded as a kingly privilege to keep out of the troubles of the field. The barons and earls could take care of that, and the tradition grew that it was a mistake to allow anything to happen to the person on the throne. Charles I. found himself an exception to this and had his head cut off.

George II. was the last British king to fancy himself personally on the field of battle. He was of continental German habits. The kings learned how to keep well by abandoning the major hazards and this policy prevailed in the recent war. There were monarchical losses, but not in the field. The kaiser heeds the doctor at Doorn and if he eats well takes his exercise on the wood pile. After the monarchs had listened to reason on the subject of military procedure they no doubt were more amenable to the medical men all around.

THE END OF THE OCCUPATION.

The French leaving the Rhine are out of German territory four and a half years before the date fixed in the treaty provisions for occupation, but in accordance with the stipulations based upon Germany's fulfillment of obligations. Germany, after the Franco-Prussian war, was to remain in certain departments of France until the billion dollar indemnity was paid, but French territory was evacuated in September of 1873 on payment of the last installment by the French.

The policy of occupation, although nearly always dangerous, was not a novelty of severity in the instance just ended. It is one of uncertain consequences, with the probabilities bad. The British retention of American territory after the treaty which ended the war of the revolution was part of the procedure which brought on the next war with Great Britain. The occupation of the southern states by federal troops after the civil war prolonged the rancors of the war until close to our own times.

A people who have suffered severely in war and have had the additional miseries of defeat and painful recuperation get lasting impressions from the presence and conduct of alien troops stationed among them to distress their sentiments and control their movements. Wars themselves have ended without great bitterness. That often has been created by the conditions of the ensuing peace.

Of the occupying armies the French were the most irritating to the Germans. They were the most numerous. They and the Belgians came from the countries of greatest war devastation. The French used many colored troops, and these colonials were offensive to the Germans. The French wanted the territory west of the Rhine, and at various times could be accused, with a show of reason, of provocations designed to keep it. The whole situation, even when it was best handled, was full of dangers to the future peace of Europe. If the position of the two countries to each other in relation to population, and, thus, in relation to future military strength, had been reversed, there would have been dangers. They were aggravated by the fact that the larger country was occupied by the forces of the smaller.

With the occupation ended another period of recovery is begun. The war in its broadest sense is not over yet. Its settlements have not been made. The psychology of its after effects has not been determined or revealed. When Germany no longer is supporting French troops expectations with which Europe may look to the future should be better defined.

THE ROLE OF TRAP SHOTS IN WAR.

The daily flight of army planes over Chicago, in connection with the show at Soldiers' field, has probably served to distract attention from the notable advances made in anti-aircraft weapons since 1918. The airplane is faster, more dependable and more accurate in its bombing than it was in the last war, but the advances in the airplane have been more than balanced by improvements in anti-aircraft fire. Officers of the anti-aircraft arm assert that they now have fire control instruments which will make it all but impossible for hostile airplanes to enter a guarded zone, day or night, without being detected and shot down.

The anti-aircraft guns and searchlights are amazingly effective against an enemy a thousand feet or more up, but they are not of much value against a low flying plane. The lower the plane flies the more difficult it is to hit because of the rapidly changing angle.

There seems to be room here for the expert trap shooter. The anti-aircraft cannon and the machine gun may fail to bring down the low flying plane, but the man accustomed to firing at clay pigeons will find an airplane an easy mark. It goes no faster, it presents a far larger target, and its course is far less erratic than that of the clay pigeon. In the next war every company may have to have one or more trap shots armed with special rifles, perhaps, to bring down the enemy flyers should they venture within range.

Editorial of the Day

THE GERMAN BAND.
[Hartford, Conn., Courant.]

The German band has passed to a just reward. The war first put it out of business, and the development of the radio and the movie has kept it from returning, as did German opera and German literature after the war hate had disappeared. Perhaps prohibition had something to do with its going, too, for the memory of the stolid, hard tooting ensemble is somehow mingled with the odor from the "growler" of beer presented to the band with a twenty-five cent piece by paterfamilias.

Never again will there be such music. Not, of course, music for the critical minded, but the comfortable, kindly, sentimental, red plush and walrus mustache music of the first of the century. The clarinet squeaked with a magnificent disregard for the score, while the cornet blatted, the trombone harrumphed and the tuba oompahed. Yet together they somehow assembled a lusty approximation of a tune, and they were cheerful about their errors. It was an age of Copenhagen snuff, of filigree plaster and midday naps and neither the efficiency expert nor the humanist had been invented. Errors were forgiven for sentiment, accuracy had nothing to do with enjoyment.

There is nothing to take its place. Science has harnessed the atom and the ether to give us a myriad radios shrilling the latest boop-boop-a-doop. At tremendous cost the talking movies give the glottal click of the most expensive cinema star and the mournful chanting of the monks of Tibet. But nothing but sad memory can recall the cheerful bathos of the misogynistic clarinet and the three red faced brasses.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

WHEN THEY NOMINATE A CERTAIN COLUMNIST IN 1932.

Mis-ter Chairman, ladies and gentlemen of the Republican party in convention assembled: I rise to place in nomination for President of these United States a man who has won fame as one of the foremost columnists in this great country; a man who by his scintillating shafts of wit and humor has made the soft boiled eggs and the brown toast and the fragrant mocha at your breakfast table taste a hundred times better; and yet a man who as a daily columnist can be truly said to be a man of sorrow and acquainted with grief. Yes, my friends! Whenever you pass a newspaper columnist in the street, you can say as the people of Florence said of Dante: "There goes a man who has been in hell."

Ladies and gentlemen of the Republican party in convention assembled, we have had farmers who were Presidents and Presidents who were farmers; we have had lawyers and soldiers and statesmen and engineers and business men sitting in the White House at Washington to guide the ship of state. But up to date we have never had a newspaper columnist for President. Think what it will mean! Think how a columnist in the presidential chair will help make life more worth living for one and all. Think how much easier it will be to read the President's message if written by a columnist in column style. Now, let everybody who has ever read a President's message hold up his hand. Not one! I thought as much! But wait until the President's message is written in column style and handed out to you at the rate of 150 or 200 words every day with a good laugh in every line. Then you'll all read it. And with a columist in Washington we can count on a regular newspaper column in the Congressional Record.

And think of what a columnist President will do to a new tariff bill. I tell you, ladies and gentlemen, he'll not only make you laugh 'til your sides ache over every item in the bill that hikes the price of shoes, beefsteak, and overcoats, but he'll make the damn thing rhyme—yes, ladies and gentlemen, he'll make it rhyme. And then you'll enjoy the tariff bill so much you won't care how much the price of living is boosted. And so, ladies and gentlemen, I now place in nomination for President that splendid and rising young columnist—Calvin C. Coolidge of Massachusetts! [Terrific cheering and applause lasting seventy-five minutes, during which the delegates leave their seats and march around waving newspapers.]

CYNIC'S FORMULA.

We will be wiser,
We will know
That life is largely
A puppet show;
That love is only
A minor thing
That moves when some one
Pulls a string;
That romance is a Kind of song
That agitates us
Overlong;
That happiness
Is not a state
In which to live
And vegetate;
That dreams long carried
In our eyes
Will flash and go
Like fireflies
Across the meadows,
Out of sight
To gather in
The arms of night . . .

We will be wiser,
Still we know:
We'll always be part
Of the puppet show!

OWEN PETERSON.

POULTNEY BIGELOW comes back from a visit to the Woodcutter of Doorn and says that Mr. Hohenzollern wants an international court-martial to determine who started the great war, and that he is willing to go on trial. Oh, Mr. Hohenzollern! The world has lost interest in that matter. Even if you were found guilty you couldn't possibly be a martyr at this late date. About all you would get would be thirty days and a ten dollar fine.

WE WERE terribly thrilled as we listened in on the radio and heard about the Hunter boys breaking the world's endurance record. But, oh, how saddened we were when the announcer called it an endoorance wreckered. And how the blinding tears came when he said, "The boys have set a noo mark in the sky." But we did not faint until the announcer told us, "Yes, folks, this is great noos, great noos, folks!" Ah, the poor English language. Can naught be done to save it?

Why, Jascha, How Could You!

[From the esteemed Her-Ex.]

Florence Vidor, former screen star and wife of Jascha Heifetz, the famous violinist, who expects to become a mother in the near future.

GET BUSY, all you who insist on reading the best sellers. There's one out now that hasn't any blurb on the jacket and not a single line of mention in the book reviewers' pages, but the first edition runs up over a million copies. No, we haven't read it yet, but don't tell us. We want to find out for ourselves how it comes out. Gosh, we're just like a book reviewer ourselves. We forgot to tell you the name of the new book is the Chicago Telephone Directory for 1930.

THE FRENCH ARMY marched away from the Rhine yesterday and is back in France. But it's going to take 'em a long time to learn how to drink vin rouge in place of lager beer. Who won the war?

CARING FOR ENGLISH BABIES

A BRITISH town has almost succeeded in preventing fatal diarrhea in babies by the following method: When a nursing baby develops diarrhea serious enough to cause fever, the health department is notified. A nurse responds to the notification. Calling on the family and the physician, she offers her services with the compliments of the department. If she is not needed she retires. If she is needed she gives such service as a visiting nurse making one call a day, or two or three calls a week, can render.

In every way possible through the attending physician and the nurse, the health department endeavors to carry out their standard method for diarrhea in babies, which is as follows:

The facts as to the cause of the trouble are ascertained. Is the baby breast fed? If artificially fed, what food was used? If liquid cow's milk, from what source? Has the home refrigeration? Is the milk properly kept?

The sick baby is given no food of any kind for twenty-four hours. As soon as vomiting is checked, if that is a symptom, the baby is given unlimited quantities of cold water containing four grains of table salt to the quart of water. This supplies both water and salt, of which a vomiting, purging baby is very much in need.

The lower bowel is washed out with a saline enema. A teaspoon of castor oil is given by mouth. The oil and the enema are given once daily until the bowel trouble is checked.

After the day of starvation the baby is given a little malted milk. If less than two months old, two teaspoons in two ounces of water every three hours. Older children are given more milk. If the weather is hot the baby is dressed very lightly and kept as cool as possible. After a few days, if everything is going nicely, the baby is ready for a little milk.

They begin by adding 10 drops of milk to a feeding of malted milk. The portion is increased daily. Great care must be taken to see that the cow's milk added is fresh and clean. Breast milk should be used if it is available.

After a baby has had a spell of diarrhea with fever the parents should redouble their efforts to provide clean, fresh, cold cow's milk, if human milk is not available. Of course, there are cases of diarrhea in babies for which the simple regulation of diet will not suffice, but following it, this community has greatly lessened the hazard to their babies. The method came originally from Copenhagen.

HAVE AN EXAMINATION.

R. M. writes: Recently you wrote that one of the symptoms of diabetes is the passing of large quantities of urine. I have that trouble but none of the other symptoms mentioned. I have tried to control it but it gets the best of me. I am a business woman, 40 years old, weighing 123 pounds, and 5 feet 3 inches in height. Is there any relief for that condition?

REPLY.

Have your urine examined as the basis for a diagnosis as between sugar diabetes and diabetes insipidus. If you have sugar diabetes, proper dieting will lessen the annoyance from the symptoms noted. If you have diabetes insipidus dieting will not help, though drinking less water is of service.

The treatment of diabetes insipidus may consist in the use of some ductless gland preparation, or in procedures to lessen spinal fluid pressure.

The symptom complained of is often due to nervousness. In that case, training is the proper treatment.

HERPES RARELY DANGEROUS.

F. J. H. writes:

1. Your reply to Mrs. W. C. K. says in part, ". . . the encephalitis which follows herpes," etc. Does this mean that encephalitis is a frequent aftermath of herpes?

2. Is a herpes infection (not of the shingles type) serious?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Barely. The rule is that herpes infections are sources of discomfort but are not otherwise important.

DRAWING UP A WILL.

Neoga, Ill., June 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I realize the importance of having an attorney draw up a will, but would like to ask some questions of you.

1. If a bank official is named trustee and executor would it be legal to have will acknowledged before him as a notary?

2. Would it be proper to have an employé of this bank sign as a witness to this will? C. S.

1. Wills are not acknowledged before a notary. The official should not act as a witness.

2. We advise against it, but if you intend to trust the bank to draw the will it would seem consistent for you to trust them throughout. If you do not consider them sufficiently competent or unprejudiced to be trusted on the points involved in your letter you should not employ them to draw your will.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DOGS, BEWARE!

Chicago, June 26.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please see that the dog catchers' wagon is sent out in our neighborhood? I have reported to police, but the dogs are still running around—Airedales, police dogs, bulldogs, and every other kind. Their regular territory is along 107th street from Longwood drive to Western avenue. L. W. M.

Our dog catchers made three trips in the neighborhood complained of and picked up two dogs. They will continue their visits until this neighborhood is free from dogs running at large. JOHN H. ALCOCK, Acting Commissioner of Police.

ESTATE SHRINKS.

Chicago, June 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Ten years ago my father remarried and made a prenuptial agreement to give his wife $1,000, to be paid after his death.

The estate, which was valued at $25,000 when he married, has now shrunk to a valuation of about $5,000. Will the heirs have to pay this $1,000 out of their own personal money or can she only demand it from the estate and take less if the estate does not realize $1,000? H. E.

The latter, unless the heirs have affirmatively agreed to pay her. Under the ordinary antenuptial agreement the heirs would not be personally liable.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 1, 1865.

CHICAGO—William Bell was hanged yesterday at Waukegan for the murder of Ruth Briden, 60 years old, who was found dead in the cow yard of her home near Lake Zurich by a neighbor on Nov. 22, 1863. She had been slain with an ax and a razor. From first to last Bell denied he committed the murder, but he was convicted on circumstantial evidence. The feature of the case is the astounding coolness of the condemned man and his resolute denial of the crime down to his latest breath. He was launched into eternity, calling to God to witness that he was innocent. It makes one shudder to ask: "What if it were true?"

CHICAGO.—At a meeting of the board of trustees of the University of Chicago, with President Charles Walker in the chair, on motion of J. Y. Scammon, it was decided that each daily session of the board shall be opened with reading of the scriptures and prayer.

FORTRESS MONROE.—About 100 government horses were sold at auction. The prices varied from $10 to $15.

CAIRO.—The Memphis Bulletin's New Orleans special says: "The colored people of Vicksburg protest against the proclamation of President Johnson appointing Judge Sharkey governor of Mississippi and the nonextension of the elective franchise. They claim they have been made free and therefore want all their rights."

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 1, 1900.

LONDON.—The British foreign office has been notified that the ministers in foreign legations in Peking were safe up to June 25. All reports are that the Boxer trouble is spreading rapidly.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Confirmation of the reported grounding of the battleship Oregon was received today. Capt. Wilde informed the navy department that in a dense fog the ship had struck Pinnacle rock in the Gulf of Pechili, three miles south of How-Ki light. He said there was much water in the forward compartment and that the hull was pierced in several places.

NEW YORK.—Probably 300 lives, perhaps more—some estimates put the number as high as 500—were lost in a fire horror that in many respects is unprecedented when flames swept the North German Lloyd docks and shipping at Hoboken. Three great ocean liners, the Saale, Bremen and Main, were destroyed. The property loss is estimated at $10,000,000

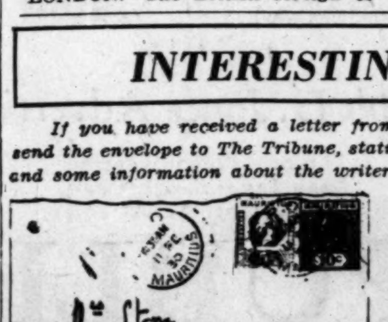
JULY 1, 1920.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Thrusting aside the crown for the third time in the manner deemed by his managers most certain to confer it on him, former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, the President's son-in-law, was apparently almost within reach of the nomination when the Democratic national convention adjourned tonight. McAdoo was put in nomination "informally" by what his friends term the "draft" method. However, he faces a bitter fight, for his opponents are busy trying to frame combinations to beat him. In all ten candidates, including McAdoo, Gov. Cox of Ohio, Attorney General Palmer, and A. E. Smith of New York, were put in nomination.

INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.



Letter received by Mrs. W. C. Stone, 315 South Central Park avenue, Chicago.

"This letter was sent to me by my sister, who is governess in the family of Sir Alan Grannum, acting governor of the island of Mauritius," Mrs. Stone writes. "Mauritius is a British colony in the Indian ocean, 550 miles east of Madagascar.

"From its mountainous character it is a most picturesque place, being surrounded by coral reefs which make its ports difficult of access.

"The inhabitants consist of two main divisions, chiefly French and British, with numerous half-caste people, Asiatics and Africans. Indian coolies work the sugar plantations and act as house servants or 'boys.'

"The island became a British possession in 1814 by the Treaty of Paris. Port Louis is the seat of government."

THE CAUSE OF BUSINESS DEPRESSION.

Chicago, June 27.—The newspapers, the college professors, and our noble business men do not know anything about the cause of the industrial depression. They all express views and they all have theories, but the fact remains they do not know the cause nor do they apparently care to know.

A few years ago the Florida fruit industry was threatened with extermination due to the Mediterranean fly; the government promptly put a force of experts at work on the problem and checked the spread of the fly. Similar work has been done by the states and federal government in checking San José scale, the boll weevil, and the corn borer.

A parallel case is in checking the malignant diseases, until smallpox is a little heard of trouble, typhoid is rare, yellow fever is very rare, and tuberculosis is being checked.

If the government can spend millions to keep up the various bureaus employed in fighting bugs and diseases they can certainly afford to spend a little bit to ward off the business depression and keep it in check just as is done in the case of insects. A. W. D.

CHICAGO'S REPUTATION.

Chicago, June 12.—Our maid, who is about twenty-one years old, left Breslau, Germany, about three years ago and went direct to Cincinnati, where she remained about a year, then came on to Chicago. She stated to me this morning that in every letter she receives her mother in Breslau warns her to leave Chicago, as she is liable to be killed at any time by the bandits, and furthermore constantly reminds her daughter that had she known in advance that she ever intended to come to Chicago she would not have given her consent to come to America.

NO LIFE GUARD.

Chicago, June 26.—The writer assisted last night in pulling out of Belmont harbor, near Sheridan road and Roscoe street, a young man who had gone out beyond his depth and swallowed some water. It was about 8:30 and there was no life guard to bring him around. The efforts of those present wouldn't have been successful had he been in a worse condition. Why can't a life guard be put on duty to prevent such accidents?

DIVIDING THE WATER.

Chicago, June 26.—On hot days we can get no water above the first floor during sprinkling hours. A most insanitary state of affairs, and the lawn sprinkling is not effective because of poor pressure. Since the waterworks cannot supply all at the same time, the sprinkling hours should be scattered throughout the day and the even numbered houses be allowed to use the hose only on the even numbered days of the month, and the odd numbers on the odd days. Thus the water department would only have to serve half of the population at a time, and there would be no shortage in the houses.

M. D.

HOOVER IN 1928.

Chicago, June 26.—On Aug. 11, 1928, at Palo Alto, Cal., Herbert Hoover, in accepting the Republican nomination for President, said:

"The Republican party came into authority nearly eight years ago. It is necessary to remind ourselves of the critical conditions of that time. We were confronted with an incompleted peace and involved in violent and dangerous disputes both at home and abroad. The federal government was spending at the rate of five and one-half billions per year; our national debt stood at the staggering total of twenty-four billions. The foreign debts were unsettled. The country was in a panic from overexpansion due to the war and the continued inflation of credit and currency after the armistice, followed by a precipitant nation-wide deflation which in half a year crashed the prices of commodities by nearly one-half. Agriculture was prostrated, land was unsalable, commerce and industry were stagnated, our foreign trade ebbed away, five millions of unemployed walked the streets. Discontent and agitation against our democracy were rampant. Fear for the future haunted every heart."

I wonder what Mr. Hoover would say about present conditions if he were accepting the nomination today?

MARTIN M. WARD.

ANOTHER BIRD RESCUE.

Marquette, Mich., June 24.—Around some large elms in our yard were sunken pipes used to irrigate the trees. My attention was drawn to one of these one morning by some fluttering black feathers which were sticking out and waving in the air. Scarcely thinking what I was doing, I reached down to pull them out and found to my amazement that I had a grackle in my hand. I tossed it into the air and the bird, with a parting squawk of thanks, flew off.

Evidently, in search of water, the bird had lost its balance and head down in this small pipe would certainly have soon perished had it not be rescued.

AUSTRIA SEIZES FORMER CHICAGO MAN FOR FRAUD

Amazed Europe by His Lavish Spending.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, June 30.—John Wesley de Kay, eccentric American, who claims Chicago as his home but who for the last three months has set central Europe on its ears with his lavish spending, was arrested at Salzburg today on charges of swindle and lodged in the local bastile.

It was a comedown for the American, who last month hired a yacht to sail up and down the Adriatic, took over entire floors of hotels while traveling in Jugo-Slavia, and only last week asked the Austrian state railways to provide him with a special train to conduct him from the Italian border to Salzburg.

The railway company was not providing special trains that day, so de Kay hired a couple of big automobiles instead. All through Europe he left a string of waiters, valets and maids gasping at his fantastic tips.

Wants to Call Up Mossolini.

His first request when arrested today was for a telephone call to Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy.

The police believe he is involved in the swindle of $60,000 from the State Bank of Albania, and of $10,000 from the State Bank of Munich. When arrested de Kay had on his person $10,000 in checks, issued by the Spielmann bank of Lucerne, Switzerland, and drawn on the Chicago branch of the National City bank.

The American legation and consulate here said de Kay has not yet applied to them for aid. It is said that steps are being taken to investigate whether his American passport is falsified.

OWNED NEWSPAPER.

John Wesley de Kay, formerly owner of a Waukegan newspaper, and father of Jeanne de Kay, search for whom covered the entire world several years ago, finally ending with the discovery of her body in Lake Michigan, has been the battle center of many an adventure.

As de la Huerta's representative in Europe, he secured 18,000 Spanish made rifles and a huge amount of ammunition but failed to get them into Vero Cruz. He later sold them to Belgium, causing an international tangle.

De Kay took a fling at the Mosul oil concessions in 1922, but his efforts in the near east failed. A packing concern which he established in Mexico failed.

He disappeared from America in 1913 following his indictment jointly with his brother, Henry E. de Kay, and the late Edward P. Metcalf, president of the Atlantic National bank of Providence, R. I., in connection with the looting of that bank of $200,000. He was next heard from thereafter the following year in London, when Calow & Sons, a jewelry firm, sued him for $15,000 in connection with articles loaned and purchased for the entertainment of Sarah Bernhardt.

Fire on Luckner Yacht Forces Women to Flee

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Fire, starting in the galley of Count Felix von Luckner's four masted schooner yacht Mopelia, anchored in the Hudson off 79th street, this morning forced Countess von Luckner, her maid, and Mrs. Herman Ibbekan, wife of the yacht's captain, to flee to shore in their night dresses, and gave the count and his crew an exciting half hour of fire fighting. The flames were confined to the galley, where they did damage estimated at $5,000.

"The responsibility on the voters is exactly the same as if they were asked to authorize a bond issue of $460,000,000 for public improvements. To agree to pay interest on this $460,000,000 will in fact cost more than interest on $460,000,000 of city bonds. We only get public service by paying for it. The people of Chicago must pay for every dollar spent to provide local transportation.

Both Sides Have Arguments.

"The newspapers have given space liberally to supporters and opponents of the ordinance. The voters are entitled to a fair statement of both sides. Supporters of the ordinance believe that the people can afford to pay between $20,000,000 and $35,000,000 every year for the use of the properties controlled by the Insull interests, and can safely rely on their promises of better public service. Opponents believe that the price is too high and that the promises of better service are too deceptive and uncertain to warrant approval of the bargain.

"Finally, it is well for the voters to consider whether they are willing to give the Insull interests a perpetual grant of increased power over the government of Chicago, in view of the degradation of that government to its present condition of incompetence and dishonesty."

Rely on Unpopularity.

In their hope for the defeat of the ordinance, the opponents are relying upon the lack of popularity for previous transportation ordinances. The surface lines ordinances were approved in 1907 by a majority of only 33,136. The voters participating totaled 301,598.

On the 1918 ordinance there were 453,016 votes and it lost by a majority of 33,652. The vote on the 1925 ordinance was 556,782 and it lost by a majority of 105,674. It is expected there will be 400,000 or more votes on the referendum today.

McDonough Tells Issues.

Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, chairman of the committee favoring the ordinance, in his final statement says that the issue at the polls "is progress and prosperity versus obstruction and stagnation." He claims that while there has been apathy during most of the campaign, there are several indications that the people now desire an opportunity to obtain adequate transportation.

"In this election there is only one question to decide, only one mark to make on the ballot," continues his statement. "Here are some of the things a 'yes' vote will get for Chicago:

"The relief of unemployment through the expenditure of at least $300,000,000 for construction and improvements.

Cites Transfer Privileges.

"The addition of 1,000 new steel cars to the rapid transit system and 1,000 new cars or buses on the surface lines.

"The construction within ten years of 300 miles of surface lines extensions and 110 miles of single track for the rapid transit system. This will amount to an increase of 30 per cent in the surface lines system and 56 per cent in the rapid transit system.

"The addition of a billion dollars to real estate values with the opening up of new territory and encouragement of building because of added transportation facilities.

Company to Pay 3 Per Cent.

"Payment by the company of 3 per cent of its annual gross receipts for use of public property.

"Large savings to car riders in travel time, due to the doubled size of the system, faster cars, and additional high speed lines.

"With that list of benefits to be secured, without cost to the taxpayer, is there any reason why the forward looking voters will not do their duty? I predict victory for the ordinance by an overwhelming majority."

BROTHER AND SISTER SUED BY M'CASKRIN FOR ESTATE DIVISION

Champaign, Ill., June 30.—(AP)—State Representative Harry M. McCaskrin filed suit in County court today to force his brother and sister to divide the farm holdings of their father equally with him. The father, James C. McCaskrin of Rantoul, died intestate just a few hours before the suit was filed.

The brother is George Washington McCaskrin, former mayor of Rock Island, former state representative, and once a candidate for governor. He recently contested for state representative of this district and was defeated. The sister, Mrs. Louise E. Stayton, kept house for her father.

Longest Way Is Shortest to These Union Movers

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Members of the teamsters' union today moved a musical comedy, "Stepping Sisters," from the Royale theater to the Masque theater. The houses' stage doors are adjacent, and they both use the same alley. But the teamsters backed their trucks to the Royale door, drove out the alley past the Masque door, around the block and back into the same alley before the props were unloaded into the Masque. The operation cost $300.

DRY AGENT'S PAIN BRINGS HIS HOST A JAIL SENTENCE

Paul Bein, proprietor of the Roxana hotel and dance pavilion at Fox Lake, yesterday accused Robert McNaught, 250 pound prohibition agent, of entrapping Bein by pretending he had stomachache. At the same time, Bein pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Woodward to sale of liquor.

Assistant United States Attorney Eugene A. Tappy informed the court that McNaught, posing as an affluent and leisurely guest of the hotel, did employ the stomachache ruse, but he declared that Bein was too readily convinced—six sales were alleged—to claim entrapment.

Mr. Tappy asserted that McNaught ate heartily of the hotel's fried chicken and then complained of acute pains. Bein always provided the remedy, he said. Judge Woodward sentenced Bein to three months in jail and fined him $500, and James Williams, bartender, was fined $250.

ALL-INDIA REBEL LEADER JAILED IN BRITISH DRIVE

Head of "War Council" Seized in Raid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, India, June 30.—The government of India today moved for the complete suppression of the nationalist movement by the arrest at Allahabad of Pandit Motilal Nehru, a Hindu and acting president of the all-India national congress, and Sayed Mahmud, a Moslem, its secretary. The government, it is declared, has spread a net for other members of the revolt's so-called "war council."

The civil disobedience movement started in March. First Mahatma Gandhi, the "holy man" leader, was imprisoned. Then followed the arrests of his successors, Mme. Sarojini Naidu, Hindu poetess, and Abbas Tyabji, a former judge. V. J. Patel, who resigned as speaker of the legislature, then became leader of the revolt.

Patel Named Successor.

Nehru was seized in a raid on congress headquarters, the doors of which were sealed. He was jailed at Niani, where Neyrus, his son, has long been a prisoner. Upon his arrest Nehru appointed Vallabhai Patel, brother of the revolt leader, as president of the congress.

News of the arrests created a sensation throughout India, with swift reactions in the larger cities, where police kept mobs in check. A hartal, or cessation of work, was proclaimed for tomorrow and Wednesday as a protest to the arrests. Nehru's arrest was precipitated by a speech in Allahabad, in which he said:

"We must be the masters of our own house, but we are ready to agree to reasonable terms for a period of transfer of power from the British administration to India. We must meet the British to discuss these terms as nation to nation and on equal footing."

"Boycott Week" Opens.

"Boycott week" was launched here today. Women and children were among the hundreds who paraded here. Volunteers made a house to house canvass, urging housewives not to buy British goods.

Feeling runs high here over today's arrests and messages from other sections of India indicate the Indian spirit is the highest since the arrest of Gandhi.

REBELS PROTECT BOLIVIA REFUGEES FROM ANGRY MOB

Legations Guarded by Troops.

LA PAZ, June 30.—(AP)—The military directorate governing Bolivia since the successful revolution last week tonight posted troops about the Brazilian, German, and Chilean legations to protect officers of the former régime from angry crowds.

Dr. Hernando Siles, who resigned last month as president, but was accused of plotting to regain that office, took refuge in the Brazilian legation after the revolt broke. Gen. Hans Kundt, German chief of staff of the Bolivian army, who was accused not only of aiding Dr. Siles, but of Prussianizing the Bolivian forces, fled to the German legation. Several cabinet officers of the former administration obtained shelter with the Chilean diplomats.

After it became known yesterday that the revolt had been successful great crowds began demonstrating and sought to obtain custody of the hidden officials. They were particularly noisy in front of the Brazilian legation, demanding that the minister of Brazil turn Dr. Siles over to the processes of common justice and shouting that the former president had been a tyrant.

Gen. Carlos Blanco Galindo, head of the military junta now governing the republic, persuaded the manifestants to leave the foreign legations last night, but later armed patrols of citizens appeared around the building. This continued today until the government called out soldiers to protect the former officials.

Seek to Restore Normalcy.

Meanwhile the officers of the junta began plans to restore the republic to its normal condition and to mend its financial structure.

Gen. Galindo and Col. Oscar Mariaca Pando, his chief associate, said Bolivia already was on the way to normalcy; that communication lines had been reopened and that the political situation was tranquil.

They already have prepared a financial program and have reopened the collection of revenue that foreign and domestic payments may be made and that public credit thus may be reestablished.

It is understood that the new government intends soon to restore the country to a constitutional basis, holding free elections and designating a new chief executive in such a manner that he will be unable to perpetuate himself in office.

American Teacher Wounded.

Washington, D. C., June 20.—(AP)—Frederick P. Hibbard, chargé of the American legation at La Paz, cabled today that Walter I. Gholz, an American teacher in the American institute, had bene slightly wounded by machine gun fire last Wednesday, but that no other Americans had been hurt and no American property destroyed. Fighting occurred around the American legation, he said, but no political refugees found haven there, because troops surrounded it at all times.

PLAN TO ASK FOR STATE LAW TO CURB FIREWORKS

Enactment of a state law prohibiting the manufacture, sale, and possession of fireworks was proposed at a conference yesterday between Sheriff John E. Traeger and representatives of the state fire marshal's office.

"We are going to consider drafting such a bill to be introduced at the next regular session of the legislature," said Sheriff Traeger. "Under the present statutes we are powerless. Undoubtedly the bill's fundamental feature will be to take away from the municipalities and villages the powers they now have relative to traffic in fireworks."

The details of the proposed ordinance will be worked out at a meeting to be held soon, Sheriff Traeger said.

"Rule Parleys and Seize Lion's Share."

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 30.—With its notes on the special senate session for ratification of the naval treaty, the Mussolini magazine, Gerarchia, comes out with an article on the London conference showing how Great Britain by "its admirable political capacity" has still kept predominance on the seas.

The magazine says that England emerged from the conference still keeping its hegemony over the seas and retaining its strategic position as arbiter in any conflict, whether in the Pacific or the Atlantic.

Benefits by Sea Rivalry.

It begins by saying that England guides most international conferences. Its sea prevalence comes from arrangements which limit other naval forces and which keep alive antagonisms between other naval forces.

It is true that England has consented to a principle of parity with the United States, continues the article, but in reality it has gained more than that.

"Thanks to its wonderful political capacity," says the magazine. "it has secured prevalence over the fleet of a country which might be able to menace its worldwide marine dominance, and succeeded also in solving the problem of guaranteeing a minimum of force in the two principal world theaters of the Pacific and of Europe."

Secured Pacific Bases.

How England did this, according to the Italian magazine, was as follows:

"In the Pacific England, with the Versailles treaty, assured itself of an arbitral position in any conflict which might occur between Japan and America through obtaining former German Pacific islands for naval bases while keeping Japan and America from getting the islands required for the construction of their own naval bases.

"Also by inducing America to intervene in the Russo-Japanese war to slow up the Japanese progress, it obtained a mutilation of a Japanese victory, sowing thereby Japanese-American antagonism, which is germinating already in commercial and financial expansion in China."

The increase of the ratio of the Japanese fleet fixed by the Washington conference guarantees a continuance of Great Britain's position as arbiter. Otherwise granting Japan such a proportion would be illogical, continues the magazine, when France, which has a vast colonial empire, was given a minor place.

"This is explained by the fact that if France develops a big navy a large portion of British forces would be tied up in Europe and would tie up the forces it needs to cope with the United States in the Pacific or maintain its dominant position in a Japanese-American conflict.

"Finally, to keep down the French fleet," adds the magazine, "England suggested and had accepted at Washington a criterion of parity between Italy and France with a well defined idea of checking the development by the French navy by chaining it to the Italian navy which it considered would always be small because of Italy's lack of financial resources. Thereby the Franco-Italian antagonism has been increased and this constitutes one of England's best means of conserving its mastery of the Mediterranean in addition to its European hegemony."

END ARGUMENTS ON DYERS' PLEA TO CURB UNIONS

Final arguments on a petition for an injunction to restrain three unions from interfering with the operations of Abarbanell brothers, operators of cleaning and dyeing establishments in eight western suburbs, were offered yesterday by attorneys before Master in Chancery William A. Doyle of the Circuit court. With the conclusion of the arguments Master in Chancery Doyle took the case under advisement and will deliver a report to Circuit Judge Hugo Friend within 10 days. Attorneys for the Abarbanell brothers charged that the unions employed terrorists tactics in an effort to force them to unionize their shops. In the hearings witnesses told of being threatened and intimidated. Attorneys for the unions denied the charges.

MOVE IN SENATE TO BOOST RATES IN PENSION BILL

Introduce Amendment to New Vets' Relief.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Administration opponents launched a final drive today in the senate to boost pension rates for world war veterans. Senators David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] and Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.] sponsored an amendment to the new veterans' bill to increase the proposed allowances for nonservice connected disabilities to the level of Spanish war pensions. It would mean pensions of from $10 to $60 per month instead of from $12 to $40 as in the bill passed last week by the house following the sustaining of President Hoover's veto of the original veterans' bill.

The cost of the Walsh-Connally amendment, it was asserted by administration leaders, would be $58,000,000 the first year and would increase to $167,000,000 within five years or almost double the pending proposal sanctioned by President Hoover which would start with an annual cost of $31,000,000 and increase to $82,000,000 in five years.

Push for Passage.

At the conclusion of today's debate Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] gave notice that he would attempt to hold the senate in session tomorrow until it passes the bill. All amendments recommended on Saturday by the finance committee were agreed to today and virtually the only issue remaining centers on the Walsh-Connally amendment.

Supporters of the Walsh-Connally amendment were hopeful that the Democrats would stand together almost solidly for the proposal and that they would get the aid of eight or ten of the radical Republicans. It was considered possible that the amendment might be adopted by the senate, but even its sponsors conceded that it would be rejected by conferees of the senate and house and that the senate then would approve a conference report embodying a bill acceptable to the President.

May Adjourn This Week.

Adjournment plans hinge on the outcome of the controversy over the veterans' bill. If the senate passes the bill tomorrow, even though it approves the Walsh-Connally amendment, it is possible that the regular session of congress may end on Wednesday or at the latest on Thursday. Conferees of the senate and house will take prompt action and the conference report should be ready for the consideration of the senate and house early on Wednesday. If the dispute over the Wickersham commission appropriation on the deficiency bill also is adjusted within the next two days there seems no other obstacle to prevent adjournment of the regular session in advance of the Fourth of July. The special session of the senate for consideration of the naval treaty will be called immediately after the end of the regular session.

Senator Walsh, in advocating his amendment, said that by giving world war veterans the same rates which were recently given to Spanish war veterans there should be no further agitation for veterans' legislation for the next ten years. Otherwise, he said, there would be an immediate effort to increase the pension rates.

Criticizes Administration.

Senator Connally criticized the administration for objecting to a larger expenditure for veterans' relief, asserting that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon had had no fears of a possible deficit "when he recommended that we pay back to corporations and other taxpayers 160 millions that they had already passed on to the public."

Senator Reed, in opposing the Walsh-Connally amendment, said that no nation in the world has been so liberal with its war veterans as the United States. He referred to present annual expenditures of 511 million dollars through the veterans' bureau, with other expenditures to war veterans through the pension bureau bringing the total up to considerably more than 700 million dollars.

The senate early in the day passed the house bill which authorizes the President to consolidate and coördinate governmental activities affecting war veterans.

Pope Names 5 New Cardinals; Assails Protestant Sects

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 30.—In his allocution to the college of cardinals at the secret consistory today, at which he named five new cardinals, Pope Pius XI. disclaimed Vatican interference in Maltese political affairs and protested against alleged Protestant proselyting in Rome and Italy. This Protestant proselyting, the pointiff averred, has been going on since 1870 and now seemed to be favored by the Italian government's legislation giving effect to the Lateran pact. In the Lateran pact it is specified that Protestant cults are "tolerated," while in the legislation promulgating the pact the word used is "admitted."

"Protestantism has been pursuing its work of corrosion and conquest," said the pope. "It seems in strange contrast both in letter and in spirit to the Lateran conventions. Even if we could have tolerated that those cults for practical purposes should have been designated by Italian law as 'admitted,' we did not expect that these same cults would be dealt with in such a way as to seem not only tolerated in theory and admitted in practice, but also in no small way actually favored."

Pope's Stand on Malta.

Disclaiming interference in Malta, the pontiff said the question was most important because it had to do with high religious interests and with the very rights of God and the human conscience. The question must be dealt with because it concerned Catholic and noble Maltese people and because it had caused "agitation with the powerful British monarch, with whom we hope diplomatic relations will become more close and cordial." The pope stressed these three points:

"First, neither the holy see nor the Maltese started the present storm.

"Second, peace has been made impossible by the actions of the people and by facts independent of our will and contrary to the interests of the Catholic religion, of which we continuously and in all cases have care and responsibility.

"Third, at no moment has our action or that of the Maltese bishops ever entered the political sphere, but has always been confined to recalling, proclaiming and confirming those principles and moral laws by which the conduct and actions of Catholics can neither be estranged nor prescinded."

Closes Jubilee Year.

In his allocution, the pointiff reviewed the events of his jubilee year, which closed today.

Those raised to the college of cardinals today were:

Archbishop Da Silveira Cintra of Rio de Janerio; Bishop Lienart of Lille, France, Mgrs. Marchetti-Selvaggiana, secretary of the Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith and former papal auditor at Washington; Msgr. Serafini, secretary of the Congregation of the Council, and Msgr. Raffaelo Carlo Rossi, assessor of the Consistorial congregation.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, June 30.—Reijiro Wakatsuki, Japan's chief delegate to the London naval conference, called today upon Prince Saionji at the latter's villa at Okitsu and reported to him on the conference. A high government official, who knows Prince Saionji's mind on the subject, said Prince Saionji is strongly in favor of the treaty and is entirely out of sympathy with the naval element, which has been stirring up agitation against the pact.

Prince Saionji, the last surviving genro, is regarded as the most influential political power in Japan. A maker and unmaker of cabinets, he lives and works in the background and his views are rarely made known on any subject.

A full meeting of the supreme military council has been fixed for Thursday at the imperial palace, in the presence of the emperor and with the highest officers of the army and navy attending. It will consider the revision of the national defense.

NATURE OF POPE'S ILLNESS IS BARED BY ITALIAN PAPER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 30.—The health of Pope Pius XI., which was the subject last week of alarming rumors, was commented on today by the Rome newspaper Tevere in connection with the pope's five hour ordeal at yesterday's canonization of the American martyrs and at today's consistory, in addition to which the pope also gave private and public audiences.

"We are in a position to affirm that during the month of May the noted French surgeon, Dr. Marion, was urgently summoned here to visit the pope," says Tevere. "The surgeon discovered a small growth on the prostrate gland of a sufficiently harmless nature which did not in fact require an operation.

"The doctor, however, advised the pontiff to be careful of his health and to avoid excessive fats. The doctor's visit did not pass unnoticed and abroad a false diagnosis was made of the pope's health."

MORTIMER DAVIS LOSES FIGHT TO OUST EXECUTORS

Father's Friend Will Run $30,000,000 Estate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., June 30.—Mortimer B. Davis Jr., only son of the late Sir Mortimer Davis, millionaire financier and philanthropist, and husband of Roszika Dolly, of the famous Dolly sisters, dancing team, and his stepmother, Lady Davis, the former Countess Moroni, lost their civil suit to have Lord Shaughnessy and A. M. Reaper ousted as executors of the Davis estate.

Justice Surveyer, in delivering his decision, which brought to an end one of the longest legal suits heard in Canada, lasting fifty-seven days and covering 5,000 pages of evidence, held that the evidence was insufficient to have Lord Shaughnessy and Mr. Reaper removed.

Will Appeal Case.

Counsel for Lady Davis and young Davis announced an appeal would be entered, and the case taken to a higher court.

Lord Shaughnessy, son of a former president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was selected by Sir Mortimer, a personel friend and business associate, to be the main executive in charge of the Davis estate. Sir Mortimer died in March, 1928, leaving an estate valued at 30 million dollars.

The value of the estate, the chief item of which was controlling interest in the Canadian Industrial Alcohol company, which owns the largest distillery in the world at Corbyville, Ont., has steadily fallen in the last year or two until today a deficit of half a million dollars exist. Plaintiffs blamed Lord Shaughnessy for the depreciation of the estate. Lord Shaughnessy said it was due to economic conditions and unfavorable legislation.

Income Unpaid For Year.

Under the will, Lady Davis and Mortimer Davis received $67,000 annually as a fixed income, and they were also entitled to half of the income from residue of the estate. This latter had been unpaid in the last year or so, owing to lack of funds, which caused the action to have Lord Shaughnessy ousted.

The defense, however, pointed out that Sir Mortimer's wishes should be the main thought, not the wishes of the plaintiff, and that Sir Mortimer had expressly wished that Lord Shaughnessy should administer the estate. The will provides that after fifty years the estate shall be sold and the proceeds devoted to the building of a Jewish hospital at Montreal and given to other charities.

Lord Shaughnessy receives about $60,000 a year from his connection with the estate as executor and as an officer of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol company.

STEEPLECHASING in Chicago

Now at Arlington—the sport of kings—made possible by a group of Chicago's leading citizens*—conducted with a non-profit policy

H. I. PELS, who built the steeplechase at Arlington, standing beside the first jump, which is high enough to test the mettle of the best fencers and riders.

NOW for the thrills of steeplechasing. Arlington revives it for the general public †in Chicago after 25 years. Three times a week throughout the Arlington meeting you will see this unequaled spectacle. The cleverest steeplechasers in the country will compete in fifteen events of $2,000 each.

Steeplechasing is truly the "Sport of Kings"—sport for sport's sake only. In all the world there is no greater thrill than that of viewing these intrepid thoroughbreds and riders as they take those difficult obstacles. H. I. Pels, Superintendent at Belmont Park, built the new steeplechase course at Arlington which has been called by experts the finest in the world. It is difficult, sporty—designed to test the mettle of the best jumpers and steeplechase riders in America.

Steeplechase survivors are here

This great attraction of the Arlington Racing Season is bringing the survivors of spring campaigning at Pimlico, Woodbine Park, Belmont Park and Aqueduct. Only the best will contest for the supremacy of this new course. Arç Light, Road Agent, Jolly Roger, Bangle, Huffy, Hermitage and other great fencers are already stabled at Arlington, eagerly awaiting the first steeplechase on Tuesday.

Gentlemen riders will vie with steeplechase jockeys for honors at Arlington. Incomparable non-professional cross-country riders, such as Albert C. Bostwick, G. H. Bostwick, Downey Bonsal, Rigan McKinney, William Street are here or coming for the events.

Three steeplechases each week

Steeplechasing at Arlington is an added gift to sport lovers. Every day there will be seven exciting flat races, and three times a week an eighth event is on the cards in the form of a thrilling steeplechase.

All this is made possible by the unselfish policy at Arlington. The club is committed to a policy of racing for sport's sake only. Arlington racing pays no dividends to stockholders, no interest on capital invested. No stockholder executive draws pay. No other racing association in the world is conducted in this altruistic manner.

This policy allows the addition of steeplechasing to the cards at no extra admission cost. Even on feature days there will be no increase in admission prices at Arlington. The general admission will be $2.20 throughout.

ALDERMEN ASK METER FOR EACH USER OF WATER

Report Offers 5 Changes in Present System.

The complete metering of every water outlet in Chicago was recommended to the council finance committee yesterday as one of a group of changes in the operation of the water system advocated by its subcommittee on water survey. Fourteen amendments to the present meter ordinance to place the subcommittee's recommendations into effect were being drafted by Corporation Counsel Ettelson and will be submitted to the finance committee tomorrow.

The five principal recommendations affect the financing of the water system and the installations of water meters, both of which are under the supervision of Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe.

Several Changes Proposed.

As outlined by Ald. Edward J. Kaindl [34th], chairman of the subcommittee, they propose the following changes:

1. Repeal of the sections of the present ordinance that eliminate single residences and two flats from the meterization program.

2. Establish the water rate on the basis of expenditures of the water bureau for any particular year and upon the total pumpage of the previous year.

3. Elimination of discounts of any kind in connection with the sale of water and provision of a penalty for failure to pay water bills within a specified period.

Want Standard Meters.

4. Adoption of a standard form of specifications governing the purchase of water meters.

5. A provision for the payment of water meters and the cost of installation through the sale of water certificates.

The lowest estimate made by the subcommittee for installing 400,000 meters is $16,000,000. Ald. Kaindl stated that this cost can be met without any additional charge to the water consumer through efficient operation of the water bureau and by eliminating the present waste in the amount of water pumped daily.

As a further indication that the meterization costs can be met easily the subcommittee predicts an increase in the water revenues through meterization. In its investigation the aldermen found that the present metered services, representing 16 per cent of the water users, pay 6.8 cents per 1,000 gallons, while the other 84 per cent of the consumers pay approximately 2 cents per 1,000 gallons.

"OBEDIENT SERVANT" DROPPED FROM STATE DEPARTMENT LETTERS

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—One of the oldest customs in the state department was sacrificed to modern business efficiency today.

From time immemorial American diplomats writing in to the department on official business have signed their letters, "I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant." A state department order issued today directs that in the future this practice shall be discontinued and the subscription shall be, "Very truly yours."

Likewise, state department officers addressing diplomats in the field will end their letters with the subscription, "Respectfully yours."

For a longer period than present state department officials have been able to trace back through the files, letters from the department have been signed, "I am, sir, your obedient servant."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Completion of the Chicago sanitary district's artificial sewage disposal project in compliance with the recent decree of the United States Supreme court will depend largely upon the passage of legislation by the state assembly authorizing the district to issue 120 million dollars of bonds without referendum in the next six years.

In the first of the semi-annual reports required by the decree to show progress on the project, President Howard W. Elmore of the district pointed out that notwithstanding a defeat for a single bond issue in an election would "seriously hamper the execution" of the 179 million dollar program, Gov. Emmerson declined to call a special session of the legislature to deal with the problem.

"In order to carry out the sewage treatment construction program by the end of 1938 approximately $20,000,000 will be required each year. General elections in the sanitary district of Chicago are held biennially. The defeat of a bond issue at any one election would seriously hamper the execution of this comprehensive program.

The report shows that $89,812,837.25 had been expended as of April 21 on the sewage treatment program with the remainder of the work calling for the expenditure of $170,744,438.58. The largest expenditure was given as $35,825,822.85 on the north side project, $6,028,688 remaining to be expended on this project.

Monico, Wis., June 30.—(AP)—Ray Sands, 8448 Drexel boulevard, Chicago, was killed and his wife was injured tonight when their automobile struck the guard rail of a narrow bridge near here. The iron rail cut the front part of the car in half and pierced Sands' body. Mrs. Sands was taken to a Rhinelander, Wis., hospital. They were en route to their summer home near Eagle River.

HALF YEAR AUTO TOLL 14 PER CT. HIGHER THAN '29

Total for Six Months of 1930 Is 465.

Four persons were killed in automobile accidents in Cook county yesterday and a twelve year old boy died from injuries received two days ago. These five deaths brought the auto toll for the first six months of 1930 to 465, an increase of 14.8 per cent over the 405 toll for the same period of 1929.

In an accident at 111th street and Cicero avenue, Willow Springs, Joseph L. Crite, 40 years old, 316 Chicago avenue, Goshen, Ind., was killed and three other men were seriously injured. They are: Andrew Dyceko, 10228 Lowe avenue; Stanley Hansky, 2415 Sangamon street, and Walter Kloppka, 11562 Lowe avenue.

Crite's machine struck the rear of the one driven by Dyceko, hurling it into a ditch. The injured were taken to the Little Company of Mary hospital by Deputy Sheriff Russell Dworak. The other victims:

Richard Zarefba, 3 years old, 3001 South Union avenue. Killed by a truck as he ran across the street in front of his home. Rocco Boffner, 2907 South Union avenue, the driver, was released.

Paul Gohlson, 5 years old, 1707 North Park avenue. Fatally injured when he ran against the wheel of a truck as it passed his home. The driver was Rudolph Schoening, 1423 North Keeler avenue.

Herbert Hawes, 12 years old, 3400 North Irving avenue. Died at the St. Francis hospital in Evanston from injuries received on Saturday when the truck in which he was riding collided with a sedan at Howard and Dodge avenues, Evanston. John Hawes, 43 years old, the boy's father, was killed in the crash.

Mrs. Augusta Ryder, 70 years old, 420 Noble street, a widow who sold flowers on the west side. Died at the Keystone hospital after being struck by a car at Grand and Crawford avenues. The driver was Floyd Duckworth, 2338 North Keating avenue.

Coroner Bundesen issued the following report of fatalities for the first six months of 1930 as compared with the same period in 1929:

Month—	'29.	'30.	Month—	'29.	'30.
January	60	55	April	77	81
February	51	87	May	81	74
March	48	69	June	88	99
			Totals	405	465

The figures are taken from the survey on auto deaths made daily at the coroner's orders. During the first six months of 1928 there were 465 fatalities.

Prohibition Agent Roy W. Shafer was killed and Joseph Wolf, another agent, was injured seriously when a truck they were driving from Columbus to Chicago ran into a telephone pole near Lebanan, Ind.

Moving Permit Records.

Administrator E. C. Yellowley at Chicago was advised of the accident by Columbus prohibition authorities. Mr. Yellowley said the truck, in company with two others, was en route to Chicago with secret alcohol permit records for Indiana.

Under the new prohibition alignment, which goes into effect today, Indiana is a part of the Chicago enforcement area. It formerly was a part of the district with headquarters in Columbus. Shafer and Wolf lived in Columbus.

Two women had narrow escapes from death last night when their automobile was struck and demolished by a Chicago and North Shore electric train at North Chicago. The car was driven by Mrs. Lenore Albey, 25, of the Clayton hotel, Waukegan. With her was Mrs. Marie Shinsky, 131 North avenue, Lake Bluff. The women's injuries are not serious, it was said at the Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan.

Be Certain and Be Safe

Summer finds more motorists on the highways than any other season of the year. In summer, therefore, there is an increased need for attention in the avoidance of crossing accidents.

Our railroad is sensitive to its share of responsibility for safety at crossings. A campaign to avoid crossing accidents is under way the year round. In addition, we are conducting this year, as in previous years, a special summer safety campaign. Our enginemen, trainmen and yardmen are pledged to use every effort to avoid crossing accidents.

The major responsibility for safety at crossings, however, rests upon the individual motorist. That is common sense. To bring trains to a stop at every highway crossing is plainly out of the question. The efficient accommodation of the nation's travel and commerce will not permit that. On the other hand, every motorist can assure his own absolute safety at crossings by being cautious. Such caution requires at the most only a few second's delay, and motorists owe it to themselves and their families, to the community and to good citizenship to make this short investment of time in the interest of safety.

Human life and happiness are too precious to be thrown away by carelessness at crossings. Humanity, duty and self-interest unite in opposition to such fatal gambling. Be certain and be safe!

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. DOWNS,

Record Breaking Price Reductions

Hailed as Most Important Safety Advancement in Modern Motoring

TRAVELING at 44 to 88 feet a second, when a tire blows without warning, you're wrecked in a split second.

It's a chance you need never take again. You can trust your life to the Blowout-Proof Dual-Balloon.

Safe, too, against that equally dangerous tire hazard—the unseen, inside wear of heat and friction in tires of reclaimed rubber. General's policy is pure rubber and more of it. General's patented Dual-Balloon design eliminates breaker strips and sharp bending. Unmatched, all-over flexibility allows lower air pressure and no premature wear. That's why it's Blowout-Proof and easier riding, too.

You Get More for Your Old Ones

FOR this one big sale event of the year we have reduced our General Tire prices below the lowest that has ever been possible in former years. But we have not stopped there!

Coming right in the midst of General's nationwide safety campaign to put the new Blowout-Proof Tire on every car, our special Trade-in Sale arrangement with the factory permits greater allowance than ever before to remove the doubtful rubber from your rims.

Even if your tires are new they come under this special trade-in concession—for many new tires of reclaimed rubber or "ply-shy" construction are just as risky in hot weather as the smoothest worn tires.

Tomorrow and for the few days our sale continues, the miles left in your present tires will buy thousands of brand new miles on Generals—and leave you a balance so easy to pay that you are actually getting General's extra safety and easy riding comfort for less than your mileage costs today.

"Forget the Hair and Treat the Scalp"

The above was the heading for an article written by one of the most famous beauty authorities; no truer statement ever appeared in print, and it substantiates all we have claimed in our advertising. We have always stated—"Cleanse the scalp of dandruff so the pores can breathe, then the hair will take care of itself." Dandruff is the killer of hair beauty, get rid of it. Here's a simple, sure, safe way—get a little liquid Calonite from your druggist, use it like you would a shampoo, notice just after one application how clean your scalp is. Try this every day for a few days, then once a week will keep your scalp free and clean and your hair will take care of itself.

EUROPE ACTS TO TEAR DOWN HER TARIFF BARRIERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 30.—Distinguished political observers and economists of 14 nations, whom history may know as the fathers, or at least grandfathers, of the United States of Europe, assembled this morning at the Quai d'Orsay to open the international congress.

Ostensibly the work of the body was clearly indicated by its name—International Congress for An European Customs union. Until a few weeks ago it was one of those indefinite international organizations vaguely attached to Geneva.

Europe Watching Talk.

Today, owing to the passage of the American tariff, it is attracting the attention of all Europe, and the scholarly gentlemen of the committee were a little surprised to find themselves surrounded by the formal elegance of the Quai d'Orsay and treated with all solemnity of statesmen playing a serious game of diplomatic poker.

Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, himself the originator of the idea of a United States of Europe, is honorary chairman of the congress. Yves le Trocquer, the active chairman, opened the session and extended the welcome of the French committee to the delegates and committees of 13 other countries.

Point to Need of Unity.

He emphasized the importance of the congress. First, because it represented the first tangible step towards the internationalization of economics. Second, because it is taking place at a moment "when Europe feels more than ever the necessity of uniting to prosper"—a veiled allusion to the Yankee menace.

The next speaker, Porf. Truchy, a member of the Institute of France, delivered an extremely significant address showing how the immediate problem at hand—removal of the European customs barrier in order to present a united front against America—was inextricably tied up with the political organization of the European federation.

Following adjournment for the day a formal banquet was held at the Hotel Palais d'Orsay, at which Minister of Commerce Pierre-Etienne Flandin was the principal speaker—another indication of the seriousness with which the work of the congress is taken by French politicians.

NEW GOTHAM SUBWAY WILL FURNISH DIRECT AND SPEEDY SERVICE

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Engineers of the board of transportation have completed detailed plans for the operation of trains on the city's $800,000,000 subway system, now rapidly approaching completion. The system of operation has been devised, it was said today, to carry passengers from any point in one borough to any point in another, with a minimum of traveling distance, and a minimum of transferring. While only the main line in Manhattan, the 8th avenue line, will be ready for operation by the end of 1931, the progress made on the Brooklyn, Queens and Bronx extensions of that line has warranted the complete working out of the operating plans for the entire system.

PERSIAN TROOPS FIGHT RUSSIANS IN BORDER RAID

TEHERAN, Persia, June 30.—An ugly situation has developed on the Russo-Persian frontier of Azerbaijan province, where a large soviet force is at present reported to be stationed. A large Persian village was attacked by Red forces who were pursuing a number of Caucasians escaping from Russia into Persia.

Investigation revealed that the refugees were Persian nationals who had settled in Russia before the advent of bolshevism. Persian troops were rushed to the spot and put up a fight against the Red forces, resulting in casualities to both sides.

A large Persian force is now being concentrated on the Persian side of Azerbaijan province, where trouble is expected to flare up.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There is nothing like the old fashioned big inning for effectiveness. The champion, league leading Cubs proved it yesterday. They hit their old enemies, the Giants, right between the eyes with a cluster of eight runs in the first chapter, and the rest of the show was merely a matter of going through the necessary motions. Eventually, it closed by a 10 to 3 score to make four triumphs in a row for the titleholders and to add a half game to the slim margin by which they occupy the top berth.

Aside from the dizzy opening inning the struggle developed two things of consequence. One was that Sheriff Blake is about ready to join up with the three other hurlers who have been carrying the burden. The other was the line of work turned out by the Cub infield. These fellows fairly dazzled 18,000 spectators with their brilliance, and as this has been going on for quite a time it may not be long before the world awakens to the fact that McCarthy has an exceptional inner wall, Hornsby's absence notwithstanding.

Seven Hits in First.

A few figures on the Cubs' first inning efforts might be of interest. It took them 27 minutes to complete the harvesting of eight runs. Thirteen men batted, eight of them against Joe Genewich, the others against old Clarence Mitchell. Seven hits were woven into the batting spree, two of them by Kiki Cuyler, who also stole a base. Having exerted themselves to this extent, the Cubs can be excused for taking the easiest way in the eight subsequent innings. They made only four more safe hits.

Blake, who since the start of the season has been of erratic tendencies, conducted his campaign so well that the Giants couldn't nick him until the fourth. At this point little Mel Ott touched off homer No. 16 with a mate waiting. Gabby Hartnett immediately retrieved the two runs with his seventeenth circuit blow of the campaign. The only run getting after this was a worthless tally picked up by the Giants in the eighth.

English Starts Attack.

The big first inning hurricane didn't begin to blow until after one was out. A double by English started it. A double by Cuyler scored him. Wilson bounced to short, and Jackson tried to nip Cuyler at third, but the throw was late. Hack then stole second, and the sacks became fully populated on a pass to Stephenson. Grimm took advantage of the situation by unloading a single in center. Cuyler and Wilson crossing the plate and Stevie scooting to third. Hartnett slammed a hit through short, Stevie scoring and Grimm taking third. Beck clicked a single into right, and Grimm tallied the fifth run of the inning.

As Genewich passed out of the picture, Mitchell walked in with his left handed spitter. The first man he faced was Blake, who smacked a fly to right on which Hartnett ran to third. Blair single to left, and Hartnett crossed the plate. After English had walked to load the bases, Cuyler exploded his second hit of the inning, Beck and Blair scoring. Cuyler then stole second and Wilson, out of kindness for his former employer, Mr. McGraw, bounced out the inning.

Beck Shines Afield.

With Beck cutting fancy capers around short, the hostiles reached Blake for only two hits in the first three innings. In the fourth, however, Lindstrom singled. It was he who went around the scoring trail when Ott hit his homer to right. In the same half Stephenson caromed a hit off Critz's shin and the first pitch served by Mitchell to Gabby went floating over the wall in left. A pass to Critz and Lindstrom's second single scored the Giants' run in the eighth.

Duffers and Experts in Tribune Golf

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Scores of entries are coming in for THE TRIBUNE's new public links golf tournament, which has been designed to give the duffer the same chance as the expert. Yesterday's mail told the story of how Chicago golfers spent their week-end, some shooting in the 80s, others in the 90s, and many in the 110s.

In the average tournament a player who shot 115 would be licked before he started, but in this meet he has as good a chance as the fellow who turns in a 75. For the poor players will be matched against others of similar caliber, while experts will be matched against experts.

If you want to get into this meet, which promises to be the biggest in the history of the sport, go out to your favorite park or daily fee course at any time you find convenient and shoot 18 holes. Then mail your card to THE TRIBUNE golf editor.

It will be compared with scores received from other entrants and an opponent of equal skill will be selected. Watch THE TRIBUNE for the pairings and when they are announced, shoot another 18 holes and send in your card a second time.

Meanwhile your opponent will be playing on his own favorite course and when he reports his score it will be matched against yours. Competition will be carried on throughout the summer and in the end prizes will be awarded to those winning the most matches.

To get into this tournament you have to do nothing out of your regular routine except mail in your card at the end of a round. Try it and see how much more fun you'll get out of your game.

Babe Hits Homer No. 30 with 2 On in 7th.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Our eighth place White Sox today were in a most entertaining mood, their ineptness in taking a 15 to 4 licking from the New York Yankees being so marked that many a good laugh was had by all.

Contributing to a thoroughly merry afternoon was Mr. Babe Ruth, who propelled his No. 30 home run off Tommy Thomas with two on in the seventh. Babe had been frisky all day, even going so far as deliberately to permit a fly ball to drop in front of him that he might have the fun of picking it up and throwing it for a forceout of a base runner who happened to be on first. Another time he handcuffed Smead Jolley with a line single, causing Smead's hand to burn so much he had to let loose of the ball. And once he slid safely under Bill Kamm when Bill was waiting with the ball.

Yanks Make Par 3s.

From the third inning till the eighth the game was strictly a three or no count affair. The Yanks made par threes on four successive holes and wound up with an eagle two on the eighth.

[Note—Mr. Burns is a sober fellow, but naturally is a little confused, traveling with the White Sox and everything.]

The first Yankee run was tainted, though no errors were recorded. Rice sent a nice easy fly out to left and Reynolds did a classical dance while the ball was in the air. He still was in the dance when the ball came down and it rolled for a triple. Hargrave then sent a sacrifice fly to Watwood, which sent Rice home.

Yanks Score Three.

Further quaint maneuvers characterized the Sox technique in the fourth inning, during the course of which the New Yorkers acquired three runs. Lazzeri generously was credited with a single when Jeffries failed to pick up his grounder. Gehrig sent a long hit to center and for some reason or other Lazzeri became confused while in the vicinity of third base. The result was that Lazzeri and Gehrig both were near third and an interesting jam seemed imminent. But Cissell muffed the ball on the relay. The net result was that Lazzeri proceeded home on the error and Gehrig pulled up at third.

Cissell threw out Rice and Hargrave walked. Chapman was given a hit when he sent a bouncer which caromed off Kamm's glove. Pipgras struck out, but Byrd singled to center, scoring Hargrave. Watwood failed to pick up the ball, so Chapman went to third and Byrd to second. Then Chapman tried to steal home and was out. Things went on and on like this until the Yanks had their fifteen runs. Then everybody went home to supper.

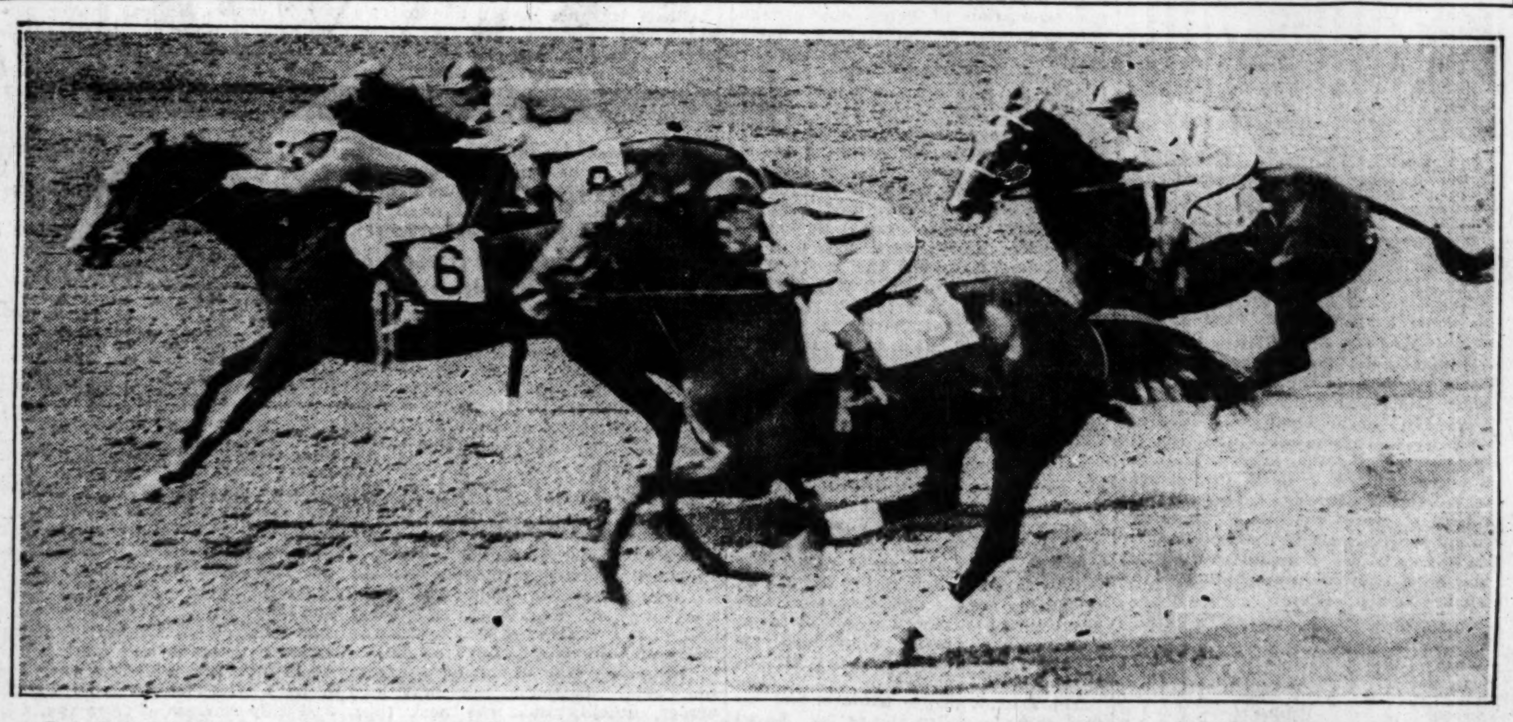
WHEN TURF'S FINEST RETURNED TO ARLINGTON



Fair Ball, at 18 to 1, and racing in the silks of Mrs. John Hertz, took the lead soon after the start in the Chicagoan purse, and held it to win easily. In the above picture Fair Ball is leading, Islam is running second, William T. third, and Blue Larkspur, the favorite, is fourth.

AT ARLINGTON PARK.

FRIEND ARCH: WELL, Arch, you said I better go out to Arlington Park's opening and see what I could see and what I could hear, and I tell you I saw plenty. Accustomed as I have become to beautiful race tracks, it's really surprising what has been accomplished since last season. The first time you can get away you better go out and see for yourself.

Well, in the first place, that unsightly inner track has been torn out and in its place is the new steeplechase course where the horses you bet on, if you bet, will stumble at the obstacles. Then there is a polo field all laid out green and nice, and there's an ornamental lake, and there's no fence around it, and it's large enough for a great many losers to jump in after the last race.

Then there's a new mile training track far to the north, and the paddock has been all changed around and landscaped, and there are more windows where one may wager, if one wagers, and all together everything is mighty convenient. But really, Arch, you'll have to see it yourself to fully appreciate it.

Well, the first thing that happened was that Outbound, a maiden from the Hertz stable, won the first race, paying $45.76 for each $2 you invested, if you invested. So as soon as that happened I thought I better congratulate Mr. Hertz, because he was a prime mover in this Arlington thing, and usually when a horse wins at such a price, and you congratulate the stable, the owner says something—you know what I mean.

But, you see, he isn't the owner, because his wife is the owner, and anyway he doesn't bet a penny on the races at Arlington just because he is on the board of directors and all that, so he didn't say a thing except what a pleasant day it was, and I thought so, too.

So then I sought the real owner of Outbound and congratulated her, and she had a sentimental wager of $5 across the board on the maiden in its first start, and she was terribly thrilled to win so much money all at once, and even more thrilled because Outbound was bred and raised at Leona Farm at Cary. And I found that nearly all the ladies in the party had wagers of various minor denominations, and one lady, wife of a prominent attorney, asked, "How long has this thing been going on?"

Then, in the sixth race, Fair Ball, from the same stable, beat Blue Larkspur, which was odds on, and Fair Ball paid $38.52 for $2, and I suppose there were some more sentimental wagers, but I'm sorry I didn't have time to get the details, because I knew you'd want my story for the early edition, and the telegrapher was hollering for "more copy."

Maybe you want to know something about the crowd. Well, I sneaked into the Post and Paddock club on my press badge and I saw people there whose pictures I have seen in the society column, and I came back through the "enclosure," which means clubhouse, and although it costs $5.70 there, I saw some there I knew, and then I went into the grandstand, where it costs $2.20, and met lots of people I knew. It was a mighty good opening day crowd.

So, Arch, any time you want me to go to Arlington it's all right with me, because from where I live I can get home to dinner, and I wouldn't have to charge you for a dinner on my expense account. I'm not suggesting anything, but honestly I do enjoy racing. Regards.

Golf Titles Come and Go, But Jones Is Always Jones

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Bobby Jones will land here from England Wednesday with his twelfth major golf championship, and it seems that this rotund young man is about to come in for some public recognition as a valuable citizen of the United States of America.

This will be contrary to young Mr. Jones' own appraisal of himself, as he never has believed that any champion athlete's service to his race and kind could be measured against the least day's service of a country doctor, and he never has ceased to remind himself that mere command of any athletic game is a questionable justification for strutting.

Of course when people insist upon grabbing him up and bearing him off from the eighteenth green to the clubhouse, as they have been doing every year for quite a spell now, Robert doesn't fight them off with a reminder that life is a very serious proposition and bid them to dash off to the nearest hospital and seize up some scientist instead.

He Doesn't Mock-Modest.

He is no prig, but still there is always that in the young man's bearing which shows that he doesn't think too much of what he has done. I want to get this right and, not wishing to represent him as mock-modest, I will refer to a conversation I had with his friend, Mr. O. B. Keeler, the Atlanta sport writer, whose standing assignment these last dozen or fourteen years has been the coverage of Bobby Jones.

One hot afternoon at the Winged Foot club where Bobby won the American open championship for the third time last summer, Mr. Keeler was squatting on a tussock or hummock or something of the kind cooling his feverish dogs, waiting for his young man to come by again. Bobby was off yonder somewhere, with a galloping crowd in pursuit and, inasmuch as things were going pretty well with him, Mr. Keeler reckoned he could conscientiously sit out a couple of holes.

It becomes necessary for him to do this more frequently as the years go on, because Mr. Keeler generally stretches himself about ten inches in the course of a tournament, just by standing on his toes and projecting

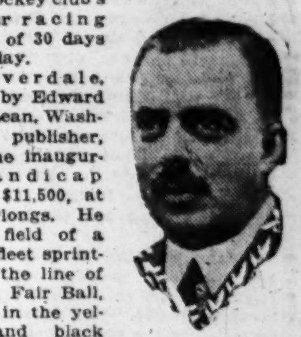
15,000 at Opening of 30 Day Card.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Silverdale and Fair Ball were the heroes at the opening of the Arlington Park Jockey club's summer racing season of 30 days yesterday.



E. B. McLEAN.

Silverdale, owned by Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, won the inaugural handicap worth $11,500, at six furlongs. He led a field of a dozen fleet sprinters to the line of finish. Fair Ball, racing in the yellow and black jacket of Mrs. John D. Hertz, captured the Chicagoan purse and showed his flying hoofs to the mighty Blue Larkspur.

Neither was a very close contest. Silverdale trimmed Pigeon Hole by two and a half lengths after being far out in front most of the time. Fair Ball was just galloping at the end to beat Blue Larkspur by five lengths.

Fair Ball Is Long Shot.

Both victories were unexpected. Silverdale paid nearly 4 to 1 when he scored. Fair Ball was an extreme outsider and when he led Blue Larkspur home rewarded his followers at $38.52 to win, $10.24 to place and $4.48 to show. He was the second long shot to win in the silks of Mrs. Hertz during the afternoon, Outbound having romped home in the 2 year old maiden race which opened the program. He was at odds of more than 22 to 1. Jockey E. Steffan rode both the Hertz horses to their triumphs.

The crowd numbered about 15,000 and would have been much larger but for the threatening weather which prevailed up until post time for the first race. But despite the early morning rain the going was fast.

It was a highly representative gathering, the Post and Paddock club visitors including most of Chicago's notables.

It was a changed Arlington Park which greeted the opening crowd. The plant has been beautified to a point where it ranks with the best in the world.

There was a slip up here and there. The approximate odds board was a trifle off at times, but the crowd, probably the most horsewise that has ever visited any Chicago track, knew when and where a mistake had been made and did not let up the howl which usually is heard at other race courses. There was an air of confidence about this Arlington opening.

Many Favorites Beaten.

A big shout went up when Outbound, a Illinois-bred son of Luke McLuke-Inbounds, carried Mrs. Hertz' colors to an easy triumph in the first race. Outbound, under Steffan's ride led all the way and wound up by beating Foreign Exchange by three lengths. Pittsburgher, heavily backed, was third.

From the time the outsider Out Bound won so handily until the program closed favorites were being beaten almost one after another. But the crowd cheered the winners long and loud after each race. Some of those in the gathering must have been down on the long shots.

In the inaugural handicap Cayuga, Pigeon Hole, Golden Prince, and Silverdale made most of the running. Silverdale was ridden by Jockey Nick Huff and didn't go to the front until the field neared the lower bend.

But when Silverdale started running it was all over. It took him only a few strides to pass Pigeon Hole and Huff rushed him out into a three lengths lead. He held it all the way. There had been a plunge on Current, but while she ran gamely in the early stages she finished far back.

Silverdale ran the seven furlongs in 1:24 4-5, two seconds slower than the track record held by Crystal Pennant.

Fair Ball Runs Brilliantly.

Fair Ball's triumph was the first he has scored since last fall when he rolled up a long string of victories. He ran a brilliant race and once Steffan took him to the front on the first turn he never left the result in doubt.

Blue Larkspur was away a trifle tardily and didn't seem to get into full stride until well along in the run down the back stretch, when Jockey Legere went to the whip.

Then the 3 year old champion of last year moved up with determination, but Fair Ball was still five lengths out in front and gave no hint of wanting to drop back. Blue Larkspur rushed up past Dark Entry in the final strides to take second money, but Fair Ball was still going in even stride and he continued to go along that way until the battle ended. Blue Larkspur no doubt will do better with this race under his belt.

FANS WILL PROFIT IF GRIFFITH OR RISKO HITS LOW

BY WILFRID SMITH.

If Johnny Risko or Tuffy Griffith commits a foul in the ten round windup tomorrow night at the Stadium, every fan will receive a share of the forfeited purse in the event of a rematch.

This plan was announced yesterday by Sidney Strotz, president of the Stadium corporation.

"While I believe the rule of the Illinois commission will deter fighters from committing intentional fouls," Mr. Strotz said, "forfeiture of the purse does not protect the customer. The commission regulation penalizes the contestant whether the foul is intentional or accidental. The fighter waives all claim to his purse and only receives transportation and training expenses, which must not exceed $25 a day.

Stadium Goes Step Farther.

"Of course, I do not anticipate that a foul will end the Risko-Griffith bout. I believe both are clean fighters. However, if a foul should occur, the Stadium will go one step farther than the rules of the commission provide.

"We will deduct the amount of the forfeited purse from the gross receipts of a re-match between Risko and Griffith. Each ticket will be reduced in price accordingly, so that a customer who paid $1, for instance, for Wednesday's bout can see the second fight for 75 cents."

If the Stadium is sold out tomorrow night the gross receipts will approximate $60,000. Each fighter will receive $10,000. This amount will be forfeited in the event of a foul. Then, in the rematch, the $10,000 would be deducted from the estimated gross receipts and the price of each ticket reduced.

Plan Only Temporary.

"This plan is temporary and will not be continued as a Stadium policy," Mr. Strotz explained. "I believe the commission will amend its rule in the near future for protection of the fans. While the present rule is excellent, it does not penalize the man who has been fouled. He should be penalized, particularly if he successfully feigns injury to attain the decision.

"I have suggested to the commission that a 50 per cent fine be levied on the winner to prevent fouls of this nature."

Risko and Griffith yesterday vehemently declared tomorrow's fight would not end in a foul. Risko, who lost his first battle with Griffith on a foul in the seventh round, was especially anxious to assure Chicago fans the bout would go the limit unless terminated by a knockout.

"Griffith and Max Schmeling are the only two heavyweights I have not defeated," Johnny said. "I took this bout to clear my record with Tuffy, and I'll beat him fairly."

Risko ended his boxing sessions yesterday afternoon. He is punching harder than ever, George Pavlick, his sparring partner, said. This also has been the observation of the hundreds who have attended the drills. The assertion, also, is borne out by the results of Risko's matches with Campolo and Paulino.

BARR SUBDUES O'CONNELL IN STATE TENNIS

Doc Barr of Dallas, Tex., defeated Frank O'Connell, three times Big Ten champion, in the second round of the western tennis championships at the River Forest Tennis club yesterday. Barr won 7-5, 3-6, 8-6.

All the favorites came through the first two rounds without difficulty. Maurice Bayon of Tulane university defeated John James, 6-2, 4-6, 6-0. Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., seeded No. 1 in the draw, went into the fourth round, trimming Robert Mortensen, 6-0, 6-1, and Lloyd Wallace, 6-1, 6-3. Cliff Sutter, New Orleans, national intercollegiate champion, beat John Curtiss, Northwestern captain, 6-1, 6-1.

Play in the men's doubles begins this afternoon. The veteran's singles and the women's singles start tomorrow.

Washington, D. C., June 30.—(AP)—Fred Marberry outpitched Blaeholder in a twirling duel today and then added the finishing touch by knocking in the winning run in the ninth to give the Senators a 2 to 1 victory over the St. Louis Browns. The Browns' one run came on a long home run by Kress.

Heinie Manush found Blaeholder for a double and triple out of four times at bat. Marberry scattered the four hits he allowed St. Louis, while he and his mates made eight off Blaeholder. Score:

Chicago Golfers Beat Detroit in Intercity Match

Chicago defeated Detroit yesterday, 13½ to 4½, in an intercity professional golf match at the Twin Orchard Country club. The Michigan players won only one of the morning two ball foursomes, while the Chicagoans were taking four and halving one. In the afternoon the home team swept through the singles matches, 9 to 3.

One of the members of the Detroit team was Clarence Gamber, who has the reputation of being one of the longest drivers on the American links. He hit a tremendous tee shot on the 390 yard sixth, which came to rest in a trap just off the edge of the green. But even shots such as this were not good enough to beat Frank Walsh, who came out on top, 4 and 2.

One of the most dramatic finishes of the afternoon came in the match between Dewey Weber and Charles Hilgendorf. Weber stood 1 up at the eighteenth, a 465 yard par 5 hole. Both players reached the green with a drive and an iron shot, Weber's ball coming to rest about 55 feet from the cup. His putt meandered over the billowing green and dropped into the hole for an eagle 3.

In the match which drew the largest gallery of the afternoon Al Espinosa defeated Al Watrous of Detroit, 3 and 2. They were all square at the turn, each with scores of 36, one above par. After the next three holes were halved Watrous lost the thirteenth by laying his brassie shot in a trap. He dropped the fifteenth also by overshooting the green. A trapped approach cost him the match on the sixteenth.

The Detroit player made one of his best shots to halve the tenth. Faced with a dead stymie, he curved a 20 foot putt around the ball and into the cup. Summaries:

Cochet Loses to Allison in Tennis Upset

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, England, June 30.—Wilmer Allison, American Davis cup player, today overwhelmed Henri Cochet, French holder of the Wimbledon tennis championship. The scores were 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

It was the biggest upset since the tournament opened a week ago and marked the second surprise in which Allison has figured. Last Monday he overthrew the seeded Australian champion, E. F. Moon, in straight sets.

May Clear Way for Tilden.

Allison was not seeded and today's match was regarded merely as a preliminary leading up to the awaited final between Cochet and Bill Tilden. Elimination of Cochet may mean the title for Tilden for the first time since 1921.

Tilden meets Jacques Borotra in the semi-final. If he wins, the championship match will be an all-American affair. Borotra advanced through the fifth round today by defeating George Lott of Chicago in four sets. Lott won the first set easily, 6-2, but the Basque recovered and won the next three, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

With Allison in the upper helf of the draw is Johnny Doeg, 21 year old co-holder of the American doubles championship with Lott. He beat Gregory Mangin of Washington, 6-3, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, this afternoon. Tilden moved another step toward the championship by defeating the last remaining Briton, Dr. J. C. Gregory, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Cochet Nets Drives.

Everybody who could get to the center court stands this afternoon watched Cochet's downfall. The day was scorching hot. Cochet played sullenly and made a number of foot faults and many of his drives caught the net.

The match started slowly, but Allison, after dropping the first two games, quickly took the next four, passing Cochet when he went to the net and making his ground shots count for most of the points.

Lott, in his match with Borotra, was unlucky with his lobs and drives to the far side of the court in the later stages, and lost point after point out of bounds.

Tilden had no difficulty with Gregory, and the match between Doeg and Mangin was a victory of the Californian's service and overhead shots over his opponent's ground shots.

The American pair, E. O. Mather and Mrs. R. E. Haylock, were eliminated in the mixed doubles today by Jacques Brugnon and Mme. Henrotin of France, 8-6, 6-3, but the French players were later beaten by Tilden and Cilly Aussem of Germany, 6-4, 9-7.

Helen Wills Moody and Elizabeth Ryan won from the British pair, Mrs. A. D. Stock and Mrs. L. G. Owen, 6-1, 6-3.

Becka's 300 Wins 72 Hole Junior Golf Competition

Charles Becka, Calumet, carried off low honors with four rounds of 77—77—74—72—300. William Chambers of Briergate was second with 79—74—77—74—304. Third position went to John Graw of Illinois with 80—77—76—78—311, and R. G. Bohnen of Midlothian was fourth, scoring 74—80—84—77—315.

Becka, who lost to Dick Mullin in the semi-finals of the district junior play last year and missed qualifying for the national open by one stroke this year, played four rounds of consistent golf. His iron shots were seldom off line and his putting was deadly. In his last round, a 72 over the par 70 course, he was 1 over par on the first, fifth, sixth and eleventh due to tee shots into trouble. On the third and eighth he scored birdies by laying approaches dead and getting down in one putt on each green.

Bill Chambers played fine golf throughout except for being erratic on his drives. On the fourteenth hole in the morning he hit two out of bounds from the tee and one in the afternoon. He putted well and had his approach shots splitting the pin.

Other leading scores:

A. A. U. Head Lauds British Track Squad

Avery Brundage, president of the National Amateur Athletic union, returned yesterday from Europe. While Mr. Brundage's trip primarily was to attend the meeting of the international federation in Berlin, he conferred with athletic chiefs of England concerning the British empire-United States track and field meet which will be held the night of Aug. 27 on Soldiers' field.

"The United States must marshal its greatest strength if it is to maintain its record of victory over the empire," Mr. Brundage said. "The representatives from England, South Africa, Australia, Canada, and New Zealand have assured me their best athletes will participate in the British empire games at Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 16 to 23, where the teams will be selected for the Chicago meet.

"Among the stars who will compete at Hamilton are Percy Williams, Olympic sprint champion, and Jack London, who ran second to Williams; Lord Burghley, Olympic 400 meter hurdle winner at Amsterdam; Eric Liddel of Scotland, who won the 400 meter race at Paris in 1924; Callaghan of Ireland, who holds the Olympic hammer throw title, and Ball, a Canadian, who ran second to Ray Barbutti of America in the Olympic 400 meter race in 1928."

Chicago business men have underwritten the cost of the meet at Soldiers' field which is estimated at $25,000.

PIRATES LOSE 6-5; L. WANER BACK IN GAME

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 30.—(AP)—Rallying after Pittsburgh had swept away their early lead, the Boston Braves tallied twice in the eighth today to defeat the Pirates, 6 to 5. Richbourg's single with the bases loaded gave the Braves their tying and winning runs.

And then he changed to Kro-Flite

Here's one that actually happened at a Massachusetts golf club. The professional told a member that the Kro-Flite golf ball would not only give him swell distance but that it couldn't be cut. The golfer answered "Boloney!"

"Wait a minute," said the professional. He took an old niblic he had in the shop and sharpened it up on a grindstone. Then he buried a Kro-Flite in the ground until only the top showed.

"Now, swing on it!" he said to the skeptic and gave him the razor-like niblic. And that chap laid into that Kro-Flite as if he were chopping wood. But he couldn't cut it! The worst the Kro-Flite showed was a slight dent. But old John Skeptic died hard.

"No ball as tough as that can have distance," he argued. But he played a round with it and made several of the sweetest drives he had ever chalked up. (Affectionate scene between golfer and ball) "Kro-Flite! You're the golf ball I've been looking for all my life!"

YES, the Kro-Flite is the toughest golf ball in the world. But toughness by itself is not a virtue. Anyone can make a tough golf ball. Only Spalding, however, has succeeded in making a ball that combines maximum durability with first-grade distance—a ball that can't be cut but can be driven for some of the longest drives you ever hit.

N. Y. Prepares Mammoth Reception for Bobby.

his neck to see over the crowds when Bobby hits his shots. It takes him two or three weeks to unstretch after a big tournament and the wear and tear of all his expansion and contraction is beginning to tell on Mr. Keeler. I could hear his joints crackling faintly as they settled again, like the twinkle of a hot motor when the key is turned off.

Mr. Keeler Replies.

"Your fellow is having a big day with his public," I said. "What does he think of people who run with champions? Is he pessimistic like Tunney?"

"I tell you that boy is the sanest, the most modest champion that ever held a title in any branch of sport," Mr. Keeler said in his high, southern voice, he being out of Kansas City some twenty years back. "You know what he has told me sometimes? Sometimes he tells me it's the regret of his life that he has to be famous just for his proficiency in a sport. He could enjoy all this if they were following him because of some great achievement in some thoughtful line of work, such as writing or healing.

"But he says, 'Sport is just a physical work. Anybody might be a champion athlete.' And while he knows how hard it is to become a champion and defend championships, he never will be pleased with the idea that he was famous only for what he did in sport. And that's what he says to me about all this."

When Robert comes to town Wednesday, there will be much to remind him of his regret, for the present arrangements call for the most uproarious day and night of whooping and hollering under official auspices that have upset this place since Lindbergh came back from Paris by way of Washington.

I hear that not one, but three committees wearing three kinds of badges, respectively, will go down the bay to take him off the Europa, following which he will be escorted up Broadway in custody of a lot of home folks from Atlanta who are coming here on a chartered train called the Bobby Jones special. There will be a stop at the city hall for the usual amenities and at night there will be a banquet at the Vanderbilt hotel attended by a vast discharge of oratory, all of a tone calculated to remind Robert again that he is held in high esteem by many loving friends and neighbors, alongside of what he has done at golf.

Reminds Pegler of Smith.

I am thinking that this young fellow, now a man with a job in the law business down in his home town, is very much of the type of Al Smith, a happy warrior, but serious enough, who never has ceased to be himself, although the winds of acclaim have swirled about him so hard and long that he very pardonably might have been blown all out of shape years ago.

Bobby has read his quota, but the young man is neither pontiff nor oracle on any subject, not even golf, and many times he has had to address the English on public occasions without uttering a single clumsy or tactless remark to be taken up by a captious press always alert to exploit the boorishness of Americans.

This, in an athlete who has been taking the English championships year after year, represents a championship in itself, but when Bobby comes back and the speeches are going out over the air Wednesday night he will be sitting there behind his purplish tan complexion and his hard boiled shirt-front still telling himself that he is very much overrated and only a champion golfer after all.

VON PORAT GOES FOR REST; GETS BROKEN ANKLE

Otto von Porat, Norwegian heavyweight who took to the Wisconsin woods to recuperate after his one round knockout by Young Stribling, has found something more serious to recuperate from.

While browsing about his manager's summer home near Bayfield, Wis., he stumbled and fractured his ankle. The injury may keep him out of the ring for several weeks. He had been considered for a comeback match at the Chicago Stadium, July 16.

Becker Gives New Insect Lotion Recipes

BY BOB BECKER.

Although citronella and pine tar are the favorite ingredients for anti-insect lotions, here are a couple of powerful but little known dopes which will knock off the skeeters and their odor is not as offensive. We have in mind sassafras oil and quassia. Both are well worth their weight in a bottle when you start mixing up your dopes to take on a camping or fishing trip.

The oils of pennyroyal, citronella, cloves, lavender, sassafras, cedar, and eucalytpus long have figured in various dopes made for the outdoors man. Sometimes they have been used singly and sometimes in combination. Of this list sassafras probably has been used the least, so little has been said about it, although the old fashioned sassafras tea has always been given quite a play early in the spring, when spring tonics are being discussed.

Sassafras oil is strong, insects do not like it, and to us it is less offensive than many of the ingredients that go into mosquito dopes. Mix a small amount of sassafras oil with either pure olive oil or castor oil and you have a pungent, effective anti-skeeter lotion.

Take one ounce of oil of sassafras, two ounces of olive or castor oil, and an ounce of camphor, mix them and apply to the skin and we'll wager you'll have no trouble with any kind of winged pests. This combination not only repels insects, but it is also soothing.

We found a quassia combination anti-insect dope on the market the other day. Quassia is used mostly as an ingredient of insectides. However, it is effective in a mixture to be used on the skin like any other repellant.

For example, this combination containing quassia is good: Oil of pennyroyal, 1 dram; oil of camphor, 2 drams; castor oil, 2 drams; sassafras, 1 dram, and quassia, 1 dram.

STARTS SECOND HALF OF YEAR IN SOBER MOOD

BY O. A. MATHER.

American business and industry embarks on the second half of the year today. Probably a more sober but more sane mood prevails than at the beginning of the year. Six months of depression have blasted the false hopes that the stock market collapse last autumn would be followed by speedy recovery. But there is a general belief that depression will not grow more serious and cannot be prolonged indefinitely.

"How long it will take before the needed readjustments can be completed and trade and industry be in position to move forward once more on a sound and prosperous basis cannot be foretold with certainty," the National City bank, New York, says in its monthly review. "Business pretty much over the world is sick and it will serve the cause of revival better to face this fact squarely and with determination to take all necessary steps to eliminate the obstructive influences than to cherish a blind optimism as to the date and period of convalescence.

Need Even Balance.

"At the same time it is just as necessary to preserve an even balance against unwarranted pessimism and to take account of encouraging features of the situation. Sooner or later the time must come when industry will have to speed up again to care for the wants of 120 million people. The record of industry in this country does not contain many long drawn out depressions."

A more specific forecast is made by the Standard Statistics company, which says that industrial activity promises no substantial pickup during the normally dull summer months of July and August.

"We are not yet out of the woods," the survey continues. "The sharp decline in stock prices since April 10 has impaired business confidence. The commodity price situation cannot clear in a significant way until it becomes possible more accurately to forecast the volume of this season's agricultural out-turn. The labor situation is not yet measurably improving.

"Profits are still receding. We are still laboring with the heritage of the excesses of 1928-'29, and, in view of the size of the problem and the many perplexities involved, it does not seem probable that other than moderate progress can be made during the next two or three months."

Outlines Prospects.

Prospects for some of the major divisions of industry and trade are outlined as follows:

AUTOMOBILES—For the year as a whole it seems reasonable to estimate an aggregate outturn of at least 20 per cent lower than for 1929.

BUILDING—During the final six months, especially after July, this year's results should provide a favorable comparison with those of 1929.

COTTON—Average price in the next six months will not be materially higher, except possibly toward the end of the year.

FARM PRODUCTS—There is little reason for any sharp recovery in wheat prices during the near future. The outlook for corn is clouded by indications of a larger yield for the coming crop.

PETROLEUM — Aggregate results in the coming months should at least equal those for the same interval in 1929.

RADIO—The outlook for the second half year is uncertain, although involving fewer difficulties than were encountered during the last few months.

RAILROADS—The second half of this year will show much smaller losses than those reported for the first six months.

RETAIL TRADE—The appearance of any market expansion before the turn of the year mark can not be considered a distinct possibility at this time.

STEEL—Full 1930 returns can not hope to approach 1929 results.

UTILITIES—Longer term prospects remain favorable for electric light and power companies, and are conspicuously favorable for the gas companies. Prospects for telephone and telegraph companies during the next six months are closely dependent on the extent to which general trade recovers.

Cites Disadvantages of St. Lawrence Waterway

BY SCRUTATOR.

Many competent observers and students of traffic conditions believe that the arguments brought forward to show the proposed deep St. Lawrence waterway will benefit the central states to a marked extent are exaggerated.

The proposed shipway is a rebuilding of the present St. Lawrence canal system, which accommodates vessels of 14 foot draft and 250 foot length. Deepening to 27 feet and providing locks for 600 foot vessels are the easily grasped engineering improvements to be made along the river from Lake Ontario to Montreal.

From both the Canadian and American standpoints there are two reasons advising caution in the expenditure of the hundreds of millions necessary to make the canals big. One is the seasonal factor; the shipway could be used, at best, but seven months in the year. The other is a lack of traffic that could economically use the shipway between the central states and Montreal.

Traffic in Grain.

Seventy per cent of the traffic on the present canals is grain. These canals, according to two Canadian engineers reporting early this year to the Montreal board of trade, were only used to 65 per cent of capacity in 1928.

Except in the matter of size, the present St. Lawrence waterway is about the same as the proposed. It does not handle traffic because there is not a great deal of suitable traffic for it to handle, aside from wheat.

Several years ago an estimate was made to the effect that the traffic between the central states and the Atlantic seaboard by rail was a billion tons annually. Friends of the St. Lawrence project claim for it a potential traffic of twenty million or more tons annually, but Dr. Harold G. Moulton, economist, has placed the possibilities at nearer ten million tons, with about half coming from the United States or bound into it.

If only one ton in a hundred has even a possibility of passing over the St. Lawrence route, it seems not so likely that any great good will be accomplished by it in improved form. Our exports have tended for some years to change; it is the finished goods rather than raw materials that are moving into world trade. The former class of shipments does not lend itself so readily to cheap transport in bulk.

Seasonal Element.

Coal and pulpwood, which can be cheaply stored, are shipped economically by the shipload. Machinery is not. An instance where it might seem the St. Lawrence could be profitably used is furnished by agricultural machinery. It is sold extensively in Europe. But even if there were shiploads of it ready, the seasonal element is against the northern route. Concentration of the machinery in Europe begins in January and February to meet the demand for it in April and May. To beat the ice, such goods would have to be on shipboard in early autumn, and carrying charges and storage would have to be arranged for long periods.

A real waterway system would tap great markets, as the Chicago-New Orleans route will, and as a Chicago-New York route would. It will require a marked density of traffic to overcome the disadvantage of a strictly warm weather route, and the St. Lawrence does not seem to promise that.

California Weekly Oil Production Is Lower

New York, June 30.—(AP)—Output of crude oil in California for the week ended June 28 averaged 599,900 barrels daily, a decrease of 4,100 from the previous week, the California Oil World reports.

REINVESTMENT OF DIVIDENDS SEEN DECLINING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Wall street statisticians were endeavoring to estimate what portion of the dividend and interest funds to be distributed to stockholders today and tomorrow will be returned to the market in the form of new buying of securities.

Unlike previous years, when the close of this month was usually marked by strong-box purchases of securities on receipt by investors of dividend and interest checks, the current year, in view of the recent slump in securities, it was believed, will witness a sharp reduction in this type of buying. A more cautious attitude has been manifested by investors in recent weeks.

Dividend and interest disbursements to stockholders of domestic and foreign corporations today ran into approximately $400,000,000, representing one of the largest totals to be distributed by corporations this year. An amount estimated at $200,000,000 will also be distributed tomorrow and Wednesday.

Many of the leading American and foreign organizations will mail checks to stockholders representing second quarterly dividends and semi-annually interest payments. Stockholders of more than 3,000 issues will be in receipt of these funds before the week is out.

FIRST NATIONAL TO CELEBRATE 67TH BIRTHDAY

The First National Bank of Chicago today celebrates the 67th anniversary of its founding, which occurred on July 1, 1863, the same day that the battle of Gettysburg began.

The bank opened in the first Board of Trade building, located at what is now La Salle street and Wacker drive, starting with seven employés and an initial cash capital of $205,000. The first published statement of conditions showed total resources of $479,000. Since that time capital, surplus, and undivided profits of the bank and its affiliate, the First Union Trust and Savings bank, have grown to approximately $75,000,000, while total resources have climbed to $600,000,000.

Melvin A. Traylor, who is now president of the bank, is the sixth to occupy that position. Previous presidents were Edmund Aiken, Samuel M. Nickerson, Lyman J. Gage, James B. Forgan, and Frank O. Wetmore.

The bank built its first home at State and Washington five years after its organization. The structure was partially ruined by fire in 1871 and was restored. The bank moved to Dearborn and Monroe streets in 1882. The first section of the present building was completed in 1903 and the structure was completed in 1928.

June Call Money Renewal Rate Average Is 2.6%

New York, June 30.—(AP)—The average call money renewal rate on the New York Stock exchange in June was 2.6 per cent, compared with 3.11 per cent in May, and 7.60 per cent in June last year. The June average rate this year was the lowest monthly average since November, 1924, when the average was 2.42 per cent.

Anticipate Favorable Poll Verdict; Transit Issues Gain

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Transit securities advanced sharply on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday anticipating the approval today at the polls of the unified traction franchise ordinance.

With the passage of the plan practically assured, shares and bonds of all the companies figuring in the reorganization held the center of interest in an otherwise dull but steady market.

The most outstanding gain in the group was made by the Chicago Railways participating certificates series 2, which moved up to 6 on a turnover of approximately 1,250 shares. The closing price represented a gain of 3⅞ points over the last previous sale in the issue which was made several days ago. The series 3 certificates which recently have sold as low as an ⅛ of a point closed the day at 3, up a fraction for the day.

In Best Demand.

Of the Chicago City and Connecting railways issues the preferred stock was in the best demand and ranged up to 20. The issue closed at 18¼, a net gain for the session of 2½. The preferred certificates of deposit rose 1½ to 17. The last sale in the common shares was made at 2¼, a fraction above Saturday's final quotation. Chicago Railways 5s A were the most active of the transit bonds and advanced 1½. Par value of the bonds traded in amounted to $20,000. Fractional improvement was made in the 5s B and the 5s certificates.

In other sections of the list trading was dull and prices steady. Notable gains were made by Borg Warner which improved 2 points and Insull Utility which advanced 1¼ selling ex dividend.

The volume of trading on the exchange during the first six months of 1930 was the largest during any first half year in history. The figures compiled yesterday after the close of the market show total sales for the period of 45,276,800 shares, as compared with 29,086,000 in the corresponding period of 1929, an increase of 55 per cent.

Sell More Bonds.

Bond trading for the period was seven times as great as during the first six months last year. The par value of bonds traded in during the period was $21,289,000, as compared with $3,118,000 in 1929.

While the sales figures for stock include 715,000 Cities Service rights which are handled as shares in the records, it was pointed out that there has been a discrepancy between reports and actual sales in odd lots. The counting of the rights is thought to equalize such discrepancy. The exchange is inaugurating a new system for reporting odd lot sales.

COMMERCE BODY MAKES STUDY OF EXPORT TRADE

Washington, D. C., June 30.—(AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce announced today a statistical study of American foreign trade showed exports for the first three months of 1930 to be only 4 per cent less than the average of similar periods between 1924 and 1928.

A decline of 20 per cent was noted, however, in comparison with the first three months of 1929.

"This decrease in the volume of and dollar value of American exports," the chamber said, "is a reflection of the world-wide business recession and fall of commodity prices, with the consequent lowered purchasing power of our foreign markets."

Radio Corp. Denies Charges in Gov't Anti-Trust Suit

New York, June 30.—(AP)—David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, announced today the corporation had filed an answer denying charges the government made against it in bringing suit in Delaware for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. In answer the Radio corporation denies "it has, during the more than ten years of its existence, done anything of which the government should complain, but that, on the contrary, what was done in obtaining rights under the patents of others was necessary for and has resulted in the establishment of modern radio which could not otherwise have lawfully been established nor brought to its present efficient condition."

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Considering its many handicaps in the way of higher call money, a flock of discouraging federal reserve bank reports on business conditions throughout the country, weaker commodity prices and the heavy air of caution just now prevailing in speculative circles, the stock market did itself proud today.

On a turnover of 1,842,750 shares, the smallest for any full session of the year, it ran up gains of from one to five points in nearly every active group on the list. To cap it off a small calaxy of fast steppers did their stuff in the oldtime manner, Allied Chemical skyrocking for 16 points, Case Threshing Machine soaring 10, Ingersoll Rand advancing 8 and Air Reduction 7 points.

At Expense of Shorts.

The advance was very largely at the expense of the shorts. Bear traders seemed to have completely lost their urge to sell for the time being, probably coming to the growing belief that the market is entitled to some recovery from the low levels reached last week. So far as the tape record showed they made no attempt to raid in any quarters.

U. S. Steel continued to give the market its tone, advacing 3⅝ points to 159⅝. At its final figure the big-time leader was up a good 8 points

"No greater obligation falls upon the bearer of a good name than the upholding of the honor which made that name good."

THERE is a new name in the rolls of LaSalle Street—a name new in its combination of partners, but old to the many who have dealt with the members of this firm as individuals.

Nichols, Terry & Dickinson, Inc., will carry on into ever-widening fields the underwriting activities in which members of the firm have specialized so successfully during recent years. And to this, the new firm of Nichols, Terry & Dickinson, Inc., adds a complete organization for the wholesale and retail distribution of sound investment securities.

CRAIG FORESEES MORE BUILDING IN NEXT SIX MONTHS

Loop Leases Transaction Involves $500,000.

E. M. Craig, executive secretary of the Building Construction Employers' association, in a statement made yesterday, expressed confidence that building in Chicago for the next six months will exceed the first half of 1930. Mr. Craig stated that approximately $200,000,000 in construction was announced as contemplated for the first six months, and that of this sum possibly $75,000,000 was put under contract.

Mr. Craig stated that the present is a logical time to build. He explained this by saying there has been a marked decline in the prices of most building materials, some even showing a reduction of 100 per cent.

"Prices in various grades of lumber have dropped from 30 to 60 per cent; sand, gravel, and lath, 100 per cent; while the cost of common brick between the period from 1923 to 1930 has remained unchanged at $12 per thousand. Labor rates have increased 37½ per cent since 1923, and approximate 60 per cent of construction costs. This increased efficiency of the building artisans has offset largely this expense."

Clear Lease Tangle.

A somewhat involved transaction gives the Lawyers' Addition Building corporation ownership of the unexpired period of a ninety-nine year lease on the premises at 162-66 West Washington street for a consideration reported to approximate $500,000. William E. Mortimer was the lessor for the ninety-nine year lease, which was dated May 1, 1911.

One step in the present situation was a sublease on the ground entered into by the Washington at La Salle Street Building corporation with W. C. Bannerman, who contemplated the construction of a tall building. Mr. Bannerman and his associates in turn conveyed the sublease to the Lawyers' Addition Building corporation. Now the Washington at La Salle and Lawyers' Addition Building corporations have agreed to cancel the sublease and the latter corporation secures possession of the original ninety-nine year term.

Building Plans Changed.

Emil Rudolph of the Chicago Guarantee Survey company is president of the Washington at La Salle Building corporation. Charles Schwerin, who was interested in the construction of the original Lawyers' building — now called the 100 North La Salle—which was to have been connected with a building of similar height at 162-66 West Washington, said the names of the parties interested in the Lawyers' Addition Building corporation will be disclosed about Aug. 1.

In the meantime the seven story building at 162-66 West Washington is being remodeled for general rental. Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann & Levinson were attorneys for the Lawyers' corporation.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP)—Cotton goods opened quiet and rather steadier in the gray goods division today. Finished cloths were in moderate demand for prompt shipment. Burlaps continued steady following reports of curtailment of output in Calcutta mills. Wool goods and silks were quiet. Raw silk was unsettled.

The Coming Market

The greatest constructive factor in relation to securities today is easy money. Call loans in New York carry 2% time loans 2½% to 3%. The trend in interest rates continues downward. Despite impression to the contrary, we have been in a bull market for Investment bonds since January, 1930. Obligations of such companies as American Telephone & Telegraph and Commonwealth Edison, proverbially first to show strength in an improving market, are selling close to their all time highs. Income has again become a factor in security purchases.

Fundamentals, which always prevail in the long run, are definitely pointing to a change in psychology, a revival of investment buying and a bull market in securities of the dependable income producing type.

HIBERNIA TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK, Trustee

CONVERSION PRIVILEGE: These Debentures are convertible at the option of the holder at any time after May 1, 1931, and up to but not after the 10th day prior to maturity, or if called for redemption, at any time up to but not after the 10th day prior to the redemption date, at the rate of fifty (50) shares of Participating Class A Stock for each $1,000.00 Debenture, subject to the pertinent provisions of the Debenture Agreement.

Business: Midland Natural Gas Company, organized under the laws of the State of Delaware, will (upon completion of current financing) own and operate, either directly or through its subsidiaries, natural gas properties totaling more than 34,000 acres in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. There are on this acreage more than 325 producing gas wells, having a present daily production of more than 12,000,000 cubic feet per day, an open flow capacity of more than 35,000,000 cubic feet daily, and an estimated gas reserve of more than 200 billion cubic feet. The gas horizons drained by these wells are reported to be among the most consistent and longest-lived producers in the eastern fields. The reserve acreage admits of intensive development work which will be carried out as rapidly as feasible and which should result in substantial increase in production and earnings. The average life of wells in these fields is reported to be in excess of thirty-five years.

Over 90% of the gross income from the Company's properties and those to be acquired is derived from the wholesale distribution of gas under favorable contracts to several of the largest purchasers of natural gas in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, among which are the following:

Hope Natural Gas Co.
People's Natural Gas Company
The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company
The Natural Gas Company of West Virginia
Carnegie Gas Company
Cumberland and Alleghany Gas Company
Monongahela West Penn Public Service Company
Godfrey L. Cabot, Inc.
West Penn Public Service Co.
South Penn Oil Co.
Equitable Gas Company
Subsidiary of Philadelphia Company

The balance of the gross income is derived from the sale of gas by four subsidiaries of the Company to domestic consumers in Pennsylvania and West Virginia communities. Under the terms of the existing gas sales contracts, additional gas produced from presently drilled acreage will automatically have an immediate market.

Security: These Debentures will be, in the opinion of counsel, the direct obligation of the Company, and constitute its sole funded debt, subject only to divisional liens in the amount of $1,033,780. According to appraisals furnished by independent engineers, the properties including those to be presently acquired have a sound value of more than $10,000,000, after allowing for the aforesaid divisional liens and all current and accrued liabilities.

Capitalization: (Upon completion of present financing)

Earnings: Based on 1929 historical earnings (as per footnote) Clark & Krebs, Inc., Consulting Engineers, state that the properties of the Company and its subsidiaries including the properties to be acquired are at present operating on the following annual basis:

Gross revenue	$859,281.08
Operating expenses, interest on divisional liens, maintenance, depletion and depreciation	313,622.38
Net income before Income Taxes	$545,658.70
Interest on $2,500,000 Debentures	150,000.00

Management: The operation of Midland Natural Gas Company and its subsidiaries is under the direction of Midland Management, Inc., which also directs the operation of Twin States Natural Gas Company, and the subsidiaries of Inland Utilities, Inc.

Price 98½ and accrued interest to yield over 6.35%

These Debentures are offered subject to prior sale and allotment, when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. Appraisals of gas properties by Clark & Krebs, Inc. Legal details incident to this issue will be passed on by Messrs. Chapman and Cutler, and Edward H. Tatum, Esq., of New York. Audits will be made by Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co. WHEN the First National Bank of Chicago was established, in 1863, it began to buy high grade bonds. It has bought them during the sixty-seven years since that time in increasing volume.

The investment activities of the First National Bank and the First Union Trust and Savings Bank have been concentrated for years in the Bond Department of the latter bank. Through this department hundreds of millions of dollars of the banks' funds, as well as the funds of individuals, corporations, estates, banking institutions and insurance companies have been safely and profitably invested.

Six decades of experience in weighing security values, a broad diversity of issues thoroughly investigated, an investment service of the highest class—these are the major advantages offered to investors who buy from this bank. Inquiries regarding investments are invited without obligation.

NOW LOWS FOR CORN AND OATS; WHEAT DECLINES

Marketing Movement of New Crop Heavy.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Easy and irregularly lower markets yesterday with a lighter trade and a disposition to sell all grains on hard spots, resulted in closing prices well towards the lowest of the day with new low records on July corn and September oats.

Lower cables from Liverpool, which were in sympathy with the decline in American markets on Saturday, also reports of liberal rains over a great part of the Canadian northwest, with the exception of parts of Alberta, more than offset the few bullish influences that developed and made a comparatively quiet market.

There was no disposition to press the short side on breaks and it was said that the largest traders were inclined to hold off in selling. At the same time, hedging pressure from the southwest is increasing as the market movement is heavy and about 5,000,000 bu of new and old wheat, mostly the new wheat crop, was marketed for the day at leading southwestern points.

Requires Increased Buying.

This hedging movement is requiring increased buying support to sustain values around the present level. The decrease in the visible supply was not given any particular attention as stocks are over 107,000,000, against 92,707,000 bu last year. The weekly foreign statistics offered no particular attraction to operators on either side. The Canadian visible made a small increase and is larger than last year.

Supplies on ocean passage continue materially below last year. European crop prospects were mixed. Kansas City reported a good export business in wheat at the gulf as arrivals there have made it possible to do business. The high quality of this year's hard winter wheat crop is such that offerings of No. 2 grade in the southwest are said to be small. It was noticeable that despite the heavy receipts of wheat in the southwest September at Kansas City was 7c under Chicago.

At the close there were net losses on wheat of 1¼ to 1⅜c with the close on July at 89@89⅛c, September, 93@93⅛c, and December, 98¾@98⅞c.

July Liquidation.

There was heavy liquidation in July and active changing from that month to September at 3¾@4c, with prospects for deliveries of cash grain of 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 bu.

Corn had a heavy undertone, with a liberal volume of scattered liquidation and considerable bear pressure. Weakness in wheat was also an influence. The cash demand was said to be good, with charters for 130,000 bu at Buffalo. The decrease of 1,718,000 bu in the visible, however, failed to have any effect and the close was at net losses of ⅞c, July being 73⅜c, September, 72⅝@72¾c, and December, 67⅛@67⅜c, after selling to a new low of 66⅝c. Crop experts on the whole were favorable.

Liquidation in Oats.

Scattered selling of oats by commission houses and local traders and buying of July and selling of September at ⅝c difference furnished a good part of the trading early. The close was within a fraction of the bottom with July 35@34⅞c, September 36c, and December 38⅞@39c. Net losses were ¼@½c.

Holders of July rye were heavy sellers, and the market closed 2c lower at 45⅝@45¾c. September dropped to 50½c and closed at 50½@50⅝c, December, 56⅜c.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders are inclined to more conservatism on both sides. There has been enough rain in parts of the northwest to take the bull edge off of the market, but at the same time the presence of numerous dry areas in Alberta is sufficient to create timidity amongst those who have been active on the bear side. The latter, however, make the point that unless there is a decided increase in the buying power the hedging movement will have a depressing influence. Corn traders see nothing in their market to induce large commitments on either side. The main point that they have in view is the crop, the stand of which in some sections is behind the average and in others it is up to the average.

Wheat receipts at six southwestern markets yesterday were 3,669 cars; Kansas City had 533 cars as reported to James E. Bennett. Hutchinson, Kas., had 1,037 cars; Wichita, 579 cars; Salina, 112 cars; Enid, Okla., 509 cars; Fort Worth, 899 cars.

OPEN HEARINGS ON FIGHT TO STOP BIG OIL MERGER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—The most famous government trust-busting suits of the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, the one against the Standard Oil company, was revived today when former Judge Fred L. Williams, special master, began in the federal building a hearing to prevent a proposed merger of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company.

John Lord O'Brien, assistant to the attorney general, in opening the government's case today said that, while for convenience, the litigation begun in 1906 and terminated with the dissolution of the parent Standard Oil company would be referred to as the "old case," there was in fact no separation between it and the new litigation.

The complaint recites that the New York Standard Oil company and Vacuum are in competition and that the proposed merger will eliminate all existing and potential rivalry, violating the decrees entered in the earlier litigation.

The 1906 complaint includes as defendants John D. Rockefeller Sr., William Rockefeller, Henry H. Rogers, Henry M. Flagler, John D. Archbold, Oliver H. Payne, and Charles M. Pratt. As a result of a decree entered in 1911 the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, which owned the stock of the New York company and of Vacuum, distributed its stock among the stockholders. Since then the Standard Oil Company of New York and Vacuum have been competitors, the government alleges.

The government now charges that the directors of the two companies of Jan. 10 executed a contract of merger providing that Socony would change its name to General Petroleum corporation and that two subsidiaries be formed to carry on the business of the New York company and the Vacuum company.

ANTHRACITE MINERS, OWNERS OPEN PARLEY FOR NEW AGREEMENT

New York, June 30.—(AP)—Anthracite operators and miners today opened formal negotiations for a new wage and working agreement to replace one which has been in force since the great coal strike of 1925-'26 and which expires Aug. 31.

Six representatives have been named from each group, the miners' headed by John L. Lewis, international president, and the operators by W. W. Inglis of Scranton, president of the Glen Alden Coal company.

At the opening session the miners presented their demands as formulated by the Hazelton, Pa., convention in May. They call for an agreement on the basis of no reduction in wages, equal division of working time among the various mines owned by one company, collection of union dues by the companies, and other minor provisions. The attitude of the operators was not made known.

The convention report presented today to the conference was:

"We recommend to the convention that the properly authorized and accredited scale committee to represent the anthracite mine workers in the coming negotiations be instructed to secure the best and most satisfactory agreement possible from the anthracite operators, on the basis of no reduction in wages, and that every effort be put forth by the scale committee to secure equal division of working time among the anthracite mine workers; to provide for proper arrangements on qualified seniority that will be protective of the rights of our members; to abolish the individual contract system; to prevent the replacement of employés by monthly men or bosses during the idle periods; to secure the elimination of certain existing practices of charging for air and safety appliances; to secure the convenience of an arrangement for the collection of dues on a reasonable basis; and that all resolutions presented to the convention bearing on scale be referred to the scale committee for their information and consideration during the negotiations."

None of the conferees would go beyond the formal statement, but a feeling of conciliation was evident on both sides, each eager to avoid any suspension of work such as had marked wage and working discussions of the past.

PRICES DECLINE, TRADING HEAVY DURING JUNE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Trading on the New York stock exchange last month was the heaviest of any other June on record. Sales totaled 76,593,250 shares, compared with 78,040,030 shares in May and 69,547,510 shares in the same month a year ago.

Stock prices last month broke in one of the most drastic declines, which sent prices and averages tumbling close to the low levels made in the crash of last November. The railroad averages, in fact, broke through that level and made a new low for 1929-'30.

The market, as measured by averages last month, lost all of its gains for the year. The net decline for June was $35.17 a share, which is the second largest break in the averages for any month since the averages were first compiled, and compares with the record of $60.21 made in October of last year.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was less active today and although prices were unchanged, the undertone was easier with offerings more liberal. The only sale reported was 37,000 bags of Cuban for early July clearance to an outport refiner at 3.38c delivered, but store sugars were available at 3.35c. The increased offerings in the spot market and the circulation of 24 July notices, had a depressing effect in raw futures, with final prices showing net losses of 6 to 8 points. Approximate sales, 48,100 tons. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low	Close.	Prev. close.

WILCOX RICH.

The time for depositing the class B stock of the Wilcox-Rich company under the terms of the merger agreement with the Eaton Axle company has been extended to June 18. Ninety per cent of the stock has been deposited, says an announcement by the Eaton company.

RECEIVER IS APPOINTED FOR RURAL GRAIN CO.

Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday appointed the First Trust and Savings bank as receiver for the Rural Grain company, which last week filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy on request of creditors.

Officials of the concern estimated the deficits at $185,000. A formal statement issued by S. J. Cottington, president of the bankrupt firm, placed much of the blame for the failure on speculations of Ernest V. Maltby, manager, in grain futures. The cash trades were on a sound basis, with satisfactory profits on around 80 million bushels of grain in 1929, Mr. Cottington said.

The principal creditors and amounts they stand to lose, according to auditors, are the Farmers' National Grain company, $50,000; F. S. Lewis & Co., $35,000; Continental Illinois Trust and Savings bank, $20,000; Congress Trust and Savings bank, $29,000; Leland Farmers' Grain company, $5,000, and the grain stabilization board, $37,000.

RESERVE BANKS REPORT ON LOW TRADE IN JUNE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Reserve banks of various districts reporting today generally record business at a low level in June and the business recession aggravated by a sharp further decline in commodity prices.

A notable exception occurs in the Kansas City district, where, the reserve bank states, better conditions and prospects for farm production were reflected in a slight expansion in business activity, compared with that witnessed in the earlier parts of the year. Still the volume of business was nearly 7 per cent below that of a year ago, but 2 per cent above that of two years ago.

The Philadelphia bank reports that business activity in general declined in May and the early part of June, when a further drop in commodity prices reduced demand and curtailed operations. Most of the manufacturing industries of the Philadelphia district have entered a period of summer quiet.

The Dallas bank finds business and industry at a low level. Wholesale distribution showed a larger recession than at this time last year. However, since improvement in the agricultural situation, due to fair weather, reports indicate a strengthening of confidence and a moderate increase in buying.

The volume of business in the Minneapolis federal reserve district was smaller in May than in the same month of last year, but the slowing down is greater by contrast with the unusually active state of business a year ago, reports the reserve bank of that city.

Department stores in the larger cities of the reserve district have experienced a slight decline in business during the first five months of 1930 as compared with a year ago, the decrease in May being 1 per cent.

RAILROAD NOTES

Effective today O. S. Lewis and Samuel House become general freight traffic manager and freight traffic manager, respectively, of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

The Colorado and Southern railroad asked the interstate commerce commission to approve the issue and sale by it of $20,000,000 in 4½ per cent bonds. The funds will reimburse the road's treasury for expenditures made in paying off debts and in financing railroad construction in Texas.

The Midwest Shippers' Advisory board will meet in Rockford, Ill., July 8, at which time forecasts will be issued of the anticipated car loadings in this section of the country in the third quarter of this year.

The Santa Fé railroad is now loading between 1,000 and 1,500 cars of grain daily, and in eleven days 6,591 cars have been loaded with cereals, which is an increase of 2,193 cars over last year, according to Assistant Freight Traffic Manager J. H. McCabe. Much of this grain is moving to Houston, Galveston and New Orleans for export.

New through freight service between Chicago and Milwaukee for small shippers is announced by the North Shore line. Under arrangements just complet ed between the electric road and the North Shore Forwarding Organization shipments as low as 100 pounds may be made in freight trailer equipment with all the dispatch afforded shipments of 20,000 pounds or more. Low rates for this service have been scheduled.

BLACK RUST IN NORTHWEST

Donovan, the Logan & Bryan crop expert, after a trip over the northwest says wheat has a fair to good stand although stunted growth is seen in some dry sections. Black rust in the early stages is in evidence but its damaging stage will not start until well along in July, after which its degree of severity will be regulated by the weather. However, in connection with this, the Rust Prevention association claims that the rust has started fully two weeks earlier this season than has been usual.

SUSPENDS FARE INCREASE.

The public service utility commissioner of New Jersey has ordered suspended for three months from July 15 the proposed increase in fares asked by Public Service company, coordinated transport company.

BOND MARKET IS MORE STABLE IN DULL TRADING

New York, June 30.—(AP)—The listed bond market showed greater stability in a dull trading session today. The sustained rally in stocks gave a firm tone to convertible and warrant issues, and the influence of easy credit asserted itself on a wide list of corporation and foreign bonds. Prime domestic issues were sluggish.

The trend was irregularly higher, with legal issues the dullest spot in the domestic list. Firming of call money, which advanced to 3 per cent, was believed to have retarded sales, which were the smallest in more than a week. Tightening of rates was incident to withdrawal of funds for interest, dividend and maturity payments, part of which is expected to flow into bonds.

Gains among convertible bonds were confined to small fractions, with a few notable exceptions. Atchison 4½s and St. Paul adjustment 5s made the best recovery among railroads, rising a point or more. International Telephone 4½ advanced 1½ points, and Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron 6s closed more than 2 points higher than Saturday.

DU PONT MAKES ADVANCE REPORT ON 2ND QUARTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—An estimate of earnings of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. for the second quarter of the year, issued today by the company three weeks ahead of the usual date for the release of such figures, showed that, with earnings for June estimated, the company's net profit for the quarter ended on June 30 was $1.31 a share, against $1.44 a share in the corresponding quarter of 1929 and $1.05 in 1928.

The report was issued early this year, it was explained, "for the information and guidance of common stock holders who hold rights to subscribe to 357,071 additional shares of common stock of the company at $80 a share." These rights will expire on July 15, before the publication of the regular official quarterly report.

The net income, exclusive of income from investment in the General Motors corporation, for the second quarter of 1930, with June estimated, was $7,934,000, compared with $8,812,500 for the corresponding period of 1929. Dividends from General Motors totaled $7,484,000, as in the similar period of last year. The total net income for the second quarter of this year was therefore $15,418,000, against $16,296,500 for the corresponding period of last year.

A BUYERS' MARKET

High Yields Available on Sound Securities

In times of exceptional optimism or exceptional depression, skilled investors, relying upon reason and sound judgment rather than on crowd psychology, are frequently able to lay the foundations for substantial profits.

We are today in the midst of a dull market period, with a number of indications of better times on the financial horizon. We believe that investors who buy now, at current low prices, while others are waiting to see what will happen, are certain in the long run of a handsome profit on sound securities.

We have prepared a six page leaflet containing condensed descriptions of a number of high grade investment bonds, preferred stocks and common stocks which are selling, in our judgment, at considerably less than their intrinsic values. The leaflet also contains a general list. All of the securities described carry our unqualified recommendation. We suggest that you fill in the attached coupon or telephone Franklin 6900 and obtain a copy as a guide to the disposition of your July funds.

"To July Investors

and recommend these bonds to yield as high as 6¼% . . ."

PRESIDENT, S. W. STRAUS & CO.

"ONE YEAR AGO, on June 18, 1929, we published this paragraph:

'At this time, when evidences of prosperity are so abundant, and you hear so much talk that everybody is dealing in the stock market, it is important to remember that the great majority of conservative people are still just as cautious and just as insistent on safety of principal as ever.'

"Many of these people invested their July funds in securities recommended by us. Many more will invest with us this year. For today caution is as essential as in the past . . . safety as great a factor as ever.

"To July investors we counsel caution, and recommend good, safe bonds as a backlog for every investment program, and Super-Corporations of America Trust Shares, representing ownership in 30 of the strongest corporations in America, to provide a sound, well-diversified common stock program with excellent chances of profit over the long pull."

One of our officers will be glad to help you formulate a definite program for July investment. He will consider your problem individually and confidentially. He will show you our list of unusually attractive securities for investment of July Funds . . . including good, safe bonds priced to yield as high as 6¼%. Either drop in and consult with us or, if you prefer, write for our interesting booklet "How to Invest Money." Specify booklet CT-44.

Top yesterday, $11.60; average, $10.75.

Hogs sold freely at steady to 10c higher prices on the cash trade yesterday. The clearance was the fastest for Monday in some time. Only 4,000 pen holders and cheaper grades remained at the close, the high point of the day.

The extreme top advanced 10c at $9.35, highest since Monday of last week. The general average gained 5c at $8.90. Small packers and shippers bought readily at the upturn and some orders were unfilled at the close.

Larger houses refused to follow at the advance and remained out of the market, but had 20,000 direct from other points. Five western markets expect 62,500 hogs today, against 73,700 the previous Tuesday.

July Heavy Hogs Are $9.25.

Contracts for heavy grades of hogs for July delivery sold at $9.25 on the futures market yesterday. Activity was lacking, in spite of the satisfactory condition of the cash trade yesterday. September mediums sold at $9.20. Light weights for September and August were bid $9.10@9.15, but $9.50 was the lowest offer at the close. December light were offered at $8.60 and bid $8.25. September heavy grades were bid $9.10.

The expected happened in the cattle market yesterday when too many steers were unloaded. Offerings greatly exceeded trade requirements, resulting in a slump that erased all of last week's gains. Hundreds of cattle were in first hands at noon held on unsatisfactory bids, and the carryover at the close was larger than usual.

Prime beeves were scarce, but only steers in a class by themselves sold above $11.50. A load of 1,229 lb averages topped the price list at $12.50. A string of 67 yearlings averaging 1,065 lbs reached $12.00. Cows and heifers were back to last week's opening quotations. Calves were scarce and steady. Stockers and feeders were unchanged.

Lambs Decline Again.

Additional losses of 25@50c were recorded in the market for fat lambs yesterday. Light weights of good quality took the brunt of the price cut, while "throw outs," which suffered most on last week's break, were off the least yesterday.

Top Idaho and native lambs to packers sold at $11.50, while city butchers took a load of the westerns at $11.60. The few yearlings on the market ruled weak to 25c lower. Aged sheep were unchanged. There is very little inquiry for feeders above the $8.00 line lately.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 6,000 cattle, 28,000 hogs and 9,000 sheep, against 4,838 cattle, 31,280 hogs and 9,860 sheep on the previous Tuesday and 6,941 cattle, 29,045 hogs and 11,625 sheep a year ago.

Call $44,654,990 Bonds, Notes for July Payment

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Corporation bonds and notes called for payment in July in advance of maturity totaled $44,654,990, compared with $29,926,070 in June and $56,430,850 in July last year. Of the current total, $40,251,540 was called in entirely and $4,403,450 was called in part, generally to satisfy sinking fund requirements. The combined total of $235,990,810 for the first seven months of this year is the lowest since 1924 and compares with $473,581,660 for the corresponding period last year.

LARD TRADE SMALL

A small trade was on in lard yesterday with near deliveries 2½c higher and December 5c lower. Prices on belly futures were 5c lower on July and unchanged for September. A fair amount of changing from July to September was on in lard.

Hog prices were steady to 10c higher at the close. Receipts were liberal but less than the previous week and last year.

Exports of lard from seaboard for the week were 11,154,000 lbs against 12,061,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 4,473,000 lbs against 5,537,000 lbs last year.

Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d lower the latter on December. Cumberlands and bellies and Wiltshires in Liverpool were lower. Prices follow:

from its low of the year. Westinghouse, ex-dividend $1.25, recovered that at the opening and then lit out for more rarified altitudes. At its closing price of 139 it was up 6¼ points on the day.

Also Run Upward.

General Electric went along with it, showing a 2½ point gain at the finish. American Can skipped 5 points, Radio trailed with a gain of 1⅞, Johns-Manville shipped in with one for 4⅞ and Consolidated Gas bettered its Saturday night rating by 5⅛ points.

Quite a long list of utilities marched in the vanguard, among them American and Foreign Power, American Power and Light, Pacific Lighting, Standard Gas, American Water Works, Brooklyn United Gas and Public Service of New Jersey, up 2 to 5 points.

Even the rails, long the laggards of the list, showed a disposition to do something worthwhile. Atchison showed the way with a runup of 8 points and Erie, New York Central, New Haven, Northern Pacific and various others fell in line with gains of one, two or three points or more. The performance here was all the more remarkable in view of the fact that another batch of disappointing earnings reports had to be faced.

Quiet Week Indicated.

Unless the size of the short account is much larger than is indicated by the situation in the stock loan market it is likely that the balance of the short week will be productive of quiet trading and sporadic movements. Certainly the shortening of the week by the long holiday ahead for the market will be closed Friday and Saturday, can hardly be looked upon as conducive to braodening out of speculative activity in either direction.

And for the present the odds appear to favor the constructive side inasmuch as the general run of stocks have given indication recently of having been pretty well liquidated. It was this change for the better in the technical position of the market, rather than anything in the way of fresh bullish development in the outside situation which paved the way for the continuation of the rally through today's session.

MAY INCOMES OF 73 RAILS SHOW 32.5% DECREASE

New York, June 30.—(AP)—The first 73 railroads reporting May earnings showed net operating income of $60,977,000, a decrease of 32.5 per cent from net operating income of $90,338,000 for May last year. The April net operating income for the same roads was $57,077,000.

May net operating income of reporting railroads today continued to show declines from figures for the corresponding month last year. Included among those reporting were:

On the basis of reports received to date Dow, Jones & Co. estimates that the May net operating income for all roads should approximate $68,500,000, compared with net operating income of $103,616,041 reported in May last year and $62,271,581 reported in April this year.

National Tile.

Will you kindly advise me if you consider National Tile of Anderson, Ind., a good buy at this time?—H. H.

National Tile company was incorporated in Ohio in 1927 as successor to a company carrying on a business established in 1889. At its plant at Anderson, Ind., it manufactures wall and floor tiling which is used in hotels, hospitals, apartments, office buildings, etc.

Earnings last year were slightly above those of the two preceding years. Net income, after all charges, was $465,517, equal to $3.88 per share on 120,000 shares, against $437,299, or $3.64 on a like number of shares in 1928, and $402,422 or $4.47 per share on 90,000 shares in 1927.

At the close of last year current assets were $1,246,047, and current liabilities were $182,252, leaving a net working capital of $1,063,795, against $1,784,212 on Dec. 31, 1928.

The company has only one class of stock and its funded debt was retired in February, 1929.

On May 1, 1930, the dividend rate was cut in two and the present rate is 37½ cents quarterly.

Borg-Warner.

Kindly give me your opinion on the stock of Borg-Warner and tell me in what they deal. I would like to buy some of their stock.—K. N.

Borg-Warner corporation was formed in May, 1928, as a holding company. Through subsidiaries it manufactures automobile clutches, carburetors, universal joints, transmissions, coulter discs for agricultural implements, and special steels. The organization is an important factor in the automobile parts industry.

Net income in 1929 was $6,684,504, which was equal to $5.23 per share on 1,230,595 common shares. Earnings were 27.28 times dividend requirements on the 35,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred [par $100].

Including income of subsidiaries prior to date of acquisition the 1929 earnings would have been equal to $6.03 per share.

Net income in the first quarter of the current year was $1,097,811 against $1,851,993 in the first quarter of 1929.

Dividends on the common are $3 per year. This stock is medium grade and somewhat speculative. The preferred is rather high grade.

United Gas Improvement.

I am thinking of investing in United Gas Improvement company stock. What is your opinion?—H. E.

Will Address Interstate Merchants' Convention

Modern methods of merchandising and how they can be applied by the small town retailer will be explained by D. F. Kelly, president of The Fair, when he addresses the semi-annual gathering of the Interstate Merchants Council, at their opening banquet, August 5, at the Sherman hotel. The I. M. C., an auxiliary of the Chicago Association of Commerce, now numbers approximately 4,000 members in 43 states and Canada. Three thousand of the merchants are expected to attend the gathering here during the week of August 4.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Stone & Webster.

Bankers responsible for Stone & Webster, in pointing out the constructive features of this stock to their clients, stressed the fact that the yield around current levels is 5 per cent or better, and that since aquisition of more than 90 per cent of Engineers Public Service, earnings of the company are derived approximately 50 per cent from public utility subsidiaries. The balance comes from the corporation's other activities, including construction and engineering, which is running at record levels, investment banking, operation of properties and specialized investment field.

Electric Bond and Share Buys.

Electric Bond and Share interests were buyers of utility stocks yesterday, according to reports from the floor of the New York exchange. Stocks which reflected this demand included National Power and Light, American and Foreign Power, and Electric Power and Light. Professional short covering was a natural sequence to this development.

Return on Northern Pacific.

Northern Pacific is a good example of expanding rail returns. At the close on Saturday of 72 this stock was yielding within a decimal point of 7 per cent. No one questions the safety of the $5 dividend rate now being paid. In view of the company's record for the last twenty years, no one should. It has distributed $5 annually to stockholders from 1923 to the present time.

Earnings Per Share

A dollar's difference in earnings per share means much in the market value of a stock. Yet such error lies hidden in many an earning statement, because property—its depreciation and its maintenance have not been properly accounted for. American Appraisal Service is the means of getting the facts, controlling the property accounts, rectifying earnings.

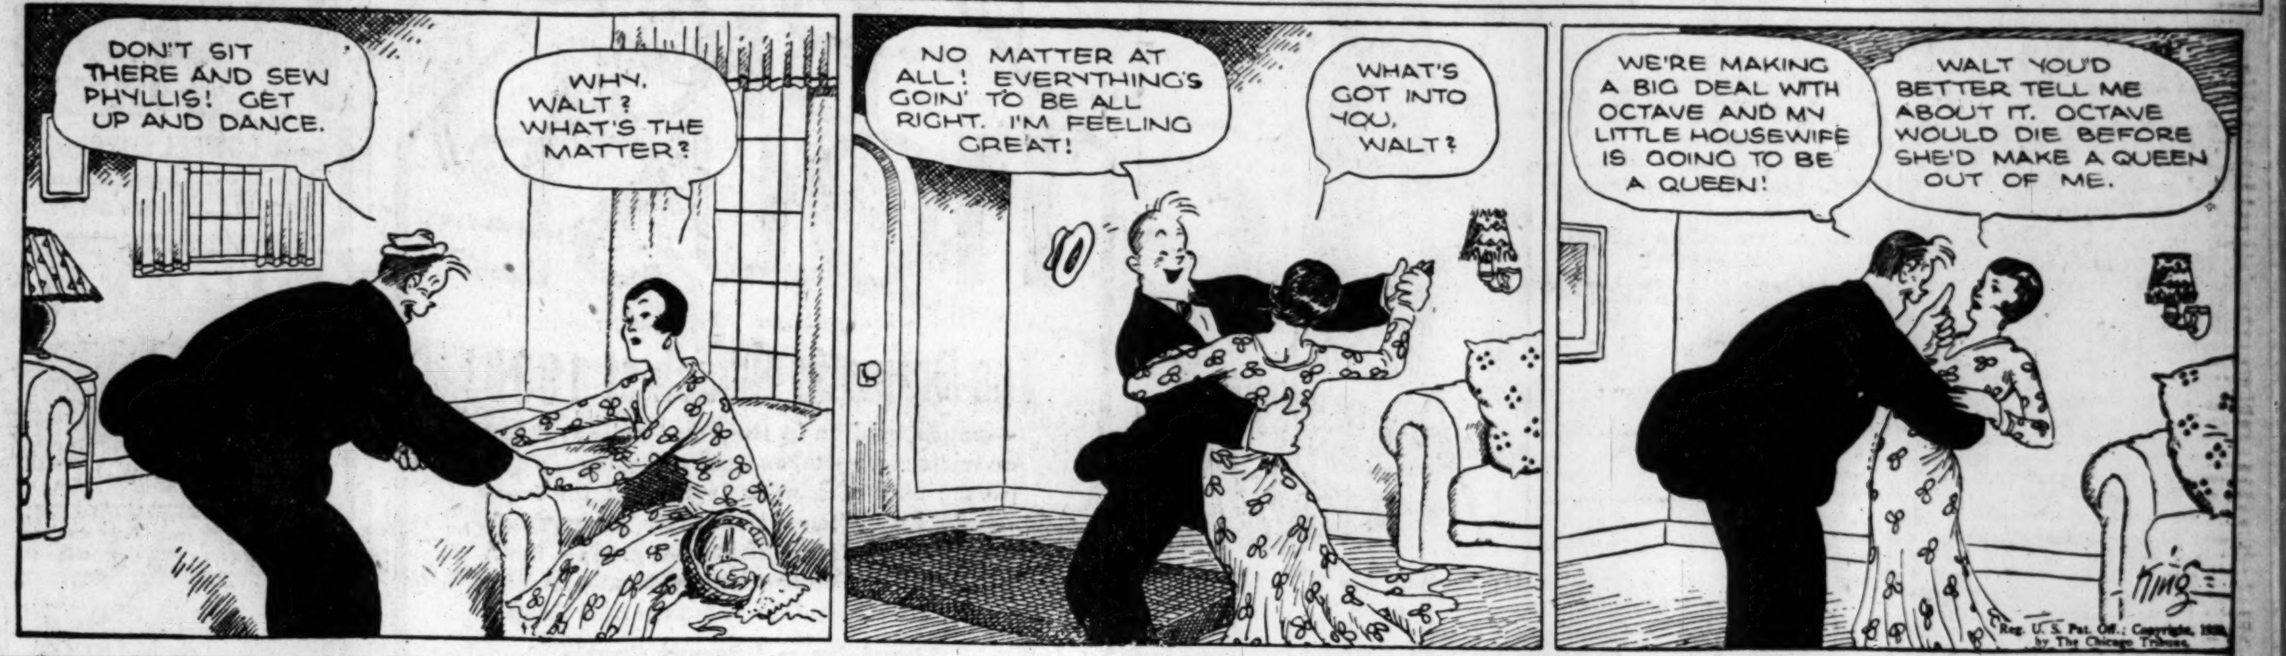
GASOLINE ALLEY—DANCE, DANCE, DANCE



SPIDER WEB

By ALICE CAMPBELL

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is apprehensive about the coming visit, because she had received, just before sailing, a letter from Hermoine Cushing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs. He had heard that she was ill.

Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, Catherine is treated coldly by the servants. Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine, who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliner, where she sees a man she has noticed hanging around the Bender apartment. Back in the apartment, she finds the gallery open for the first time and discovers a number of pictures and tapestries missing. Jeanne says they were sold shortly before Mr. Bender's death. Catherine feels she is lying. She finds Jeanne is exerting a baneful influence on Mme. Bender.

Geoffrey again takes Catherine out to dinner and she unburdens herself to him. He has already put an investigator on the case. He asks her to marry him, but she wants time to be certain of her feelings. Catherine goes to visit Geoffrey's sister.

Geoffrey discovers Blom, the mysterious person seen around the Bender apartment, is seeking a possible heir to the Bender fortune. Shortly after this discovery, Blom's engagement to Mme. Baron, Miss Cushing's milliner, a widow whose maiden name is the family name of Mme. Bender, is announced.

A fire breaks out in Mme. Bender's apartment early in the morning and she is burned to death. Most of the building is saved. Catherine had returned suddenly to Paris the night before. The servants deny to Geoffrey that she came to the apartment. Geoffrey follows Eduardo, the butler, to Blom's office. He sends for his investigator to watch the pair, then calls on the commissariat de police, who assigns Inspector Bazin to the case.

Catherine did return to Mme. Bender's apartment. Before retiring she smells smoke and finds it is coming from her cousin's room. The door is locked. She dashes to get the keys and arouse Jeanne, who fights with her to prevent her from opening madam's door. She sees the butler, carrying a heavy candlestick—and then a crashing blow on her skull robs her of consciousness.

Geoffrey receives a telegram signed by Catherine, stating she was well and would telephone him on the morrow. After the first shock of joy he becomes doubtful about the message. He meets the inspector to watch, from a room across the street, the Bender apartment building.

On regaining consciousness Catherine finds herself in a strange bedroom, securely bound. After darkness Jeanne and Eduardo enter, release her, and take her out to a waiting car where Blom joins them.

Becoming restless, Geoffrey goes out and meets Bernard, his investigator, who has seen Eduardo with two women entering the car. They set out in pursuit with the inspector in his car.

INSTALLMENT LXXX.

THROWN OFF THE TRACK.

The pursuers exchanged blank looks. Somehow they had gone astray. The thought came to them that the car must have taken a side turning the other side of St. Germain, in which case it was now miles away in another direction.

"Yet this is the direct route," muttered Bazin obstinately. "Unless I am totally misled, this is the road they would have taken."

With a hopeless feeling they prowled along the quiet streets of the town until they came to the outskirts, where they met face to face a belated market wagon wending its way towards Paris with a load of vegetables for the Halle. The driver dozed in his seat, but the woman beside him, brawny and moustachioed, stared hard at them from beneath a battered hat.

Had she seen the car in question? She surveyed them coolly and spat into the dust. Yes—diable!—they had just encountered a car like that, scarcely half a kilometer back, going towards Aubergenville. The chauffeur had taken the middle of the road, pig that he was, and had nearly run over them.

Before she had stopped speaking the commissariat car had leaped ahead in the direction of Aubergenville. Again the faint glimmer of hope—yet Geoffrey was far from being convinced that their course was the right one. Somehow, he feared that the scoundrels had made off at a tangent, and that they were now trailing some other one altogether. However, the inspector seemed satisfied.

"Listen, monsieur," he said, without removing his eyes from the road in front. "From Aubergenville there is a lonely stretch leading directly to the Seine. It is the first suitable spot this side of Paris, and I would have gone straight for it if that sergeant had not confused me. I believe that our friends skirted St. Germain for fear of being identified later on. If, as I think, they are nearing their goal, they do not want to take chances, but their little detour may have lost time for them. If that is the case, we may catch sight of them at any moment."

Three kilometers farther along Godffrey gave a sudden shout. Far ahead a tail light was just visible, moving at high speed. Occasionally it vanished at a dip of a hill, only to reappear upon the approaching brow. Like this, always the same distance in the rear, they went on for some minutes, Geoffrey upon the edge of the seat, his eyes straining to keep in view the faint point of light.

They were going at a terrific rate now, and presently their efforts were rewarded by seeing a quarter of a mile in advance the dark shape of a car emerge from the surrounding shadow. A cry of triumph burst from three pairs of lips.

"Shall we overtake them?"

"That will depend on whether or not they suspect we are following them. Still they must slacken when they come to the town."

A few straggling lights now appeared, marking the limits of Aubergenville. At the same moment they realized that the distance between the two cars was gradually diminishing. At last in a brilliant patch of moonlight they could plainly make out the swiftly moving black body.

A few seconds of supreme tension, then, to Geoffrey's dismay, the car ahead, instead of slowing as they expected, put on a sudden spurt, and in another instant had completely disappeared.

"What does it mean? They have seen us?"

"I am afraid so. It looks as though they were trying to give us the slip."

One minute more brought them to the center of the small town, but although they had not wasted any time the black car was nowhere to be seen. The empty market place showed not a sign of life as they purred along its cobbled stones, the darkened buildings offered no assistance.

At last they came upon a solitary sergeant de ville. To him Bazin shouted the inevitable query, to be rewarded by the information that the car had passed only a few moments ago, stopping long enough for the driver to inquire the road to Poissy.

"Poissy!"

The inspector's tone was furiously amazed, while his two companions reflected his sentiments. Were their conclusions entirely wrong?

"You are sure it was Poissy he asked for?"

"But absolutely, M. l'Inspecteur. I showed them which turning to take—the second along there——" and he pointed ahead. "They set off at once in that direction, and must be well on their way by now."

There was nothing for it but to press on towards the turning indicated and trust to increased speed to bring them once more within sight of their prey. Soon they were shooting along the highway headed for Poissy, maddened by the minutes lost in the town.

"It's odd, that," fumed the inspector, watching the road between narrowed lids. "If they really mean to make for Poissy they have something different in mind from what I thought. I half believe they are playing a trick upon us, that they suspect we are after them and want to throw dust in our eyes. . . . Here! What is this, ahead of us? Do you see those tire tracks just in front?"

He had jammed on his brakes so suddenly that the other two were thrown out of their seats. In answer to this question Geoffrey sprang out and examined the roadway immediately before them. The fine white dust revealed an imprint of wide tires curving first to the extreme right, then making a horseshoe bend till finally they went off, twin streaks, in the direction from which they had come.

"My God, you've hit it! These are recent tracks. They've doubled on their traces and gone back. We must have missed them by about a couple of minutes."

In a trice they had repeated the maneuver of the other car and were facing back towards the town.

"What a chance!" murmured Bazin excitedly, as Geoffrey flung himself back beside him. "If I had not suspected that ruse we should have gone on without noticing. We shall have to look sharp now if we are to catch them. I could take a right hand turning I know of and attempt to cut them off, but at this stage I dare not risk it. The river lies just down there, only a short distance——" and he nodded his head towards the declining ground. "Another moment and we come to the lonely road I spoke of."

Already the car was rushing ahead like a rocket. If a tire should go now—but no, one must not think of accidents. Every second brought them closer to the Seine, flowing silent at the bottom of the slope, far removed from habitation. Perhaps already the limousine had reached it by some adjacent route. Certainly at this speed it seemed incredible not to overtake the car, if it had indeed come this way.

They dashed through the heart of a wooded expanse, out again into the open, then back into the shadow of a group of pine trees. Still no lights. Now in the distance appeared the thin line of poplars bordering the river. Three seconds more and they would be in sight of the banks. A horrible conviction assailed Geoffrey. They were too late. That parley in the streets of Aubergenville, brief though it had been, had dashed their hopes. By now the villains were probably homeward bound, one passenger less. . . .

"Look out! My God, don't you——"

Good morning!

The background of glorious scenery against which the action is flung spells the greatest charm of "The Border Legion." It is magnificent and has been magnificently photographed.

This picture is an adaptation of a Zane Grey novel and is, of course, a "western." The story concerns the doings of strong men who were not particularly true, along around the time of the civil war, after which an outcast here and an outlaw there drifted west, fulfilled the "bird of a feather" proverb, and spent their days and nights galloping over the countryside on predatory aim intent. The sinister band was known as "The Border Legion." They stole cattle, robbed stage coaches, and otherwise made feared pests of themselves.

Jack Holt as Jacko Kells, once an army officer, is their leader. Kells hasn't much conscience save when it comes to killing—he doesn't like to do that unless necessity demands—but he has a heart, and he is not without honor—as you learn before the picture ends. He makes the character he portrays real and likable. Eugene Pallette as "Bunco" Davis, a fat and jolly desperado, is amusing. Stanley Fields plays a tough baby as if he lived on a diet of bowie knives. Richard Arlen as Jim Cleve, a nice, wronged young man who joins the gang for reasons the picture shall show you, does some pleasing acting, and Fay Wray is charming as a beleaguered heroine.

Hard men, hard riding, hard liquor, "atmosphere," and plenty of action that has been well directed has "The Border Legion." This, plus the scenery and photography already mentioned, make a "western" that is well worth the price of admission.

"A NOTORIOUS AFFAIR."

Produced by First National.
Directed by Lloyd Bacon.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.

THE CAST.

Patricia Hanley Gherardi	Billie Dove
Paul Gherardi	Basil Rathbone
The Countess Balokress	Fay Francis
Sir Thomas Hanley	Montague Love
Dr. Allen Pomeroy	Kenneth Thompson

Every so often the story of the temperamental genius with the beautiful wife who understands him even unto his affairs with another woman, skips up alongside us and turns somersaults to attract attention. "A Notorous Affair" is this story—dressed differently than it was—in "Fashions in Love" for example.

The "notorious affair" is that which crops up between a married violinist and a man eating countess who is somewhat of a scavenger—for when the appetite for conquest is on her, a handsome stable hand suffices quite as well as a baronet, and kennel master and violinist are all brothers under the skin to her, providing the skin is comely. Kay Francis, as the countess is a striking photographic study, but I should think she would have loathed the rôle.

Basil Rathbone gives a smoothly veneered characterization of the naughty-bad genius—whom God punishes very hard with temporary paralysis, which knocks some sense into his head. Billie Dove is a charming looking, charming acting person as the wife, and Kenneth Thompson gets by as a physician who wishes he was married to Mrs. Gherardi, but isn't, and doesn't do anything he shouldn't do about the matter.

The picture is nicely staged and quite as well directed as it needs to be. Some of the dialogue is entertaining.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

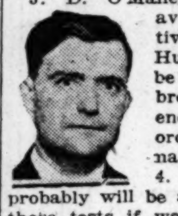
The Answers.

Miss Ethel Exline, 976 First National Bank building, insurance solicitor—They surely deserve very great honor. Their names should go in the hall of fame and a distinguished service medal should be given to them by the U. S. government.

Norman Seigel, Hotel Sherman, promotional director for 1930 national air races—The Hunter brothers are deserving of all the honors the city of Chicago can heap on them. I hope they will reach their July 4 goal, establishing a record that will remain for a long time.

Miss Edith Nelson, Parklane hotel, secretary—I think Chicago should honor the Hunter brothers by naming the proposed flying field in Grant park after them, then make them guests of the city at the national air races in August.



J. D. O'Malley, 6120 Greenwood avenue, house detective—I believe the Hunter brothers should be awarded a medal for breaking the world's endurance flight record. I hope they will make their goal of July 4. The aviation world probably will be able to make use of these tests if we ever have another war.

Miss Lillian Funk, 1755 East Sixty-seventh street, secretary—The Hunters deserve a lot of credit for their perseverance. No mere medal or statue could repay them for the good they have accomplished for Chicago. Anything the city can do to honor them should be done.

Asks Teachers to Make Pupils World Minded

Viennese Talks During U. S. Educators' Session.

Columbus, O., June 30.—(AP)—The program of the National Education association to break down the barriers that have separated one nation's child from those of another was outlined by speakers before the 68th annual convention today.

Children in the pre-school age will receive more education from their parents.

When the children take up the study of history, geography, science, and kindred subjects they will be taught to get away from national prejudice, if the association can put into effect the suggestions made today by Paul Dengler, director of the Austro-American Institute of Education at Vienna.

Dr. Jessie Carters of Ohio State university, suggested that the forces of education deal with the preparation of young boys and girls for marriage.

E. Ruth Pyrtle of Lincoln, Neb., president of the association revealed today that organization hopes to induce every one over 25 to use his leisure time for study.

Director Dengle told the teacher delegates that the inventions which have brought one continent nearer another have faced mankind with an entirely new situation. People everywhere are thinking internationally, he said, but there still exists, especially in Europe, a strong feeling of nationalism, which makes one people suspicious of another. He assigned to the American schools the task of breaking down national walls by teaching the children to be what he termed "supernational."

"Not at the expense of patriotism," he said, "for national pride must exist."

There are three candidates in the field for president of the N. E. A. They are: Dr. John W. Abercrombie of Montgomery, assistant superintendent of education in Alabama; Willis A. Sutton, Atlanta, Ga.; and Joseph Rosier, Fairmont, W. Va.

Four new members were elected to the national council of education today, and four officials were reëlected. The new members are: Dr. J. Wright, director of federal vocational education, Washington, D. C.; Bess B. Goodrich, assistant superintendent of schools, Des Moines, Ia.; Dr. E. P. Cubberly, a professor at Leland Stanford university, Cal.; and Dr. Frank N. Freeman of the University of Chicago. They will fill vacancies caused by death during the last year.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

'LA RONDINE' ACQUIRES PRAISE AS PUCCINI'S MUSIC AT ITS BEST

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Few, altogether too few, operas of any school carry the tonnage of charm that is packed into the three acts of Puccini's "La Rondine," last night's attraction at Ravinia. Dramatically an amalgam of "La Traviata" and "Sapho," it has in its music more persuasive sparkle than the two put together. Lest this should seem condemnation with faint praise, be it added that it is Puccini in his highest spirits and at his most melodious. That is not faint praise at all.

And the cast of the Ravinians would have gladdened the heart of Puccini himself could he have been present, as it gladdened the hearts of all of us who were present. Lucrezia Bori and Edward Johnson, two golden throats in straight if comparatively light rôles, Florence Macbeth and Armand Tokatyan, more gold, plus considerable deft and expert comedy, were the quartet who soared on wings of song and caused the audience to rejoice that such a swallow and such attendants should have made an extra chapter of musical natural history.

The quartet should really be a sextet, for Ruth Page and Blake Scott were there. Silent, it is true, but in an eloquent and equally soaring dance, to add to the light hearted gayety of the evening.

There was only one possible objection that could have been raised, and that was the annoying manner in which the whole cast, from principals to choristers, flaunted non-Volsteadian refreshments in the faces of the audience, even though the non-Volsteadianism was of the stage, or simulated, variety. But presumably such forceful measures were necessary to accent and give point to the color and swirl and second empire fluffiness of the piece.

Yankee Writer, Back from Doorn, Sorry He Denounced Kaiser

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Poultney Bigelow returned on the Atlantic transport liner Minnewaska today from his pilgrimage of atonement to Doorn, Holland, feeling a great deal easier in his mind over having made amends to former Kaiser Wilhelm for having pinned the guilt of the world war on the ex-emperor and calling him names in his writings and lectures.

Mr. Bigelow and the ex-kaiser "talked the left hind leg off a mule" for three days and nights, the former told reporters, and he came away more certain than ever that Wilhelm was a fine man and one of Germany's greatest rulers. Incidentally Mr. Bigelow hinted that he had scored a victory over Wilhelm in a wood splitting contest on the ex-kaiser's home grounds.

Mr. Bigelow referred to some of the harsh names he had applied during the war hysteria to his long time friend, charging him with being responsible for the greatest war of all time.

"I was hot against the kaiser then," he explained, "and I also was hot against President Wilson for not getting into the war against Germany. But I have read a lot of history and have come to the conclusion that one cannot with certainty point out the guilty parties in any war. There is so much to be said on each side.

"The kaiser looked very well and is not bitter over the turn his affairs have taken. He is a philosopher and accepts his situation calmly. He lives frugally and helps support nineteen impoverished royal families."

Mr. Bigelow said he has no intention of doing any further writing "at his age," which is close to 75. Mrs. Bigelow accompanied him.

French Observe Week in Honor of Western World

PARIS, June 30.—(AP)—Paris today began observance of "American Nations Week" in promotion of better understanding between France and the 22 American nations. Bunting and flags were strung up all over the city for each of the nations in honor of the event.

The observance is an annual institution. This year's program includes services for the war dead at the Cathedral of Notre Dame and at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. One hundred and fifty delegates here from all the nations will be received officially today by the "French-America committee" at the American Nations house.

Tonight President Doumergue will give a dinner to the American ambassadors and ministers.

Stanley Field's Son, Joseph, Weds Secretly

Bride Welcomed; Father Is Millwright.

A secret marriage, contracted a month ago by Joseph Field, 19 year old son of Stanley Field, president of the Field museum, was disclosed yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Field made formal announcement of the wedding, which occurred in Philadelphia on May 31. The bridegroom is a grandnephew of the late Marshall Field.

The bride is Frances Batty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Batty of Waverly, Ill., a town of 1,500 population, twenty-five miles southeast of Springfield. Mr. Batty ran a grocery until a few years ago. Then he embarked in business as a millwright. Frances once worked as a newspaper reporter in St. Louis and Kansas City. She came to Chicago, but her father's recollection is that she was unable to land a job here.

The first intimation Mr. and Mrs. Field had of the marriage was on Sunday evening. Joseph and his wife appeared at the parental estate in Moffett road, Lake Bluff, Joseph announcing, "This is my wife."

They had met, Mr. Field said, while his son was on an eight months' trip around the world, from which he returned in April. Frances was traveling alone. Joseph said nothing about his new acquaintance, who was then living at 124 West 57th street, New York City, and she did not notify her parents of the engagement or wedding.

"They're just a young couple and I don't want them bothered," Mr. Field declared when a reporter asked to interview them. He added that Frances, he thought, was "21 or 22 years old."

"What will Joseph do now?" a reporter queried.

"I don't know," Mr. Field replied, "but he'll be a worker. All the Fields are workers."

"And is everybody happy?" was the next question.

"Yes," Mr. Field said.

Joseph had been taking private tutoring in preparation for entering Harvard next fall, but "I guess his college career is ended now," Mr. Field remarked.

Mr. Batty, reached by long distance telephone, was pleasantly surprised when informed of the marriage, of the social and financial status of his son-in-law.

"That sure sounds pretty good," were his words.

Frances had written them only last week from New York City, but hadn't mentioned anything about it. Mr. Batty chuckled, and remarked, "I guess $20,000 would cover all I'm worth." Frances is 32 years old, he said, the older of two daughters. The other, Dorothy, is 26.

Frances left home some ten years ago, equipped with a grammar and high school education, to make a career for herself, he explained. She always was ambitious. After trying newspaper work for a while, she settled in New York City to specialize as a connoisseur in paintings. She traveled to Europe periodically to buy old pictures. It was undoubtedly on one of these trips, Mr. Batty thought, that she met Joseph.

Japan Guides Corean Farmer on New Paths

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUIGEN, Chosen [Corea], June 30.—Outside of Chosen one seldom hears of the town of Suigen, though 80 per cent of the people of Chosen depend directly on agriculture for their livelihood—and the agriculture of the nation is directed from the model farm at Suigen.

Scientists there since Japan annexed Corea, Aug. 29, 1910, have been influential in the five-fold increases of the farm produce of Corea.

All of the commercial fertilizer imported from abroad must pass the tests at the Suigen experimental station. The old native rice, upon which the people here lived for centuries, has become extinct in two decades, replaced with hardier Japanese varieties recommended at Suigen.

No one now can raise silk worms without getting hybrid eggs from Suigen, and if any one in Chosen is interested in raising fruit, cotton, bees, barley, poultry, sugar beets, cattle, or anything else, he is ruled by the decisions of that model farm.

At present the government has undertaken a vast 12 year program for increasing the rice yield of Chosen from about 25 million bushels annually to a minimum of 40 million bushels. Rice is the basic crop of this country and already production has been brought to the point at which the yield not only satisfies all the food requirements of the nation, but provides a surplus for export valued at 100 million dollars annually.

Japan now buys this entire surplus to be consumed by her own ever increasing population, which also is ready to purchase the anticipated yield of the new rice growing program.

A College of Agriculture and Forestry is also established at Suigen and is headed by Dr. S. Kato, who also directs the experiment station. Three year courses, to prepare students for careers as agricultural teachers and government inspectors, are given at this college. The applicants far exceed the facilities available.

Silk worm culture is taught to 40 Corean farm girls, chosen by their provincial governors and given scholarships which cover practically all of their expenses. The students also are taught how to cultivate the mulberry plants, which supply the food for the silk worms, and how to reel the fiber for marketing. These students later are expected to teach their neighbors.

Society Views Horse Racing at Arlington

BY THALIA

Members and their guests lunched in the beflowered dining rooms of the clubhouse, and afterwards watched the races from the veranda and balcony. Bright hued umbrellas and potted plants enlivened the setting.

Laurance H. Armour, new president of the club succeeding Paul E. Gardner, gave one of the largest luncheons, with members of the board of directors as his guests. As Mrs. Armour is in mourning, the host's sister-in-law, Mrs. Lester Armour, presided as hostess. The Chauncey McCormicks, Miss Helen Hertz, and the Albert D. Laskers were other luncheon hosts. The Robert J. Thornes and their four daughters, Mrs. G. Corson Ellis, Mrs. George Gillespie, Miss Laura, and Miss Narcissa Thorne, made up an attractive family party. The Silas H. Strawns had with them their daughters, Mrs. James A. Cathcart and Mrs. Wesley Dixon, besides Mrs. T. Philip Swift and Mrs. Pickett Withers. Mrs. Strawn wore a figured chiffon frock and a large transparent black hat, Mrs. Cathcart a rose and white print, and Mrs. Dixon a burgundy figured crêpe.

Mrs. Chauncey McCormick's red and white crêpe suit and bright red hat made a pleasant picture. Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson's costume, both dress and turban, were of chianti red wool crêpe. Mrs. John A. Stevenson in a brown figured print and small brown hat. Mrs. Howard Linn wore a smart black ensemble, Mrs. Charles Glore green, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm navy blue and white, Mrs. Lawrence Whiting a light blue boucle suit and brown horsehair hat. Mrs. John Hertz in a dotted navy georgette dress and navy hat also was among the women glimpsed during the afternoon on the lawn of the clubhouse.

Mrs. John Wentworth had luncheon with her father, George Brown of Baltimore, who is one of the stewards of the track, and James Simpson Jr.

Mrs. W. David Owen, just returned from a trip to Europe, was a box hostess to her new sister-in-law, Mrs. Franklin Owen, and Mrs. Edwin E. Tullis. The Edward N. Hurleys had with them their daughter, Miss Helen Hurley, and the George E. Van Hagens were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Thomas Belknap, and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. George E. Van Hagen Jr. Benjamin Marshall, who architected the attractive Post and Paddock club, was out for the opening with Mrs. Marshall and their daughter, Dorothy.

Others present included Mrs. Farwell Winston, Wolcott Blair, Col. and Mrs. N. B. Hackett, Mrs. Alden B. Swift, Mrs. David Peck, Mrs. Morrow Krum, Mrs. Howard Peabody, the Alfred Ettlingers, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Thompson Jr., and the Harry L. Thomases.

Our weekly bulletin on Chicagoans in the east, including the Berkshires, reports that the James Munroe Walkers of Dedham who have been visiting Mr. Walker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Ransom Walker at Fair Acres, in Stockbridge have left to motor to Chicago. Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury has gone to Rumford, Me., for a visit with her brother, Wilbur W. Kimball, and Mrs. Kimball. Mrs. Kimball Salisbury has gone down to Cape Cod for a week's visit.

Mrs. Zenas Crane of Dalton is visiting Mrs. John H. Hamline in Lake Forest, and her granddaughter, Miss Priscilla Colt, is sailing on July 15 for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Maurice Hastings (Rosemary Crane) near Oxford, England.

Mrs. Randolph Owsley has left Great Barrington after a stay with her brother and sister-in-law, the Delano de Windts, and Frederick H. Rawson Jr. is at the Harrod inn in Stockbridge for two months. Mrs. Willard W. Jaques, Miss Alice Jaques, and Willard W. Jr. have arrived at the Hotel Aspinwall in Lenox, and the George Higginsons, Miss Kate Buckingham, the Walkers, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Metz are to attend the performances of the Berkshire playhouse in Stockbridge.

Thrills, Laughs Feature Byrd Expedition Film

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The more I hear about the picture now being shown at the Roosevelt theater the more convinced am I that "With Byrd at the South Pole" is as thrilling a picture as ever has been filmed. And to think that every bit of it actually happened! It is the authentic record of two years of exploration. This picture, boys and girls, it will be our good fortune to see and hear at our second party of the season, on July 10, a week from next Thursday.

You will be invited to this party, too, if you will write me a letter that plainly shows you'd like this marvelous picture, which is a succession of thrills, excitement, romance, pathos, and comedy. It shouldn't be difficult to write such a letter, either, for the picture is full of points of interest, any one of which is excellent material for a winning letter, a good reason for your wanting to be invited.

Do you know that Commander Richard E. Byrd and his party lived for months on an enormous cake of ice, miles long and wide, situated in the Bay of Whales? It was on this ice barrier that they established their base and it was from this point that Byrd, with a few companions, took off for his flight over the South Pole.

Let me tell you about a few of the shots that will thrill you to death, or bring a lump to your throat, or fill you with laughter:

The solemn penguins, with their peculiar, almost human walk. The men capture one of these silly birds and dress it up in a wing collar and bow tie. . . . Commander Byrd's dog, Igloo, arrayed in overcoat and boots to protect him from the ravages of 70 below zero weather. . . . The long awaited arrival of the relief ship, which finally appears through the snow and mist of a raging blizzard. Covered with tons of ice collected on the fearful voyage, it closely resembles the phantom ship of the "Ancient Mariner." . . . The actual flight over the South Pole, when you can look down through the trap door in the floor of the plane and see, thousands of feet belaw, the old South Pole itself and the very bottom of the world.

Aren't you eager and curious to be witnessing this marvelous expedition which will go down in history as one of the most daring and important feats ever accomplished? Of course you are, so you'd better be getting to work on that winning letter, which must reach me no later than Thursday morning. Please do not ask for an invitation for your younger brother or sister or for the friend you want to accompany you to the party. Each child must write his or her own letter. Also, be sure to give your name, address, and age, and mail your letter to Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

These Broad Minded Husbands Are Often Simply Indifferent

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"My husband," "Love-Starved" writes, "is ten years older than I and he is a stick-in-the-mud. I like life. So he urges me to find a few nice young men who will take me to places I want to go.

"He works late into the evening and we have quite a little family. What is your opinion of that? I'm going to take his dare, one of these days."

We could tell you a story about one of those generous husbands who encouraged his youthful mate to gather round her the village beaus for theater and dancing dates so that he could get in his twelve hours' sleep. The story ended recently before the judge. AND it isn't the wife, either, about whom rumors of an early marriage are being circulated, at the moment. It is the husband who is looking to matrimony at an early date—and with a young woman but a couple of years his wife's senior.

Rumor hath it, also, that she likes life and the former house-bound gentleman is stepping lively to the latest one's music. All of which may prove nothing, or that you cannot always afford to take a husband at his own words. Or, maybe, again, it proves what some one wisecracked recently that "the broadminded mate is an indifferent mate."

In marriage it is necessary to a gay communion of spirits that pleasures be taken together as well as the sorrows, the rent and grocery and doctor bills, or whatever other visitations suffered. Some unusually well balanced souls may survive the trial of separate diversions. But with the common run, the good times as well as the bad and the monotonous must be shared or people automatically grow apart.

Men who present their wives with latchkeys possibly are not up on this particular phase of marriage psychology. They should be. Not that we think no wife and no husband should go out unattended—by the legal mate, but the wide open gesture of "go ahead and have your good time without me" is wherein mischief is loosed.

It would be a handsome gesture if human nature were different. But such is its vagaries that even the most broadminded get attacks of jealousy and hurt pride, and all that sort of thing. If a word of gossip reaches the husband about the one he has given the keys of the city to, his first unreasonable [but human] reaction is to berate the lady for her looseness.

Food Talk.

Little sandwiches, big ones, thin ones, fat ones, open ones, closed ones and so we can go on naming dozens of kinds. But all of them require certain definite characteristics. They must be attractive in appearance, pleasingly presented and when eaten give that "satisfied feeling."

Many people have the idea that only white bread should be used for making sandwiches. Whole grain breads not only add to the appearance but also introduce added food values in the form of vitamins and minerals. Fancy breads such as chocolate, orange, or cheese bread give that pleasant touch of surprise to the unusual sandwich.

The best of butter or butter substitute should be used to spread the bread for sandwiches. This is one place that we cannot economize, for the particular delicate flavor of good butter is a necessary adjunct of the sandwich. Also, the butter should be well creamed so that it can be easily spread. Using a wooden spoon and proceeding as for cake is an excellent method.

The filling must always be spread over the entire surface of the bread. It is disappointing when eating a sandwich to find the outer edge is only bread and butter when you have expected to taste the filling too.

Sandwiches do not have to be served as they are made. As the occasion demands one can quarter them, make triangles or fingers or simply remove the crust. But we must always remember to serve a finger sandwich at a luncheon and not at a picnic, and not to serve a hearty sandwich at a tea.

When sandwiches are kept they dry out. Unless they are served immediately we must care for them properly. Wrap them in waxed paper, place in a vessel deep enough to hold them all, and cover carefully with a damp cloth. This keeps the bread soft and preserves the original appearance of the sandwich.

Following Recipes Are Included in Tomorrow's Menus

2 cups white sauce.

Wash fish. Sprinkle slices with salt and let stand several hours. Cook in boiling water to which a few slices of onion, celery, and carrot have been added. Simmer until the flesh is tender. Remove from fire. The stock may be strained and used for white sauce in place of the milk. Separate the fish into small pieces. Place fish in buttered casserole or baking dish. Cover with sauce. Add salt and pepper to taste. Mix bread crumbs with butter and cheese and cover fish. Bake in a moderate oven [350°] until crumbs are brown and cheese melts.

Yield: Six servings. One serving: Total, 340 calories; protein, 100 calories; fat, 195 calories; carbohydrates, 45 calories.

Precautions: In the preparation of delicate fish such as halibut, care must be taken not to overcook. Cook until fish is just tender enough to break apart. It is impossible to give the time required for boiling since this depends upon the thickness of the slice. Therefore, one must watch and test for tenderness every few minutes.

Another thing to watch in the preparation of this fish is the browning of the crumbs and cheese. If you haven't an oven regulator or an oven thermometer, be sure that your oven is just about what you use for the successful baking of butter cake. If the oven is too hot or if the baking is prolonged you will have a tough, gummy mass on top.

Lettuce.

Select firm, good sized tomatoes. Scald, peel and then chill. Cut a slice from the top of each. Scrape out the inside, taking care not to break the sides. Dice celery and mix with mayonnaise. Fill the tomato shell with the mixture. Place the tomato on a nest of lettuce leaves on individual plates. A spoonful of mayonnaise may be put on top of the tomato.

Yield: Six servings. One serving: Total, 174 calories; protein, 3 calories; fat, 129 calories; carbohydrates, 4[illegible] calories.

For Years Battled Makers of Adulterations.

Washington, D. C., June 30.—(AP)—The long and turbulent campaign of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, noted pure food specialist, to protect the public against adulterated food and drugs was ended today by death.

The 86 year old scientist died this morning after he had been virtually an invalid for eight months from heart disease. The funeral will be held Wednesday.

Dr. Wiley began a life long crusade against adulterated food and drugs in 1883 when he became chief chemist of the department of agriculture. He led the fight which resulted in enactment of the pure food and drug laws and kept a watchful eye on their administration almost until the end.

Center of Battles.

It was a 30 years war into which he led the agriculture department and he was a principal in many a bitter battle over pure foods and drugs. In 1912 a special board recommended that he be "permitted to resign." Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and Attorney General Wickersham approved the report, but President Taft sustained Dr. Wiley and praised his work.

Thus vindicated, the chemist resigned from the department of agriculture and turned to the more peaceful occupation of contributing editor to a national magazine, writing articles dealing with food problems for the home. He resigned this position last January because of failing health.

Last Appearance as Witness.

Although greatly enfeebled, Dr. Wiley early this month testified before a senate agriculture subcommittee on pure food and drugs. The next day he attended a directors' meeting of a local bank, but had been bedridden since.

After giving his views to the senate committee Dr. Wiley decided the opinions he expressed had not been applicable to the inquiry in progress. But he was unable to leave his sick bed again, so he wrote Senator McNary, the chairman, that he had testified "under a misapprehension."

"I am a very ill man at the present time," the aged scientist wrote, "and I cannot prepare what I wanted to say, even if it were in order for me to do so."

Last week Mrs. Wiley made the letter public. She appeared in the investigation, saying her husband—so widely known in his prime as a vigorous man—had been too ill in the weeks immediately past for her to repeat the progress of the committee's work.

Dr. Wiley is survived by his widow and two sons, John Preston and Harvey W. Jr.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Worthwhile Work

WARNS RURAL AMERICA ROCKS SHIP OF STATE

Country Fights City, Says Glenn Frank.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 30.—[Special.]—In a speech in which he declared that the slowness of rural Americans in adjusting themselves to changes was wracking the two political parties to pieces and almost bringing the United States government to a standstill, Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, told the 14th annual convention of Kiwanis International in the Municipal auditorium today, that the agricultural part of America must organize as the rest of America had organized or be lost in the shuffle.

Pleads for World Unity.

"We want unity in the world," Dr. Frank declared. "It is impossible for individuals, communities, states, and nations to enjoy a permanently and progressively great existence unless the world that holds them achieves a good measure of unity of aim and activity."

"The fact is that the United States are not united. There are two Americas within our borders—an America that takes its cue from the city and an America that takes its cue from the country. And the America that takes its cue from the city has consistently gained ground on the America that takes its cue from the country.

"The man of the boulevard and the man of the furrow are fighting for control of the American future. The trail of these antagonistic Americas can be followed in the national assembles of our churches, where liberalism fights literalism, and in the national conventions of our political parties, where, by and large, city men stick with city men and country men stick with country men, despite the powerful pressure for party regularity.

Conflict in Politics.

"The conflict between rural America and urban America has up to date expressed itself politically in such issues as prohibition, religious regularity, racialism, and the like, with sporadic forays into the field of farm relief."

"By and large the split on these issues has been a city-country split. And those are the issues that are all too often deciding both state and national elections.

"I do not believe the American people will tolerate the increasing sterility of American politics.

"I say very little can be done by politicians to settle the issues which today dominate our politics. They are matters of social adjustment between the dying and the dawning of a social order."

MICHIGAN NOSES OUT MASSACHUSETTS FOR 1930 CENSUS RATING

Washington, June 30.—(AP)—For more than a hundred years Massachusetts had more people than Michigan, but Michigan now has more than Massachusetts.

In the 1930 lineup of the "big ten" states their respective ratings will read: Michigan, population 4,818,371, a 31.3 per cent increase; Massachusetts, 4,364,972, a 13.3 per cent increase.

The manufacturing census, still incomplete, probably will explain the interchange of population positions between Massachusetts and Michigan, with the motor car making gains for the latter state.

Of the world's output of 4,800,321 motor cars in 1925, 3,131,524 were made in Michigan.

More than half the state's population, or 2,980,194 persons, live in forty-one cities of 8,000 or more population. The lower peninsula of Michigan had a population of 4,517,478, while the upper peninsula had a population of 300,893.

NEW EVANSTON FIGURES.

Mrs. Martin K. Northam, census supervisor of the north shore district, issued revised figures last night on the populations of Evanston and Waukegan. Evanston, previously credited with a population of 61,766, actually has 62,622. Waukegan gained 128 in the new figures, making its population 33,558.

STRIKE DELAYS WORK ON RADIO STUDIO OF N. B. C.

Completion of the National Broadcasting company's model studio atop the Merchandise Mart building at Wells and Kinzie streets has been delayed by a strike of union electricians of Local No. 134, it was learned last night.

The strike was called, it was said by the union officials, as a part of their campaign to unionize radio station and studio employés. The installation of electrical equipment was said to have been about half completed when the walkout of electrical workers was ordered. It was intimated the strike will continue until arrangements are made for unionizing the broadcasting company's studio employés.

UNION OFFICIAL REPLIES TO KEGEL ON REFRIGERANTS

Martin P. Durkin, vice president of the Building Trades council and business agent of the Steamfitters' union, yesterday replied to the criticisms directed by Health Commissioner Kegel against the ordinance for the regulation of mechanical refrigerators sponsored by the city boiler inspection department. The city council tomorrow will be called upon to approve either the boiler department ordinance or the one drafted by Dr. Kegel.

"The boiler department ordinance specifies the use of proper materials and equipment and that all installations be made in a manner that will be a safeguard to life and health," said Durkin. "The boiler department, because of twenty-seven years of experience, is thoroughly familiar with refrigeration construction and is well qualified to deal with the engineering problems involved.

"The health department ordinance would give a few large manufacturers of self contained refrigerator units a monopoly. The ordinance is so framed that the additional cost of installation of the multiple systems would be prohibitive with no additional safety factors for the protection of health."

DAVIS REPORTS 66,846 GAIN BY MOOSE IN YEAR

Aurora, Ill., June 30.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who is director-general of the Loyal Order of Moose, today reported to the 42d annual convention of the fraternity at Mooseheart that the order gained 66,846 members last year.

Mr. Davis touched upon plans for construction of a million dollar high school, a chapel for all creeds and a $3,500,000 boys' village in the next three years at Mooseheart, where the vocational school and home for children of deceased members of the Moose is maintained. About 1,500 children are now at Mooseheart.

Plans for the boys' village call for the using af a 60 acre plot within the 1,063 acre tract at Mooseheart. About 25 new buildings will be erected, most of them two story cottages, housing 20 boys each.

"Count Buelow" Freed as Judge Dismisses Writ

Enrique Dechow, who called himself Count von Buelow, was granted his freedom yesterday by Judge Daniel P. Trude in the Criminal court when a wirt of habeas corpus seeking to have him sent to Indiana was dismissed. It was explained that, inasmuch as the governor had refused to grant extradition, the dismissal of the court proceedings was more or less of an automatic legal act. Mrs. Lottie Brenner, wealthy widow before her marriage, was seeking to have her husband tried for perjury.

Farmer Pleads Hard Times and Judge Remits His Fine

Justice gave way to farm relief yesterday in the Town Hall court. Arraigned for speeding, Oscar Schmidt, 30 year old farmer of Prairie du Chien, Wis., admitted the charge, but told Judge Frank M. Padden the low prices on grain and dairy products had left him poor this year. The judge remitted his fine.

"Glorious" Fourth Holds Dread for Many Mothers

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Just before dark on the Fourth of July we strolled over to the house of some friends. "Well," said the mother of the family in a comic despair, "what do you think Joe's been doing all day?" Joe was a junior in college.

"He's been shooting off fire crackers. He says he always had a safe and sane Fourth when he was a kid and now he's making up for it. I wish we had those safe and sane days back again."

So do I! Or perhaps where you spend the Fourth of July they don't observe the Fourth in the good old, bad old way. Let's hope they don't.

Where we spend our Fourth of July fireworks are permitted by law. Right across the border in the next state they're not. The result is that most of the mothers breathe a real prayer of thankfulness when the day is over—except, perhaps, the mother of an injured child.

Just to show that these are not merely the alarms of fearful mothers, I'll quote from a report. Lewis H. Carris, who is managing director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, says this: "Nearly all these accidents [Fourth of July] which result in impairment or destruction of vision by fireworks are preventable when parents supervise the various special toys which children use at this season. It is barbaric to exact human sacrifices, consisting principally of children, because of misguided enthusiasm in celebrating Independence day. A good way to show one's genuine patriotism is to work for a rational 'safe and sane' holiday which will conserve the limbs and sight of Americans, young and old alike.

"The great number of serious accidents which occur as the result of Fourth of July celebrations could be reduced materially if children were not permitted to drag out the holiday over periods of weeks before and after the event. Most of these accidents could easily be avoided by prohibiting strictly the public sale of fireworks before the first of July and after the fourth and by keeping fireworks out of the hands of very young children; each year, scores of little children of 3, 4, 5 years are injured by fireworks given them by older children or adults.

"At this time, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness should urge legislators and municipal officials throughout the country to reflect upon the wisdom of forbidding entirely the public sale of blank pistols, cannon crackers, rockets, Roman candles, and similar dangerous toys for celebrating."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Pitiful Situation.

"My father is dead and I am out of work. There are seven children in the family and we are all in need of clothing and my mother is continually worrying. If I had something decent to wear, perhaps I could get a job, and that would help some. I wear size 14 or 16; my brothers are 8, 12, and 16, and my sisters 6, 10, and 14 years old. R. B."

It takes more than the income of one girl to support a family of this size, and now that even her small salary has been removed these people find themselves in an extremely bad situation. If you will give them the clothing your children are discarding it would be of some assistance to them.

Paris Penchant for Pink Has Just Begun

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Fashionable life around Paris is distinctly rose colored these days, and, according to the experts, this penchant for pink is only beginning. The great Chanel is making sports clothes—dresses and wraps—entirely in pink material, and since Chanel dresses many of the most fashionable women in the world, pink has approval from the highest sources.

This color made good early this spring for evening dresses, but it is only lately, with the fine weather that the pink ensemble for summer sports has appeared in numbers.

The Chanel suit shown in our sketch is made of pink shantung, in a shade that is similar to what we know as sunset pink. The frock is sleeveless and is hand tucked from top to hemline. The skirt is also trimmed with stitched, bias bands that begin at the waistline, are angled like a chevron, and then run straight to the hem. There is a narrow belt of brown leather at the waistline of this one piece dress. The unlined coat is made of pink shantung, with tailored revers and collar, and with patch pockets at the sides. It is a bit longer than the hips—about wrist length. A pink and a brown flower are placed on the left lapel.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

All Wet.

My most embarrassing moment occurred while at work last summer. I was very much in love and as a result I did things in a sort of half daze. I was sitting at my typewriter, dreaming away, when I heard my boss call to me for dictation.

As a part of the routine of the office, I always stop to sharpen my pencil before entering his private office. As usual I picked up my notebook, etc., and was about to go through the usual routine when I noticed some men in the reception room smiling at one another. I glanced down and to my horror I was about to sharpen my pencil at the water cooler. V. M. B.

Asleep at the Switch.

I was caring for a patient in a Chicago hospital. Because the patient had such a restless night previously I allowed her to sleep during the morning. While reading at her bedside I must have fallen asleep for about five minutes, though it seemed less.

When I awakened the patient said, "Guess what happened. The doctor was just here!" Imagine my embarrassment. Whenever we meet now he has the most amused expression on his face. V. H. J.

The Hot House Skin Must Be Protected from Sun Exposure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It looks as if it is going to be a great outdoor summer. Women who turned their faces from the sun heretofore are threatening to try out the violet rays for what ails them. Anyway, I hear much talk about getting cut where the sun shines brightly. I'm bolstered in the belief that it is not all threat, but not for the reason you suspect.

It's them thyar new beach pajama costumes that will set a lot of women to joining up with the sun cultists. Women who lack the moral courage to face a beach audience in Kellermans or shorts have been touchingly provided for for beach lounging, if not bathing. Peans of praise are due the trade for thinking up such a bright idea. From the window displays I judge it is going to take more pressure to keep women indoors than out this coming sun season.

Secretly, women have wanted to adopt a pajama style, but while their designing was planned for boudoir or informal hostessing wear that left a goodly share of the sex out of consideration. Boudoir dressing up just isn't for the gal in a three room apartment. And informal hostessing is not for these of us who have to grab our tea at luncheon hour.

But beach pajamas for the Saturdays off, for the vacation spell—they're something else again. The style is approved because the nicest of them offer protection for the tender skinned. The large hats that are thrown in for good measure are particularly gratifying. Last year there were just hundreds of skin complaints following raw exposure of face and limb. And while we'd like to advocate fearlessness in the face of the sun god, it can't be done except by those favored darlings who tan enviously.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

K. G.: THE CUTICLE AT THE base of the nail requires most careful attention. It must be kept pushed back or the shape of the nail is destroyed. You may have my manicuring instructions for a stamped addressed envelope.

PAT H.: BONY HANDS MAY BE improved by massage. You may use cocoa butter or almond oil, or a good cold cream will serve. Wash the hands in warm water and then massage from the finger tips backward to the wrist. Apply the cream or oil liberally. Do this daily and in a month's time there will be an appreciable improvement.

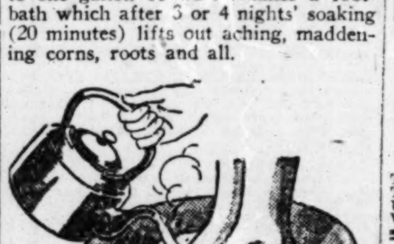
Joyous Foot Bath Then Lift Out

CORNS

Root and All—Out to Stay!

Two tablespoonfuls of that amazingly refreshing and foot-invigorating Radox to one gallon of water makes a footbath which after 3 or 4 nights' soaking (20 minutes) lifts out aching, maddening corns, roots and all.



Radox softens the hard outer layers of corn — and oxygen which Radox liberates, enters the pores, each night penetrating further and further, carrying the salts right to root of corn, which can be lifted out bodily.

Wonderful to take out pain and burning and refresh tired feet!

Get a package of Radox at any drugstore and know the joyous comfort of corn and callous free feet—Radox is the modern, scientific method to remove corns which completely eliminates old fashioned plasters, dangerous cutting, skin destroying acids and obsolete methods.

OFFERINGS

200 to 10,000 Square Feet.

The leasing of one of the city's largest office buildings, just completed, has involved assuming the unexpired term of leases in other buildings located in various sections of the loop and in units ranging from single private offices to offices exceeding 10,000 square feet. These leases run from one to two years, and in some cases carry provisions for extension up to seven or eight years. The space covered is located for the most part in the best office buildings in the Chicago loop district. A number of suites are available on both La Salle-st. and Michigan-av. Subleases will be entered into with responsible parties at rentals considerably below those called for in the leases assumed. If you are interested in a small or large office for a short or long term lease we will be glad to submit complete information on request. Please state approximate size of your requirements.
